Figures

1.1 The pillars of the full employment framework .................................................. 8
1.2 Unemployment rates, Australia, Europe and the United States, 1950–2006 .......... 10
1.3 The full employability framework ................................................................. 16
2.1 The classical labour market ........................................................................... 25
4.1 The determination of the NAIRU by the BRW and PRW curves ................. 84
4.2 Unemployment and vacancies, sectoral and aggregate shocks .................... 103
4.3 Unemployment and vacancies, equilibrium on the labour market ............... 107
5.1 The full employability framework .................................................................. 126
6.1 Inflation and inflation expectations, Australia, 1974–2004 ......................... 155
6.2 Summary average sacrifice ratios ................................................................. 160
7.1 Employment gaps, selected countries, 1960–2005 ....................................... 177
7.2 Employment growth and GDP growth for eight OECD countries, 1960–2006 . 179
7.4 The official unemployment rate and OECD NAIRU estimates, selected countries, 1970–2006 ................................................................. 185
7.5 Difference- and trend-stationary processes and persistence ....................... 187
7.6 Unemployment and labour demand (inverted) for eight OECD countries, various periods ................................................................. 193
7.7a Current and lagged unemployment, 1960–2006 ........................................... 197
7.7b Current and lagged vacancies, 1960–2006 .................................................. 199
7.8 Layoffs, quits and hiring rates, Canada, 1978–1994 ................................. 200
8.1 The essential government and non-government structure ......................... 206
8.2 Vertical and horizontal macroeconomic relations ........................................ 214