

Figures

I.1	The value net	3
1.1	Coopetitive interaction across multiple levels	35
2.1	The effect of time perspective on the definition of coopetition	45
2.2	Mapping the coopetitive landscape	47
2.3	The nature of coopetitive behaviours	49
3.1	Relationships between businesses and their possible dynamics	59
3.2	Sequence of development cycles	61
3.3	Emerging competition in the IOR development process	69
4.1	Ocasio's (1997) model of situated attention and firm behavior	82
4.2	Signalling and learning behavior in coopetition	82
4.3	Obfuscated learning in coopetitive spaces	90
5.1	Coopetitive gap bridging between the capabilities and opportunities of firms A and B at time t	106
6.1	Imposed coopetition	129
6.2	Structural complementary coopetition	131
6.3	Strategic coopetition	134
7.1	Third-party coopetition management: success conditions and key mechanisms	159
7.2	Mechanisms of third-party coopetition management: separating and bridging	160
8.1	Pay-offs of the PD game	171
8.2	Derived outcomes	174
9.1	Navigating between individual and collective fates within the oligopoly	196
10.1	Coopetitive business model with alternating competition-to-cooperation ratio throughout the value chain of an engine programme	208
10.2	Multiple different product life cycle stages in parallel within a company's engine programme portfolio	209
10.3	Multiple-point coopetition through varying intensities of competition occurring simultaneously at different product life cycle stages within a company's engine programme portfolio	210
10.4	Segregation of diverging interest structures through the erection of organisational firewalls	212

11.1	Convergence and its drivers: a conceptual framework	220
11.2	The many faces of convergence	230
11.3	A taxonomy of company connections and their outcomes	232
12.1	French vessels' tuna landings by destination	248
12.2	COBRECAF's position in the competition dynamics	249
12.3	Paul Paulet's and Pêche et Froid's operating results	250