We would like to thank the authors of the chapters for taking the effort to contribute to a diverse and encompassing volume and responding positively to the comments and feedback throughout the reviewing and editing process. In addition, we would like to thank Francine O'Sullivan and the team at Edward Elgar Publishing for their support and perseverance.

Producing this volume would not have been possible without funding from a Griffith University International Workshop Grant in 2009 and the support from Professor Michael Powell, PVC of the Griffith Business School. We also owe a great deal of thanks to Joanne Pascoe and Clare Inwood who are the administrative team at the Centre for Work, Organisation and Wellbeing, who assisted in many ways to ensure the International Workshop was successful. Finally, we would like to acknowledge the assistance of Dr Olav Muurlink for providing editorial and coordination support in the final stages of the manuscript development.
