

Contributors

Giuseppe Bognetti, University of Milan, Italy. Professor Bognetti holds a degree in law from Università degli Studi di Milano, and a BA in Economics from Cambridge University. He has taught at the Universities of Urbino and Milano, Italy, where he has been teaching public finance since 1980. Director of the Department of Economics at the Faculty of Political Sciences from 1992 to 1995, he was appointed again from 1998 to 2004. Formerly Vice President of Ciriec International (1992–1994) he is currently chief editor of the journal Economia Pubblica. His research interests include taxation theory, public enterprise theory, public services and regulation, history of public finance and public finance doctrines.

Ángel Catalina Rubianes, European Commission, Brussels, Belgium. Rubianes is a policy analyst in the Unit for Economic and Quantitative Analysis in the Directorate General for Regional Policy at the European Commission. He is responsible for the analysis of interactions between national policies and the EU cohesion policy and for the verification of the principle of additionality. Of Spanish nationality, he joined the Commission five years ago to work in the European Anti-Fraud Office (OLAF) where he was responsible for drafting the annual report on the protection of the EU financial interests. Before, he spent four years working as an official representative of the Galicia region in Brussels. He is now part of the team that will draft the Fifth Report on economic and social cohesion. He holds university degrees in economics and political science and a postgraduate degree in European economy.

Massimo Cingolani, European Investment Bank, Luxembourg. Cingolani is deputy head of division in the Directorate for Lending Operations in Europe at the European Investment Bank in Luxembourg. His research interests are in the modelling and evaluation of economic policy, in particular in the fields of macroeconomics, finance, regional economics, infrastructure and growth. Recent publications are: 'Per il rilancio della politica economica in Europa', MondOperaio, D 2006; 'Full employment as a possible objective for EU policy – I. A perspective from the point of view of the monetary circuit', and 'II. Review of some empirical aspects', Panoeconomicus, 2008, volumes 1 and 2. Since 2006 he has been an EIB tutor for the STAREBEI research on 'Evolutions des agrégats macro-financiers dans les Nouveaux Pays Membres et dans les Pays Candidats à l'UE: une lecture par la théorie du circuit monétaire'.

Chiara Del Bo, University of Milan, Italy. Del Bo is a researcher at Università degli Studi di Milano. She holds a PhD in Economics from the same university, with the dissertation 'Essays on investment and growth in an international setting'. She earned a Master's degree in Economics (MEc) at Università Commerciale Luigi Bocconi in 2003. She graduated in economics at Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Milan with a dissertation on 'Research joint ventures in the semiconductor industry'. Between August 2005 and December 2006 she was a visiting student at the Economics Department of Boston College, USA. In 2009, she was a visiting researcher at the Department of Spatial Economics, Vrije Universiteit, Amsterdam. Her research interests are in applied economics, with a specific focus on regional, growth and international issues.

Massimo Florio, University of Milan, Italy. Florio is Head of the Department of Economics, Università degli Studi di Milano, Professor of Public Economics, and Jean Monnet Chair in Economics of European Integration. His main research interests are in welfare economics, cost-benefit analysis, industrial and regional policies, infrastructure and growth, regulation and privatization. Recent publications include: The Great Divestiture: Evaluating the Welfare Impact of the British Privatizations, 1979–1997, MIT Press (2004), Cost-Benefit Analysis and Incentives in Evaluation. The Structural Funds of the European Union, Edward Elgar (2007) and the EC Guide to Cost-Benefit Analysis of Investment Projects (2008).

Jan Hanousek, CERGE-EI Prague, Czech Republic. Hanousek has a PhD in Probability and Statistics from Charles University, Prague, Czech Republic. He is Professor of Economics at CERGE-EI, a joint workplace of Charles University and the Academy of Sciences of the Czech Republic, Prague, and Professor of Economics at Charles University, Prague. He is a co-ordinator for PHARE projects on the informal sector in transitional economies. He is also member of the National Discussion Group Ministry of Finance, advisory body of the Ministry of Finance, Czech Republic. He is currently working on the effects of privatization in transition economies.

Evžen Kočenda, CERGE-EI Prague, Czech Republic. Kočenda graduated in 1985 from the Prague School of Economics with a degree in international trade management. He received an MA in Economics from the University of Toledo, Ohio, USA in 1992, and a PhD in Economics from the University of Houston, Texas, USA, in 1996. From 1996 to 1998 he was Deputy Director for Research at CERGE, Charles University, Prague, Czech Republic, and the Economics Institute of the Academy of Sciences of the Czech Republic. Since 2004 he has been Professor of Economics at CERGE. He is a Research Fellow of the William Davidson Institute at the University of Michigan Business School and Research Affiliate of CEPR, London, and EABCN. He was Economic Advisor to the Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Czech Republic in 1997. Since 1998 he has been a member of the editorial board of the journal Finance a uver. From 1998 to 1999 he was a member of the Scientific Council of the Ministry of Transport and Communications. Since 1999 he has been a member of the CERGE Scientific Council.

Luigi Moretti, University of Florence, Italy. Moretti holds a degree in political sciences from the University of Florence and earned a PhD in Economics, Markets and Institutions at IMT Institute for Advanced Studies, Lucca, Italy. He has been a PhD visiting student at the Centre for Finance and Credit Markets, School of Economics, University of Nottingham, UK and at the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid, Spain. His main research areas are the analysis of the real effects of banking market development and the assessment of the impact of European Regional Policy.

Aleksandra Parteka, Gdansk University of Technology, Poland. Parteka works as an Assistant Professor at Gdansk University of Technology, Faculty of Management and Economics, Poland. She completed her PhD in Economics at Università Politecnica delle Marche, Ancona, Italy in 2007. She completed her MA studies in economics at the Gdansk University of Technology and Università Politecnica delle Marche, and in Contemporary European Studies at the University of Sussex. Her research interests include international economics, with a particular focus on trade issues, European integration and economics of transition.

Giorgio Ragazzi, University of Bergamo, Italy. Ragazzi is Associate Professor of Public Finance. He worked at the IMF as an economist and at the World Bank as Executive Director, he was financial manager in a multinational company and served as a consultant for several government and private institutions. He taught finance at the LUISS University in Rome, Italy and macroeconomic policy in Bergamo. His research interests are public sector accounts, fiscal policy, regulation of natural monopolies and public services.

Malcolm Sawyer, University of Leeds, UK. With a Masters in Economics from the University of London and a BA in Mathematics from Oxford, Sawyer is a member of the Council of the Royal Economic Society, Senior Visiting Fellow at the J. Levy Economics Institute, USA, Co-editor of International Papers in Political Economy and Managing Editor of International Review of Applied Economics, and a consultant to the OECD, the EU and the National Institute for Economic and Social Research. His main research interests involve the intellectual and institutional obstacles to full employment, the development of post-Keynesian macroeconomics, the nature and role of markets and the economics of Michal Kalecki.

Emanuela Sirtori, CSIL, Italy. Sirtori graduated with honours in Economics from the Bicocca University of Milan, Italy. After attending a post-degree training course on methods of cooperation and development, she started her research fellowship at CSIL. Her field of expertise is econometrics, poverty and inequality analysis, mainly applied to issues of regional development. Recently she presented a paper at the Third Annual Conference of the Political Economy in the International Organization (PEIO) in Washington DC, on the impact of collaboration between the World Bank and the IMF on growth in the beneficiary countries.

Silvia Vignetti, CSIL, Italy. Vignetti is currently a CSIL partner and Director of the Development and Evaluation Unit. She holds a degree in economics from Bocconi University, Italy and after a traineeship at UNESCO, Paris, she started her collaboration as a research fellow at CSIL. She has also had teaching appointments at the University of Milan, Italy in macroeconomics, economics of European integration and cost-benefit analysis. She specializes in structural funds interventions and evaluation of projects and programmes, and has gained relevant experience in this field, both at the EU as well as at the national level.