

Contents

List of Contributors	vii
Introduction by Arrigo Opocher and Neri Salvadori	ix
1. Does economic growth ultimately lead to a ‘noble life’? A comparative analysis of the predictions of Mill, Marshall and Keynes Arrigo Opocher	1
2. The debate on education financing in the classical perspective Mario Pomini	25
3. The role of the public sector in the thought of Hyman Minsky Giuseppe Mastromatteo	46
4. Economic progress and the standard of life: notes on a dynamic approach to needs and consumption Davide Gualerzi	78
5. The need for standards in students’ grading Valentino Dardanoni and Salvatore Modica	102
6. Education and endogenous growth in the neoclassical tradition Mario Pomini	115
7. Education and poverty in a Solow growth model Thomas Bassetti	133
8. Child mortality decline, inequality and economic growth Tamara Fioroni	160
9. Health funding, inequality and economic growth Davide Dottori	178

10. Education, change in consumer preferences and growth Renato Balducci	221
11. Unemployment in a system of labour-managed firms Bruno Jossa	238
12. Regulated wage economy and taxation systems: a long-run welfare and growth theoretical analysis and a policy exercise Luciano Fanti and Luca Gori	260
13. Sustainable development and energy trends Simone Borghesi and Alessandro Vercelli	289
14. Human needs, sustainable development and public policy: learning from K.W. Kapp (1910–1976) Tommaso Luzzati	305
15. Participatory planning of economic development: the co- evolution of economic theory and policy Martina Pignatti Morano	322
16. Political and economic interaction: income distribution and economic growth Francesco Purificato	341
Index	363