I would like to gratefully acknowledge a number of people, without whom the completion of this volume would have not been possible. First, I thank Prof. Aldo Romano, who gave me the chance to engage in this project and also Ms Giustina Secundo for her ongoing and excellent work in organizing the eBMS's Advanced International Summer School, that has exposed me to the distinguished contributors of this work. Then, special gratitude goes to Professors Pierpaolo Andriani, Ernesto Damiani, Giuseppina Passiante and Andrea Prencipe, for having organized and led the research tracks and discussions in which most of the insights in this volume were collected. And last, but not least, Dr Alessandro Margherita for his enthusiasm and support.
