

Contents

List of figures, tables and boxes	v
List of contributors	vi
Abbreviations	viii
1 Introduction – consumer groups and the democratization of health policy	1
Michael Leahy, Hans Löfgren and Evelyne de Leeuw
2 Health activism in the age of governance	15
Timothy Milewa
3 Health consumer groups in the United Kingdom: progress or stagnation?	30
Kathryn Jones and Rob Baggott
4 Citizens, consumers and stakeholders in European health policy	47
Meri Koivusalo and Jonathan Tritter
5 The People's Health Movement: health for all, now!	61
Prem Chandran John and David G. Legge
6 Aboriginal community control and decolonizing health policy: a yarn from Australia	81
Bronwyn Fredericks, Karen Adams and Rebecca Edwards
7 The Irish Health Service's Expert Advisory Groups: spaces for advancing epistemological justice?	97
Orla O'Donovan
8 Patient empowerment in the Netherlands	111
Atie Schipaanboord, Diana Delnoij and Roland Bal
9 Health policy in Germany: consumer groups in a corporatist polity	127
Jens Geissler
10 Austrian health consumer groups: voices gaining strength?	143
Rudolf Forster, Gudrun Braunegger-Kallinger and Karl Krajic
11 Malaysia: the consumer voice in the policy process	161
Simon Barraclough and Phua Kai Lit
12 From activism to state inclusion: health consumer groups in Australia	177
Hans Löfgren, Michael Leahy and Evelyne de Leeuw

13	Health consumers in Canada: swimming against a neo-liberal tide John Church and Wendy Armstrong	193
14	Empowering health care consumers in the United States Michael H. Fox and Anna Lambertson	208
15	Health policy in the United States: consumers and citizens in a market polity Christina Nuñez Daw, Denise Truong and Pauline Vaillancourt Rosenau	222
16	Health consumer groups and the pharmaceutical industry: is transparency the answer? Agnes Vitry and Hans Löfgren	239
	Index	255