Acknowledgements

We wish to thank colleagues and friends at the IMF, the World Bank, the Inter-American Development Bank and the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime: Jonathan Agar, Lisa Bhansali, Pascale Dubois, Roberto De Michele, Yara Esquivel, Francisco Figueroa, Matthew R. Fowler, Marianne Mathias, Richard Messick, Roberto Manrique, Andrew Milford, Jody Myers, Marco Nicoli, Jean Pesme, Maurizio Ragazzi, Alessandro Rebbuci, Juan Roderos, Kenneth Stephenson, Oliver Stolpe, Kate Sylvester, Emil J. M. Van Der Does De Willebois, Concepcion Verdugo Yepes, Dimitri Vlassis, Staurt Yikona and participants in the seminars, Corruption: Economic Analysis and Evolution of the International Law and Institutions, and Corruption, Markets and Competition: a Microeconomic Analysis, respectively, given at the World Bank (Washington, DC) on 25 May 2011 and at the International Monetary Fund (Washington, DC) on 14 January 2014 for their invaluable feedbacks and suggestions on earlier drafts of parts of this book. Extra special thanks to Francesca Recanatini and Laura Valli, and to Gianluca Esposito, Nadim Sami Kyriakos-Saad, Emmanuel Mathias, and Eric Robert for their thought-provoking observations and experience, for their wonderful hospitality at the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund and for organizing the two seminars.

We also wish to thank the Arnone Bellavite Pellegrini Foundation, CeMaFIR (Centre for Macroeconomics and Finance Research), and Carlo Bellavite Pellegrini, CEO of the Foundation, for making possible the realization of this book. We are grateful to the magistrates who participated in the conferences International Cooperation in the Fight Against Corruption and Investigative Techniques and Standards of Proof in the Area of Crimes Against the Public Sector, both given at the Higher Council for the Judiciary, Rome, on 30 May and 27 September 2012, respectively, for their stimulating feedback and suggestions on an earlier draft of Part I of this book. We are also grateful to participants in several other seminars, where early draft chapters were presented, given at the Scuola Superiore della Pubblica Amministrazione, Rome, and the University of Pisa.

We are also especially indebted to Alberto Alessandri, Andrea Biondi, xxiv  Corruption

Thomas Botzios, Luigi Campiglio, Andrea Canale, Gherardo Colombo, Giuseppe Sean Coppola, Piercamillo Davigo, Luca De Matteis, Francesco De Simone, Andrea Di Stefano, Claudio Dordi, Piet Eeckhout, Gianmaria Flick, Paola Gaeta, Alessandro Gambini, Federico Ghezzi, Franco Grande Stevens, Rodolfo Jannaccone-Pazzi, Tom Lasich, Paola Magrini, Grazia Mannozzi, Paola Mariani, Donato Masciandaro, Piergiorgio Morosini, Luz Estella Nagle, Nikos Passas, Piercarlo Padoan, Mark Pieth, August Reinisch, Lorenzo Salazar, Jack D. Smith, Francesco Testa, Gabriella Venturini, Eduardo Vetere, Takis Tridimas and members of the Catholic University of Milan Centro Studi “Federico Stella” per il diritto penale e la politica criminale (CSGP), Matteo Caputo, Francesco Centonze, Francesco D’Alessandro, Stefania Giavazzi, directed by Gabrio Forti, for discussions and suggestions on the issues addressed here and their support in pursuing this project. We would also like to extend our warm gratitude to the colleagues of the Department of Legal Studies, Bocconi University, Milan, and, especially, to Damiano Canale, Stefano Liebman and Giorgio Sacerdoti for their generous support of the last period of research dedicated to the finalization of the book.

We would also like to thank Carlo Bellavite Pellegrini for his contribution to Chapters 5 and 6; Laura Pellegrini, for her contribution to Chapters 4 and 5; Emiliano Sironi for his technical comments on these chapters and Luciano Canova for his help with the data. The dedicated work of Giulio Nessi was crucial in finalizing this publication.

Our special thanks go to our publisher Edward Elgar for the attention and professional support offered during the different phases of our work.

Finally, our gratitude goes to Josephine Fontana, Anthony Turner and Silvia Pedrini for the excellent research environment in Sarasota, Washington, DC, and Pavia respectively.