

Acknowledgements

We would like to thank the Complutense Institute for International Studies (ICEI) for the ongoing support received to publish the book. The international workshop on climate change policies, held in Madrid during February 2010 and whose contents are the basis of this book, was in fact organized by ICEI and sponsored by the General Foundation of the Complutense University, Caja Madrid and the Spanish Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Of course, we are especially grateful to the presenters and participants in that workshop, who provided high-level and profound presentations and discussions on the different matters covered by the book. We are also thankful to Noelia Beceiro, Xiral López, Barry Readman and Raúl G. Sanchis for their help in the production of the manuscript. Finally, we acknowledge funding from the Spanish Ministry of Science and Innovation through the research project 'Climate Change and the Post-2012 Regulatory Regime' (ECO2009-14586-C2-01 and 02) in which several contributors to this book participate: the editors, Francisco André, Pedro Linares, María Loureiro and Noemi Padrón.