

Acknowledgements

I wish to thank Mr Edward Elgar and the editorial staff of Edward Elgar Publishing for their interest in my work and for guiding this project to completion.

The following people have offered indispensable advice, correction and wisdom during the research and writing of this book: sincere thanks to Marc Williams and Gavin Kitching of the School of Social Sciences and International Studies, University of New South Wales (UNSW); and Scott Thomas (University of Bath), Jeffrey Haynes (London Metropolitan University) and Anthony Langlois (Flinders University) for providing a critical and constructive assessment of the original research upon which this book is based. All lingering inadequacies that exist are mine alone.

Thanks to Katherine Marshall, former director of the World Bank Development Dialogue on Values and Ethics, and Michael Taylor and Wendy Tyndale, former directors of the World Faiths Development Dialogue, for participating in informal discussions at the preliminary stages of this research in February 2005.

I am personally and professionally indebted to Duncan McDuie-Ra, Senior Lecturer in Development Studies at the School of Social Sciences and International Studies, UNSW. Duncan's friendship is dearly held and I am honoured to include a portion of our collaborative research in this book. Thanks also to Peter Dean and my colleagues at the School of Arts and Sciences, University of Notre Dame Australia, and to Isabel Yaya for her friendship and support.

I dedicate this book to my parents Jennifer and Tudno Rees, and to my dearly loved son Patrick Phillipson Rees who gives me life and hope beyond measure.

* * *

The author and publishers wish to thank the following who have kindly given permission for the use of copyright material:

- John Wiley and Sons for article 'Religious actors, civil society and the development agenda: the dynamics of inclusion and exclusion', Journal of International Development, (2010) 22, 20–36.

- SAGE Publications for article ‘Book reviews in religion and politics’, Millennium, (2007) 35 (3), 813–17.
- Taylor and Francis/Routledge for article “‘Really existing” scriptures: on the use of sacred text in international affairs’ (2004), The Review of Faith and International Affairs, 2 (1), 17–26. The journal can be accessed at www.informaworld.com.

Every effort has been made to trace all the copyright holders but if any have been inadvertently overlooked the publishers will be pleased to make the necessary arrangements at the first opportunity.

John Anthony Rees
Sydney, August 2011