About the authors

Markus Kallifatides (b. 1972) is an associate professor at the Stockholm School of Economics. His research interests span the social and cultural construction of managerial leadership, the role of the corporation in global relations, and corporate governance. He has contributed to Invisible Management (Thomson, 2001) and Corporate Citizenship in Africa (Greenleaf, 2006) and has recently been published in Critical Discourse Studies and Corporate Social Responsibility and Environmental Management.

Sophie Nachemson-Ekwall (b. 1964) is an award-winning business journalist who has worked for a variety of leading news publications in Sweden for the past 20 years. She is the co-author of two books: Lethal Management: The History of the ABB Crash (Ekerlids Förlag, 2004), and Rain of Gold: The Tale of Skandia (Mån-pocket, 2005). She has been enrolled as a doctoral candidate at the Stockholm School of Economics since 2006, where she is pursuing research in corporate governance with a particular interest in the evolving European regulatory framework of contests of corporate control and takeovers.

Sven-Erik Sjöstrand (b. 1945) has been Professor of Business Administration at the Stockholm School of Economics (SSE) since 1978, and is the current holder of the Matts Carlgren chair in Management. He has also been the Head of SSE's Centre for Management Studies since 1977, where he leads a staff of about 20 researchers. His own ongoing research addresses corporate government, corporate control and general management issues. Sjöstrand has been a board member on both listed companies and large state-controlled organizations, and has also been a senior adviser to controlling shareholders, boards of directors and CEOs of large Nordic corporations. Sjöstrand's list of publications in English includes: Organizational Myths (Harper & Row, 1979); Institutional Change: Theory and Empirical Findings (M.E. Sharpe, 1993); On Economic Institutions – Theory and Applications (Edward Elgar, 1995); The Two Faces of Management: The Janus Factor (Thomson, 1997); Invisible Management (Thomson, 2001); and Aesthetic Leadership (Palgrave, 2007). Sjöstrand has also published books in Chinese, Finnish, German and Swedish (approximately 25 titles).
