Contributors

Bernd Brandl holds a temporary professorship at the University of Vienna, Austria, in the Department of Industrial Sociology. He received his PhD from the University of Graz.

Fathi Fakhfakh is Associate Professor of Economics and a Fellow of CNRS Research Centre ERMES at University of Paris II, France. He received his PhD in Economics from the University of Paris II.

Richard Freeman is Herbert Ascherman Professor of Economics at Harvard University and Faculty Director, Labor and Worklife Program at the Harvard Law School, USA. He is also Program Director for Labor Studies at the National Bureau of Economic Research, USA, and Senior Professorial Research Fellow, Labour Markets, Centre for Economic Performance at London School of Economics in the United Kingdom. He received his PhD from Harvard University.

Thomas Haipeter is Head of the Research Department on Working-Time and Work Organization at the Institute of Work, Skills and Qualification (Institut Arbeit und Qualifikation) at the University of Duisburg-Essen, in Germany. He received his PhD from the University of Bielefeld.

Susan Hayter is Senior Industrial and Employment Relations Specialist at the International Labour Office, Geneva, Switzerland. She received her MSc from the London School of Economics in the United Kingdom.

Jason Heyes is a Reader in Human Resource Management at Birmingham Business School, University of Birmingham, United Kingdom. He received his PhD in Industrial Relations from the University of Leeds.

Chang Hee Lee is a Senior Specialist on Industrial Relations, at the ILO’s Office for China and Mongolia. He received his PhD in Industrial Sociology from Seoul National University, South Korea.

Sangheon Lee is Coordinator for Research and Policy, Conditions of Work and Employment Programme at the International Labour Office, Geneva, Switzerland. He received his PhD in Economics from the University of Cambridge, United Kingdom.

Steffen Lehndorff is a Senior Researcher in the Research Department on Working-Time and Work Organization at the Institute of Work, Skills... and Qualification (Institut Arbeit und Qualifikation) at the University of Duisburg-Essen, in Germany. He received his PhD from the University of Bremen.

Mingwei Liu is an Assistant Professor of Labor Relations in the School of Management and Labor Relations of Rutgers University, USA. He received his PhD in Industrial and Labor Relations from Cornell University, USA.

Deirdre McCann is a Senior Lecturer at the School of Law, University of Manchester, United Kingdom. She received her DPhil in Law from the University of Oxford, United Kingdom.

Konstantinos Papadakis is Research and Policy Development Specialist at the International Labour Office, Geneva, Switzerland. He received his PhD in International Relations from the Institut Universitaire de Hautes Etudes Internationales (IUHEI), the Graduate Institute of International Studies.

Virginie Pérotin is Professor of Economics at Leeds University Business School in the United Kingdom, and an Associate Fellow at CNRS Research Centre ERMES at the University of Paris II, France. She received her PhD in Economics from Cornell University, USA.

Helen Rainbird is Chair in Human Resources Management, and Head of Department of Management at Birmingham Business School, University of Birmingham in the United Kingdom. She received her PhD from the University of Durham, United Kingdom.

Gerhard Reinecke is a Specialist for Employment Policy with the ILO in Santiago, Chile. He received his PhD in Political Science at the University of Hamburg, Germany.

Andrew Robinson is Senior Lecturer in Accounting and Finance at Leeds University Business School in the United Kingdom. He received his PhD from Bradford University, United Kingdom.

Franz Traxler was Full Professor at the University of Vienna, Austria, and Head of the Department of Industrial Sociology. He received his PhD from the University of Business and Economics, Vienna, Austria.

María Elena Valenzuela is a Regional Specialist on Gender and Employment at the ILO in Santiago, Chile. She received her MSC in Sociology from the University of North Carolina, USA.

Bradley Weinberg is a PhD candidate at Cornell University, USA. He received his BA from Hobart College in the USA.