

Tables

1.1	Post Keynesian interest rate rules and operating channels	8
3.1	Signs of the comparative static derivatives in the floating exchange rate case	43
3.2	Signs of the comparative static derivatives in the “virtual” floating exchange rate case	50
5.1	Central bank asset balance sheet structure	70
6A2.1	Transactions matrix	105
6A2.2	Balance sheet matrix	107
9.1	Realized real GDP quarter-over-quarter percentage change, averaged per semester, versus base-case projections of the Bank of Canada	170
9.2	Quantitative easing in a mild form: excess settlement balances	177
9.3	Evolution of some assets of chartered banks, August 2008 to March 2009	180
9.4	The CMHC acquires mortgages with loans from the federal government	181
9.5	Composition of the term purchase and resale agreements conducted by the Bank of Canada	182
9.6	Impact of term PRA operations on LVTS balances when the size of the balance sheet of the Bank of Canada is rising	183
9.7	Indicative evolution of various balance sheets from the recognition of the existence of a financial crisis (August 2008) to its peak (March 2009)	185
11.1	Chronology of monetary policy measures by the Fed	229
11.2	Distribution of net worth and non-home wealth	240