

Index

- aggregate corporation tax revenue
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 150, 155, 166–7
 - corporation tax buoyancy in the UK 17–18
 - corporation tax receipts 10–12, 14–17
 - economic cycles in aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 40–42
 - OECD countries 8–9, 10, 13
 - public expenditure demand 5, 9, 219
 - small firms 37, 215
 - UK 14–18, 167–8, 203
 - volatility 6, 9–13, 14, 15, 23, 167, 213, 219–20
- aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 40–45
 - see also* aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations
- aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations
 - alternative group deductions claiming 164–6
 - benchmark case 151–5
 - importance 166–7
 - overview 22, 149–50, 219–20
 - revenue elasticities over the long run 162–4
 - simulation procedure 150–151
 - variations from the benchmark case 155–62
- aggregate declared profit response simulations
 - behavioural response estimates 188–91
 - overview of simulation model properties 185–7
 - profit growth cycles 193–4
 - simulation parameters 191–3
- aggregate declared profits 185, 195
 - see also* aggregate declared profit response simulations; aggregate deductions to declared profits ratio; declared profits; individual aggregate elasticities of declared profits; individual elasticities of declared profits; individual partial elasticities of declared profits
- aggregate declared profits to net profits ratio 186
- aggregate deductions to declared profits ratio 121–2
- aggregate elasticity of corporation tax revenue with respect to aggregate profits 202–3
- aggregate elasticity of corporation tax revenue with respect to tax rate changes 102, 188, 189, 201
- aggregate elasticity of declared profits with respect to tax rate changes 185, 199, 204–6, 207
- aggregate elasticity of deductions with respect to declared profits 195, 196–7, 199, 204, 205–7
- aggregate elasticity of deductions with respect to tax rate changes 204, 205
 - see also* aggregate partial elasticity of deductions with respect to tax rate changes
- aggregate elasticity of gross profits with respect to tax rate changes 185, 203
- aggregate elasticity of net profit with respect to declared profit 95–6, 97, 98–102, 194, 217–18

- aggregate elasticity of net profits with respect to tax rate changes
 - behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes simulation 195–8, 199–201, 202–5, 207, 221
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 185
- aggregate elasticity of proportion of declared deductions with respect to tax rate changes 185, 199, 201, 203
- aggregate elasticity of proportion of declared profits with respect to tax rate changes 190, 199, 201, 203
- aggregate gross profits 98, 99, 100
- aggregate losses 100–103, 150, 155
- aggregate net taxable profits 98, 99, 150
- aggregate partial elasticity of deductions with respect to declared profits 185, 191
- aggregate partial elasticity of deductions with respect to tax rate changes 185, 203
- aggregate profits 39, 155
- Altshuler, R. 48, 79, 103
- Auerbach, A.J. 48–9, 55–6, 72, 79, 94, 103, 170, 171, 183, 195, 209
- automatic/endogenous behavioural responses
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 84–5, 86–7, 105–6, 217–18
 - simulation 198, 201, 202–7, 220–221
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 182–5
- autonomous behavioural responses
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 188–91
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 84, 85–6, 93–104
 - simulation 201, 203–7
- average corporation tax rate
- corporation tax fiscal drag in the UK 19
- corporation tax revenue elasticity 28, 34
- corporation tax revenue elasticity in the UK 35, 36, 37
- see also* effective average tax rate (EATR) changes; implicit average tax rate
- average profit growth rates 151–2
- Bakker, A. 116
- banks 189
- Bartelsman, E.J. 49, 76, 87–8, 169, 188, 189
- Beetsma, R.M.W.J. 49, 76, 87–8, 169, 188, 189
- behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 161–2
 - behavioural elasticity components 81–2
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 50, 60–64, 100–104, 105–6, 216, 218
 - declared profits and deductions 80–81
 - decomposition for a single firm 179–85
 - economic cycles 85, 93–104, 217–18
 - expected signs 83–7
 - illustrative examples 87–93
 - modelling corporation tax revenue, importance of 5, 9
 - net taxable profits 78–80
 - overview 22, 75–7, 216–18
 - responses over economic cycles 93–104
 - types 49–50, 75, 77–8
 - see also* automatic/endogenous behavioural responses; autonomous behavioural responses; behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes; behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes simulation; deductions shifting; income shifting; non-corporate firm status; profit shifting; real deductions responses; real employment responses; real investment responses; real profit responses; real responses
- behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes
 - simulation
 - benchmark results 195–8
 - declared deductions to declared profits ratio 195
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 179–85
 - economic cycles 195–8, 221
 - overview 22, 169–71, 220–221
 - sensitivity analysis 199–207
 - simple corporate tax model 171–9

- simulation model properties 185–94
 behavioural response estimates 188–91
 profit growth cycles 193–4
 simulation parameters 191–3
 behavioural responses of shareholders to corporation tax rate changes 5 behavioural responses of workers to corporation tax rate changes 5, 214 behavioural responses to income tax regime changes 61, 75, 83, 104, 180 booms see economic cycles business cycles see economic cycles
- capital allowance growth 159
 capital allowance pools 129, 130, 151, 174, 177
 capital allowances
 aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 151, 159, 160, 164, 167, 220
 aggregate declared profit response simulations 186–7
 behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 83, 95
 simulation 197
 corporation tax revenue elasticity 30–31
 decomposing behavioural elasticities 184
 economic cycles in aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 40, 41
 modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 135, 136, 137, 138–9
 modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 128–33, 225–30
 profit growth cycles 194
 simple corporate tax model 174, 175–8
 UK 95, 129, 175
- Clausing, K.A. 103, 189–91, 192 complexity, in modelling corporation tax revenue 213–14
 consolidated accounting 33
 Cooper, M. 48, 49, 103
 corporation tax accruals 14–16, 17
see also corporation tax liabilities corporation tax base 134, 168 corporation tax buoyancy 14–18, 155, 157
 corporation tax compliance 18, 219 corporation tax credits 19, 78–9 corporation tax evasion/avoidance 82, 182 corporation tax exemptions 5 corporation tax fiscal drag 13–14, 17, 18–20, 215 corporation tax liabilities
 behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes simulation 206–7 calculation 20
 corporation tax accruals 14–16, 17
 corporation tax loss asymmetries in a single corporation with more than one profit source 52, 54–5, 56, 57–8, 59, 60
 corporation tax revenue elasticity 27, 28–9, 34
 UK 34–5, 36–7
 net profit changes 62–3
 net taxable profit composition 78
 profit shifting 60–61
 simple corporate tax model 173
 corporation tax liability growth 27–8
 corporation tax loss asymmetries
 aggregate declared profit response simulations 192–3, 220
 behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 50, 60–64, 100–104, 105–6, 216, 218
 simulation 197
 economic cycles 48, 50, 56, 65–72, 100–104, 105–6, 170, 216, 235–44
 investment 48–9, 79
 OECD countries 47, 53, 103
 overview 21–2, 47–50, 215–16
 single corporation with more than one profit source (see corporation tax loss asymmetries in a single corporation with more than one profit source)
 UK 47, 48, 79, 103, 170, 173, 187
 US 48–9, 56, 72, 79, 103, 170
 corporation tax loss asymmetries in a single corporation with more than one profit source losses and deductions 51–6, 223–4 numerical example 56–60
 simple corporate tax model 173
 corporation tax loss symmetries 55, 56 corporation tax rate changes
 aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 161–2
 corporation tax buoyancy in the UK 18
 ‘lost revenues’ 7
 net profit changes 62, 63, 64
 OECD countries 6, 7
 profit shifting 60–61, 62

- public debt 7
- simple corporate tax model 171–2
- small firms 19, 161–2, 215
- UK 19, 51, 161–2, 168
- see also* corporation tax rates; effective average tax rate (EATR) changes; single corporation tax rate; two corporation tax rates; individual aggregate elasticities with respect to tax rate changes; individual elasticities with respect to tax rate changes; individual partial elasticities with respect to tax rate changes
- corporation tax rates
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 150
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 186–7
 - corporation tax liability calculation 20
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 47–8
 - in a single corporation with more than one profit source 55, 56, 57, 223–4
 - UK 19, 34, 35, 36, 37–8, 51, 161–2, 168
 - see also* average corporation tax rate; corporation tax rate changes; effective average tax rate (EATR) changes; implicit average tax rate; marginal corporation tax rates; single corporation tax rate; two corporation tax rates
- corporation tax receipts 10–12, 14–17
 - see also* aggregate corporation tax revenue; corporation tax revenue
- corporation tax refunds 19–20, 72
- corporation tax revenue
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes over the economic cycle 103–4
 - economic cycles in aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 40–42
 - large firms 37–8
 - see also* aggregate corporation tax revenue; corporation tax revenue elasticity; corporation tax revenue forecasting; corporation tax revenue growth
- corporation tax revenue elasticity
 - aggregate revenue elasticity 39–45
 - defined 14, 27–8, 215
 - economic cycles 33–4, 40–45, 215
 - elasticity of deductions with respect to gross profits 28, 30–34
 - fiscal drag 14, 215
 - overview 215
 - single firms 27–9
 - tax schedule in UK 34–8
 - see also* aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations; individual aggregate elasticities of corporation tax revenues; individual elasticities of corporation tax revenues; individual partial elasticities of corporation tax revenues
- corporation tax revenue forecasting 5–6, 23, 166–7, 213
- corporation tax revenue growth
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 154, 156, 157, 162–3, 166–7, 219
 - economic cycles in aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 41–2, 43, 44, 45
 - fiscal drag 14, 18
 - tax buoyancy 13, 15
- corporation tax rules 82, 85, 130–131, 183
- corporation tax schedule changes 9, 13, 18, 161–2
- corporation tax schedules 5, 9, 13–14, 34–8
- CorpSim
 - model properties 21–2, 185–7, 214
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 137–46
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 132–3
 - see also* aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations; aggregate declared profit response simulations; behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes simulation; modelling the distribution of profits in the UK
- cost efficiency, importance of and modelling corporation tax revenue 4
- costs of behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes 82, 89, 171, 195
- Creedy, J. 4, 18, 75, 78, 116
- current losses 135–6, 144, 164
- cycles, economic see economic cycles

- data
- HMRC (UK Revenue and Customs department) 14–15, 16, 110, 112–22, 152, 154, 158, 186, 193
 - household models 213, 218
 - Office of National Statistics 16–17
 - scarcity, in modelling corporation tax revenue 21, 213, 222
- declared deductions
- aggregate declared profit response simulations 186–7, 192
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 80–81, 82, 84–5, 89, 90, 180
 - simulation 195
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 181
 - simple corporate tax model 173
 - see also* declared deductions to declared profits ratio; proportion of deductions declared; individual aggregate elasticities of declared deductions; individual elasticities of declared deductions; individual partial elasticities of declared deductions
- declared deductions to declared profits ratio 81, 92, 195
- declared profits
- aggregate declared profit response simulations 186–7, 192
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 80–81, 82, 83–4, 85, 89, 90, 180
 - over the economic cycle 96, 97, 98
 - simulation 195, 204–5, 206
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 181, 184, 185
 - defined 193
 - profit growth cycles 193, 194
 - simple corporate tax model 171, 172, 173, 174, 175–7, 178
 - see also* aggregate declared profits; aggregate declared profits to net profits ratio; declared deductions to declared profits ratio; declared profits to tax base ratio; proportion of profits declared; individual aggregate elasticities of declared profits; individual elasticities of declared profits; individual partial elasticities of declared profits
- declared profits to tax base ratio
- aggregate declared profit response simulations 186, 191
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 81, 82, 83, 85, 86, 88, 89, 90, 92, 93, 217
 - over the economic cycle 94
 - simulation 195, 196, 204, 206–7
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 181, 184, 185
- deductions
- aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 150, 151, 154, 159–60, 163–6, 167
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 186, 187
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 80–81, 217
 - simulation 198, 202–3, 220–221
 - composition 30
 - corporation tax fiscal drag in the UK 19, 20
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries in a single corporation with more than one profit source 51–2
 - corporation tax revenue elasticity 27, 28, 29, 30–31, 33–4, 215
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 182–5
 - defined 20
 - economic cycles in aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 40, 41
 - economic cycles in corporation tax revenue elasticity 33–4
 - fixed order of deductions 136–7, 164–6
 - net taxable profit composition 78
 - profit growth cycles 193–4
 - simple corporate tax model 172–9
 - see also* capital allowances; declared deductions; deductions growth; deductions shifting; group relief; investment expenditures; loss deductions rate; losses claimed against profits; modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK; modelling deductions of single firms in the UK; qualifying expenditures; real deductions responses; individual aggregate elasticities of deductions; individual aggregate partial elasticities of deductions;

- individual elasticities of deductions*
- deductions growth 194–5
- deductions rate see loss deductions rate
- deductions shifting
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 188, 190, 191, 192
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 81, 82, 84, 90, 91, 92, 93
 - simulation 199–201, 204, 205, 206
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181, 182, 184
- Demirgüç-Kunt, A. 49, 169, 188, 189
- depreciation rate
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 129, 130
 - simple corporate tax model 174, 176, 177, 178
- depressions see economic cycles; global recession (2008–2010)
- Devereux, M.P. 6, 7–9, 48, 54, 76, 79, 80, 167–8, 169
- Dischinger, M. 49
- discount rate, and corporation tax loss asymmetries 52, 54, 58
- domestic banks 189
- domestic firms 76, 169–70, 185, 192
- Donnelly, M. 47, 53
- dynamics of gross profits 122–5, 231–4
- economic cycles
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 40–45
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations
 - benchmark case 151–5, 165
 - revenue elasticities over the long run 162–4, 165
 - variations from the benchmark case 155–62
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 192–3
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 85, 93–104, 217–18
 - simulation 195–8, 221
 - sensitivity analysis 199–207
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 48, 50, 56, 65–72, 100–104, 105–6, 170, 216, 235–44
 - corporation tax revenue elasticity 33–4, 40–45, 215
 - modelling corporation tax revenue, importance of 6
 - profit growth 192–4
 - simple corporate tax model 174–9
- Edgerton, J. 48, 79
- effective average tax rate (EATR) changes
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes over the economic cycle 104
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 49, 216
 - in a single corporation with more than one profit source 52–3, 54, 55
 - OECD countries 8, 9
 - profit shifting 7–8
 - US 48–9, 72, 94, 103, 170
- effective marginal tax rates (EMTRs) 8
- effective rebate rate 47–8, 52, 70
- efficiency of corporation tax collection 18
- elasticity of corporation tax revenue with respect to gross profits 34–8
- elasticity of corporation tax revenue with respect to net profits 34–8
- elasticity of corporation tax revenue with respect to net to gross profit ratio
 - corporation tax buoyancy 13
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 63, 64
 - over the economic cycle 65–6, 67–8, 69, 70, 71
- elasticity of corporation tax revenue with respect to tax rate changes
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 78, 88
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 63, 64
 - over the economic cycle 66, 67, 70–71, 72
- elasticity of declared deductions with respect to declared profits
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 85, 86–7, 89, 93
 - over the economic cycle 93, 94, 104
- elasticity of declared deductions with respect to tax rate changes 82, 85, 89
- elasticity of declared profits with respect to gross profits 184, 185
- elasticity of declared profits with respect to tax rate changes
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 82, 84, 85–6, 88, 89

- over the economic cycle 94
- decomposing behavioural elasticities 181, 184, 185
- elasticity of deductions with respect to gross profits 28, 30–34
- elasticity of deductions with respect to tax rate changes 180, 181, 183, 184
- elasticity of gross profit with respect to tax rate changes
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 82, 89, 90, 93, 217
 - simulation 201
- decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181–2, 183, 185
- elasticity of net profit with respect to declared profit
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes over the economic cycle 94, 95, 96, 97, 98
 - profit growth cycles 194
 - see also* aggregate elasticity of net profit with respect to declared profit
- elasticity of net profit with respect to tax rate changes
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 79–80, 82, 83, 85–6, 87–93, 217
 - over the economic cycle 93–104
- decomposing behavioural elasticities 179–85, 220
- elasticity of net profits with respect to gross profits 34, 35
- elasticity of net to gross profit ratio with respect to tax rate changes 63, 64, 66, 70, 71–2
- elasticity of proportion of declared deductions with respect to gross profits 185
- elasticity of proportion of declared profits with respect to gross profits 185
- elasticity of proportion of deductions declared with respect to tax rate
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 82, 88, 89, 90, 93, 217
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181, 182, 184, 185
- elasticity of proportion of profits declared with respect to tax rate
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 82, 88, 89, 90, 93, 217
 - simulation 201
- decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181–2, 184, 185
- elasticity of qualifying expenditure with respect to declared profits 83–5, 89, 93
- elasticity of qualifying expenditures with respect to tax rate 82, 83–4
- elasticity of taxable income with respect to the net-of tax /retention rate 61, 75, 83, 104, 180
- eligible expenditures see qualifying expenditures
- endogenous behavioural responses see automatic/endogenous behavioural responses
- enforcement of tax rules 82
- equivalent tax function
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 54–5, 56, 57–8, 59, 60, 216
 - in a single corporation with more than one profit source 54–5, 56, 57–8, 59, 60
- profit-shifting 60–62
- Europe 88, 189
 - see also* Ireland; UK
- excess capital allowances
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 164
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 133, 135, 136
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 130, 131, 132, 133, 225–6, 228, 229
- expected future losses 52, 53, 62, 128, 135–6
- expected future profits
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 52, 53, 57
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 135–6
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 128, 130, 131
- profit-shifting 62
- expenditures, qualifying see qualifying expenditures
- Feldstein, M. 61, 75, 76, 83, 104, 180
- financial firms 16–17, 168
- firms see behavioural responses of firms
 - to corporation tax rate changes; behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes simulation; domestic banks;

- domestic firms; financial firms;
foreign banks; foreign subsidiaries;
groups of firms; large firms;
multinational banks; multinational corporations; non-corporate firm status; non-financial firms; single firms; small firms
- fiscal depreciation rules 128, 129, 172, 186, 190
- fiscal drag 13–14, 17, 18–20, 215
- fixed order of deductions 136–7, 164–6
- forecasting see corporation tax revenue forecasting
- foreign banks 189
- foreign investment 88–9, 189
- foreign-source income 110–111
- foreign subsidiaries 82
- future losses see expected future losses
- future profits see expected future profits
- GDP and corporation tax revenue relationship 8–9, 10, 13, 168, 213
- GDP growth, and corporation tax buoyancy in the UK 15, 16, 17
- Gemmell, N. 4, 18, 78
- global recession (2008–2010) 7, 9–13
- globalisation, and importance of modelling corporation tax revenue
3, 6–7
- Gresik, T.A. 75
- gross operating surplus of financial and non-financial companies (F+NF GOS) 16–17
- gross profit growth
aggregate corporation tax revenue
elasticity simulations 159, 162–4
corporation tax buoyancy in the UK
15, 16, 17
corporation tax revenue elasticity 28, 29
- gross profits
aggregate corporation tax revenue
elasticity simulations 150, 151, 159 behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 80–81, 83, 89, 180
over the economic cycle 96, 97–8, 99, 100–102, 103
simulation 195, 196–7, 220
consolidated accounting in corporation tax revenue elasticity 33
corporation tax fiscal drag in the UK
19
- corporation tax loss asymmetries 51,
52, 53–4, 55, 56, 57, 58–9, 79
over the economic cycle 67, 71, 72
in a single corporation with more than one profit source 51, 52,
53–4, 55, 56, 57, 58–9
- corporation tax revenue elasticity 27,
28, 29, 30–31, 34
- decomposing behavioural elasticities
183, 184
- defined 20, 109–10, 154
- economic cycles in aggregate
corporation tax revenue elasticity
41
- economic cycles in corporation tax revenue elasticity 33–4
- group relief deductions in corporation
tax revenue elasticity 31, 32
- mobility, empirical analysis 231–2
- modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 133, 134–6, 137, 138
- modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 127–8
- net taxable profit composition 78
- profit shifting 61, 62
- profit growth cycles 193, 194
- simple corporative tax model 172
see also aggregate gross profits;
dynamics of gross profits; gross profit growth; modelling the distribution of profits in the UK; net to gross profits ratio;
*individual aggregate elasticities of gross profits; individual aggregate partial elasticities of gross profits;
individual elasticities of gross profits*
- group loss pools 138, 139
- group losses
aggregate corporation tax revenue
elasticity simulations 164–6, 167
corporation tax loss asymmetries 173
modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 133–6, 137–9
- group net taxable profits 136, 137–8, 139
- group profits (net of taxable allowances)
138–9
- group relief
aggregate corporation tax revenue
elasticity simulations 159, 164
aggregate declared profit response simulations 187
consolidated accounting 33

- corporation tax loss asymmetries 47, 53, 173
- corporation tax revenue elasticity 31–2
 - see also* modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK
- Gruber, J. 83, 181–2
- Grubert, H. 76, 82, 88, 169, 188, 190
- Heinemann, F. 18
- Hines, J.R. 76, 88–9, 169, 188, 189
- HMRC (UK Revenue and Customs department) 14–15, 16, 110, 112–22, 152, 154, 158, 186, 193
- household microsimulation models 213, 214, 218
- Hubbard, R.G. 76, 80, 169
- Huizinga, H. 49, 76, 88, 169, 188, 189
- implicit average tax rate 48, 56
- income shifting
 - behavioural response to corporation tax rate changes 49–50, 75, 82
 - defined 49–50, 75, 80–81, 169, 217
 - multinational corporations 76
 - see also* deductions shifting; profit shifting
- income taxes
 - behavioural responses to tax regime changes 61, 75, 83, 104, 180
 - fiscal drag 18–19
- indirect taxes 18
- industrial buildings investment 129–30
- international competition in corporation tax rates 6–8
- international corporation tax rates 6–9
- investment expenditures
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 151, 153, 159, 160, 164
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 186–7, 189
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 83–4, 88–9
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 48–9, 79
 - corporation tax revenue elasticity 30
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 182
 - economic cycles in aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 40, 41
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 128–30
 - simple corporate tax model 172, 174
 - Ireland 7, 10–11
 - Klemm, A. 48
 - Knittel, M. 48, 49, 103
 - labour supply effects of tax and transfer changes 5, 214
 - Laeven, L. 49, 76, 88, 169, 188, 189
 - large firms 37–8, 161, 185, 203
 - see also* multinational corporations
 - loan-relationship loss pools
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 137, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 130, 131, 132, 133
 - loan-relationship losses
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 134–5, 137, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144–6
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 130, 131, 132–3
 - loan-relationship profits
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 150, 151, 153, 158
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 186
 - distribution of profits in the UK 110, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116–17, 118–20, 121, 122, 124–5
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 134–5, 137, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 127–9, 130, 131, 132, 133, 225–30
 - long run aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 162–4, 167
 - loss deductions rate
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 186–7
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 80, 81, 84–5, 89, 90, 92
 - over the economic cycle 95
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries over the economic cycle 65–6, 67–8, 69, 70–71
 - in a single corporation with more than one profit source 54, 55–6, 57, 58–60, 223
 - distribution of profits in the UK 111

- net profit changes 63, 64
- profit shifting 62
- loss pools
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes
 - over the economic cycle 96, 98, 100
 - simulation 196
- corporation tax loss asymmetries 47, 52, 54
- economic cycles in aggregate
 - corporation tax revenue elasticity 40, 41
- modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 137–8, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146
- simple corporate tax model 175, 178–9
 - see also* group loss pools; loan-relationship loss pools; trading loss pools
- loss to profit ratio 56
- losses
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 150, 154, 155, 156, 159, 160, 162, 164–6, 167
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 186, 187
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 83
 - over the economic cycle 96, 97, 98, 99, 100–103
 - corporation tax buoyancy in the UK 15
 - corporation tax fiscal drag in the UK 19–20
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 79, 216
 - over the economic cycle 67–8, 69–70, 71, 72
 - in a single corporation with more than one profit source 51–2, 53–4, 55, 56, 57, 58–9
 - corporation tax revenue elasticity 30, 33
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 182–3, 184
 - distribution of profits in the UK 111
 - group relief deductions in corporation tax revenue elasticity 31–2
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 133–6, 137–46
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 130–131, 132–3, 225–30
 - profit shifting 61
 - profit growth cycles 193, 194
 - simple corporate tax model 172, 173, 175, 176, 178–9
 - sizes 48, 102–3, 216
 - UK 48, 103
 - see also* aggregate losses; corporation tax loss asymmetries; current losses; expected future losses; group losses; loan-relationship losses; loss deductions rate; loss pools; loss to profit ratio; losses claimed against profits; past losses; proportion of losses used as group relief to offset profits; 'stranded losses'; trading losses
- losses claimed against profits
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 155, 159, 160, 164–5, 167, 220
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 186, 187
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes
 - over the economic cycle 94–5, 96, 103, 105–6, 218
 - simulation 195, 197, 198
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 47, 216
 - in a single corporation with more than one profit source 51–2, 53–4, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59–60, 173
 - corporation tax revenue elasticity 30–31
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 184
 - economic cycles in aggregate
 - corporation tax revenue elasticity 40, 41
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 135–6, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144–6
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 130–131, 132, 133
 - profit shifting 62
 - simple corporate tax model 172, 173, 175, 176–7, 178–9
- 'lost revenues' 7
- marginal corporation tax rates
 - corporation tax fiscal drag in the UK 19
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries in a single corporation with more than one profit source 51

- corporation tax revenue elasticity 28, 34, 35, 36
 - see also* effective marginal tax rates (EMTRs)
- marginal relief fractions 34, 35, 36, 37
- Markusen, J.R. 76, 169
- McCrae, J. 48
- minimisation of group net taxable profits
 - see* modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK
- mixture distribution of profits, modelling the distribution of profits in the UK 114–17, 119
- modelling corporation tax revenue
 - constraints 213–14
 - future research 23, 209, 214
 - importance 3, 4–7, 166–7
 - as under-explored 3–4, 213
 - see also* CorpSim
- modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK
 - illustrative examples 137–43
 - further details of Case 2 144–6
 - overview 133–4
 - priorities in claiming group deductions 134–7
- modelling deductions of single firms in the UK
 - calculating net profits 225–30
 - capital allowances 128–30
 - illustrative example 132–3
 - overview 22, 127–8, 218–19
 - priorities in claiming deductions 130–132
 - use of losses 130
- modelling the distribution of profits in the UK
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 150
 - dynamics of profits 122–5, 231–4
 - form of the distribution 112–14
 - mixture of the distribution 114–17
 - overview 22, 110–111, 218
 - simulating the joint distribution 117–22
- multinational banks 189
- multinational corporations
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 47
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 185
 - profit shifting 7–8, 87–9, 169, 188–91, 192
 - real responses 76, 88–9, 169, 190–191
- Mutti, J. 169
- negative corporation tax buoyancy in the UK 117
- negative corporation tax revenue growth
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 156, 166–7
 - economic cycles in aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 42, 43, 44, 45
- negative net profits 67–8, 69–70, 71, 72
 - see also* losses
- negative profit growth 42, 43, 44, 45, 156–7
- net taxable profit thresholds 34, 35–6, 37, 38
- net taxable profits
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 150, 163–4
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 79–80, 81
 - over the economic cycle 96, 97–8, 103
 - simulation 206–7
- composition 78–9
- corporation tax liability calculation 20
- corporation tax loss asymmetries 62–4
 - over the economic cycle 67–8
 - in a single corporation with more than one profit source 56
- corporation tax revenue elasticity 27, 28, 34, 35–8
- decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181, 185
- defined 20, 193
- distribution of profits in the UK 111
- economic cycles in aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 40–41
- modelling deductions see modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK; modelling deductions of single firms in the UK
- multiple corporation tax rates in the UK 19
- profit growth cycles 193–4
- profit shifting 60–61
- simple corporative tax model 172–3, 176
- see also* aggregate net taxable profits; group net taxable profits; group profits (net of taxable allowances); modelling the distribution of profits in the UK; negative net profits; net taxable profit thresholds; net to gross profits

- ratio; profit changes; profit growth; profit growth rate; profit shifting; zero net profits; individual aggregate elasticities of net profits; individual aggregate partial elasticities of net profits; individual elasticities of net profits
- net to gross profits ratio
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 163–4
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries over the economic cycle 65–9, 70–72
 - net profit changes 62, 63, 64
 - profit shifting 61, 62
 - UK 170
- non-corporate firm status 76, 170
- non-financial firms 16–17
- OECD countries
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 47, 53, 103
 - corporation tax rates 6, 7
 - corporation tax revenues 8–9, 10, 13
 - effective average tax rates (EATRs) 8, 9
 - profit shifting 87–8, 188, 191
 - volatility of corporation tax revenue 6
- Office of National Statistics (UK) 16–17
- partial elasticity of declared deductions with respect to tax rate changes 85–6, 94
- partial elasticity of declared profits with respect to gross profits 184, 185
- partial elasticity of declared profits with respect to tax rate changes 189
- partial elasticity of deductions with respect to declared profits 184
- partial elasticity of deductions with respect to gross profits 183–4, 185
- partial elasticity of loss deduction ratio with respect to net to gross profit ratio 63, 64, 65, 68, 71
- partial elasticity of qualifying expenditure with respect to tax rate changes 84, 89, 90, 92, 217
- partial elasticity of tax revenue with respect to loss deduction rate 63–4, 65
- partial elasticity of tax revenue with respect to net to gross profit ratio 63–4, 65, 71
- past losses
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 164–5
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes simulation 198
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 52
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 182–3
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 135–6, 137, 138
 - simple corporate tax model 172, 173, 175
- plant and machinery investment 129–30
- positive corporation tax buoyancy in the UK 117
- Poterba, J.M. 170, 183
- present value of corporation tax liabilities 52, 53, 54, 57, 59, 215–16
- profit changes 157–9
 - see also* profit growth
- profit distribution 39
 - see also* modelling the distribution of profits in the UK
- profit growth
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 40–42, 43, 44, 45
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 191–4
 - behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes simulation 195–9, 201–3, 221
 - corporation tax revenue elasticity 14
 - economic cycles 40–42, 43, 44, 45, 192–4
 - fiscal drag 13–14
 - tax buoyancy 13, 15
 - UK 192–3
- profit growth rate
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 151–7, 158–9, 161, 162–4, 167
 - distribution of profits in the UK 122, 123, 125
- profit offsets see deductions
- profit shifting
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 188–91, 192
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 81, 82, 84, 90, 91, 92, 93
 - over the economic cycle 96
 - simulation 199–201, 202–3, 204–7
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 49–50, 60–62, 216
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181, 182, 184
 - defined 50, 169

- domestic firms 192
- Europe 88, 189
- international corporation tax rates
 - 7–8
- multinational corporations 7–8, 87–9, 169, 188–90, 192
- OECD countries 87–8, 188, 191
- UK 88, 188
- US 88–9, 94, 189–91, 192, 209
- profit sources 21–2, 110, 214
 - see also* loan-relationship profits; trading profits
- profits
 - accounting definitions 20, 103, 109–10, 154
 - corporation tax buoyancy in the UK 15
 - corporation tax fiscal drag in the UK 19–20
 - modelling corporation tax revenue, importance of 5, 6
 - size 19, 220–221
 - volatility 6
 - see also* declared profits; expected future profits; gross profits; loan-relationship profits; modelling the distribution of profits in the UK; negative profit growth; net taxable profits; profit distribution; profit growth; profit growth rate; profit shifting; profit sources; proportion of investment to total current-plus-lagged profits; proportion of losses used as group relief to offset profits; proportion of profits declared; real profit responses; trading profits; weighted average of current and previous profits; zero profits, in accounting definition of declared profits
- progressive taxes 18
- proportion of deductions declared
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 80, 81, 82, 89, 90, 91, 92–3
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181, 183
- proportion of investment to total current-plus-lagged profits 153
- proportion of losses used as group relief to offset profits 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144–6
- proportion of profits declared
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 80, 81, 82, 84, 89, 90, 91, 92–3
- behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes over the economic cycle 96
- decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181, 183, 184
- public debt 7
- public expenditure demand, and importance of corporation tax revenue 5, 9, 219
- Puerto Rico 88
- qualifying expenditures
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 80–81, 82, 83–5, 89, 90–93, 217
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 182, 183–4
 - simple corporate tax model 172
- qualifying expenditures to gross profits ratio 81, 89, 90–93
- 'race to the bottom,' corporation tax rates in OECD countries 6
- real deductions responses
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 191–2
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 82, 90, 91, 92–3
 - simulation 204, 205, 206
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181, 182–3, 184
- real employment responses 190–191
- real investment responses 88–9, 169, 189–90
- real profit responses
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 191–2
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 82, 83–4, 89–90, 91, 92
 - simulation 204–6
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181, 182, 184
 - US 88–9
- real responses
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 190–192
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 61, 82
 - costs 82
 - decomposing behavioural elasticities 180, 181, 182–3

- defined 49, 75, 80, 217
 domestic firms 76
 multinational corporations 76, 88–9, 169, 190–191
 qualifying expenditures 80–81, 83–4, 89
 US 88–9, 190–191, 192
see also real deductions responses; real employment responses; real investment responses; real profit responses
- recessions see economic cycles; global recession (2008–2010)
- research and development tax credits 78–9
- Rice, E.M. 76, 88–9, 169, 188, 189
- Saez, E. 83, 181–2
- sensitivity analysis, behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes simulation 199–207
- shareholders 5
- single corporation tax rate
 corporation tax rates 161–2
 corporation tax revenue elasticity 27
 fiscal drag 19
 net taxable profit composition 78
 simple corporate tax model 171–9
- single firms
 corporation tax revenue elasticity 27–9
 decomposing behavioural elasticities 179–85
 simulation procedures, in aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 150, 152, 153–5, 156
see also corporation tax loss asymmetries in a single corporation with more than one profit source; modelling deductions of single firms in the UK
- Slemrod, J. 75, 76, 82, 88, 169, 188, 190
- small firm corporation tax rate 19, 161–2, 215
- small firms 19, 37, 161–2, 185, 215
- social welfare, and importance of modelling corporation tax revenue 5
- Sorensen, P.B. 7–8
- stochastic profit growth, and behavioural responses of firms to corporation tax rate changes simulation 201–3, 221
- 'stranded' losses and corporation tax loss asymmetries 47–8, 57
- and modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 136, 137, 138, 139
- tax allowances as profit offsets see deductions
- tax base growth 18
see also corporation tax base
- tax buoyancy 13, 15
see also corporation tax buoyancy
- tax codes
 behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 80, 82, 84, 106, 216, 218
 simulation 197
- corporation tax loss asymmetries 72, 106, 170, 187, 216, 218
 over the economic cycle 65, 216
 in a single corporation with more than one profit source 52, 53, 56
- decomposing behavioural elasticities 184
- modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 131
- tax credits 19, 78–9
- tax havens 88, 189
- tax laws 195
- tax revenue elasticity 14, 18
see also corporation tax revenue elasticity
- time delays 13, 47–8, 49, 103
- time periods
 aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 150, 151–5
 corporation tax loss asymmetries in a single corporation with more than one profit source 51–2, 53–4, 55, 56–9
 distribution of profits in the UK 111, 122–5
 modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 135–6, 137–9, 144–6
 modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 128–30, 131, 132–3
see also economic cycles; time delays
- trading loss pools
 modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 137, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146
 modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 130, 132, 133
- trading losses
 distribution of profits in the UK 112, 121–2

- modelling deductions of firms in
 - groups in the UK 134–5, 137, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146
- modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 130, 131, 132, 133
- trading profits
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity simulations 150, 151, 153, 158
 - aggregate declared profit response simulations 186
 - distribution of profits in the UK 110, 112–14, 115, 116, 117–22, 124–5
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 134–5, 137, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 127–30, 131, 132, 133, 225–30
- transfer pricing 50
- two corporation tax rates
 - corporation tax revenue elasticity in the UK 34, 35, 36, 37–8
 - small company rate elimination in the UK 161–2
 - UK 19, 51
- UK
 - capital allowances 95, 129, 175
 - corporation tax buoyancy 14–18
 - corporation tax fiscal drag 17, 19–20
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 47, 48, 79, 103, 170, 173, 187
 - corporation tax rates 19, 34, 35, 36, 37–8, 51, 161–2, 168
 - corporation tax revenue 14–18, 167–8, 203
 - declared deductions to declared profits ratio 92
 - economic cycles and aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 40, 41
 - fiscal depreciation rules 129, 172
 - global recession and corporation tax receipts 10, 11–12
 - large tax-paying firms 161, 203
 - net to gross profit ratio 170
 - profit growth 192–3
 - profit shifting 88, 188
 - profit size 19, 220–221
 - public debt and corporation tax rates 7
 - tax schedule and corporation tax revenue elasticity 34–8
 - see also* modelling the distribution of profits in the UK
- US
 - corporation tax loss asymmetries 48–9, 56, 72, 79, 103, 170
 - declared deductions to declared profits ratio 92
 - effective average tax rate (EATR) changes 48–9, 72, 94, 103, 170
 - global recession and corporation tax receipts 10
 - profit shifting 88–9, 94, 189–91, 192, 209
 - public debt and corporation tax rates 7
 - real responses 88–9, 190–191, 192
- volatility
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue 6, 9–13, 14, 15, 23, 167, 213, 219–20
 - aggregate corporation tax revenue elasticity 42–5, 215
 - corporation tax buoyancy in the UK 15, 17, 18
 - corporation tax revenue from large firms in the UK 203
- weighted average of current and previous profits 129
- Yitzhaki, S. 75
- Young, A. 47, 53
- zero net profits
 - behavioural responses to corporation tax rate changes 83, 98
 - corporation tax revenue elasticity 29
 - modelling deductions of firms in groups in the UK 136, 137, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146
 - modelling deductions of single firms in the UK 133
- zero profits, in accounting definition of declared profits 193