

Contributors

Noriko Hataya is a Professor at the Faculty of Foreign Studies, Sophia University in Tokyo. Her research interests are in the fields of urbanization, rural–urban migration, and community organization and participation in Latin American countries, with special focus on Colombian civic resistance.

Kumiko Makino is a Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE), JETRO. Her research interests are in the fields of politics of social policy, HIV/AIDS and civil society in South Africa.

Katsuya Mochizuki is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE), JETRO. He majored in international studies at Tokyo University of Foreign Studies and has been engaged in many research projects on Africa since he joined the IDE. He has published articles on the issues of preventive diplomacy, human security, and peace building in recent years.

Mayumi Murayama is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE), JETRO in Japan. Her major research interest covers gender and employment-related issues in South Asia and Japan. She is the editor of Gender and Development: The Japanese Experiences in Comparative Perspective (Basingstoke: Palgrave Macmillan, 2005).

Kenji Otsuka is an Associate Senior Research Fellow in the Environment and Natural Resource Studies Group at the Interdisciplinary Studies Center, Institute of Developing Economies (IDE), JETRO. His research interests are in the fields of environmental issues and social change in China.

Shinichi Shigetomi is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE), JETRO. His research interests are in the fields of rural development, agricultural economics and civil society in Asia, with special focus on Thailand. He is the editor of The State and NGOs: Perspectives from Asia (Singapore: ISEAS, 2002).

Koichi Usami is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE), JETRO. He is studying social policies and the welfare state in Latin America, especially Argentina, and is interested in comparative studies of social policies among newly industrializing countries.

Akio Yonemura is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE), JETRO. His research interest is in the field of education development in Mexico.