This book has been a long time in the making. The first meeting was held in Oslo in spring 2008. Since then there have been some workshops through which members of the Nordic Centre of Excellence: Reassessing the Nordic Welfare State (REASSESS) exchanged views and developed their ideas on the topic. These served to clarify the issue for some of the participants, while for others it prompted a rethink. The idea of the book, as well as the contributions of Jørgen Goul Andersen, Anette Borchorst, Bjørn Hvinden, Mikko Kautto, Jorma Sipilä, Marta Szebehely and Mia Vabø, arose from these discussions. John Clarke and Janet Newman were invited to provide a complementary Anglo-Saxon perspective on the topic. We are grateful to all authors.

The editors of the book collaborated across some distance, with two being located in Tampere and one of them in Reykjavik. This required a number of face-to-face meetings. Neither the meetings nor the workshops would have been possible if it weren't for the generous support of REASSESS. Special thanks are addressed to Professor Bjørn Hvinden. Thanks also to anonymous evaluators of the book proposal and to all who have commented on drafts in different stages of the editing process.

The editors were also supported individually by various people and institutions. Anneli Anttonen and Liisa Häikiö thank REASSESS, the Academy of Finland and the University of Tampere. Kolbeinn Stefánsson was supported in his work on this book by University of Iceland Center for Social Research and EDDA – Center of Excellence, and through them by the Icelandic Center for Research.

As with any book, this book has been written for readers. Hopefully it will contribute to their efforts for making better futures.
