

Contributors

---

Erkki Aalto is Defence Counsellor and National Armaments Director Representative at the Permanent Representation of Finland to the European Union and at the Mission of Finland to NATO in Brussels. He deals with issues concerning the European Defence Agency, NATO's armaments policy and the EU's internal market aspects of defence. Before his current posting, Erkki Aalto worked in the Mission of Finland to NATO and in the Ministry of Defence in Finland. He is preparing a doctoral thesis on national security exemptions in EU law at the University of Turku, Finland. He holds degrees from the University of Turku (BA, MA) and from the University of Aberdeen (LLM). He has published articles on defence policy.

Anthony Arnull, BA, PhD, Solicitor, is Barber Professor of Jurisprudence at Birmingham Law School, University of Birmingham, United Kingdom. His research has focused mainly on the law of the European Union, in particular the role and jurisdiction of the European Court of Justice. He is the author of, among other things, The European Union and its Court of Justice (Oxford University Press, 2nd edn, 2006) and a co-editor of several collections of essays, the most recent of which is A Constitutional Order of States? Essays in EU Law in Honour of Alan Dashwood (Hart Publishing, 2011). Professor Arnull is Consultant Editor of the European Law Review, having been its co-editor from 1996 to 2007. From 1989 to 1992, he worked at the European Court of Justice in Luxembourg as a référendaire in the chambers of Advocate General F.G. Jacobs.

Marie-Laure Basilien-Gainche is Associate Professor (tenure) in public European Law, at the Institute of European Studies of the University Sorbonne Nouvelle Paris III, France. She graduated from Sciences Po Paris and holds a doctorate in public law. Her research deals with crisis situations when norms, especially human rights protection laws, can be suspended. Marie-Laure Basilien-Gainche works in constitutional law and European law fields, in order to propose evaluations of the legitimacy of political systems and decisions of the EU and its Member States. Her attention is currently focused on the EU immigration and asylum policy. She is a member of the Institut des Amériques, of the scientific committee of TERRA (Travaux, Études, Recherches sur les Réfugiés et l'Asile), of Migreurop and of Trans Europe Experts. She also contributes to the lettre Actualités Droits Libertés of the Centre de recherche et d'études sur les droits fondamentaux CREDOF – University Paris 10, and to Serge Slama's blog Combats pour les droits de l'homme.

Martin Borowski studied law in Germany. After the First German State Examination in 1991 he was fellow of the Studienstiftung des deutschen Volkes for graduate work leading to a doctorate (1993–1995). Dr Borowski was awarded his doctorate (Dr Iur.) in 1997, and passed the Second German State Examination in the same year. He was awarded his habilitation and the title of Privatdozent in 2004 (both at the University of Kiel, Germany), with the venia legendi for the disciplines 'Public Law, European Law, Legal Philosophy, and Legal Theory'. He conducted research on constitutional review at Washington University, School of Law, St Louis, Missouri, with a Feodor-Lynen research grant awarded by the Alexander-von-Humboldt-Foundation (Germany) from 2005 to 2006. Dr Borowski is currently Reader at Birmingham Law School, United Kingdom.

Francesco Costamagna, MA, PhD, is Research Fellow in European Union Law at the University of Turin, Italy. He has been post-doctoral fellow in International Law at the same university. His research works mainly focus on the relationship between, on one side, economic and social rights, and, on the other, international economic norms, as well as EU internal market rules. He is the author of a book (in Italian) on Social and Health Services, Competition and Freedom to Provide Services in the EU Legal Order. He has also published articles and other works on these issues. He holds a PhD in International Economic Law at the 'L. Bocconi' University of Milan (Italy). His PhD thesis was on 'International Protection of Public Infrastructure Investments and State Sovereignty'. He has been a visiting scholar at the Centre for Energy, Petroleum and Mineral Law and Policy (University of Dundee, Scotland).

Adam Cygan, LLB, LLM, PhD is a Senior Lecturer in Law at the University of Leicester, United Kingdom. He has written several monographs considering the participation of national parliaments in EU affairs as well as numerous journal articles and chapters in edited volumes. He has provided expert evidence to the EU Affairs Select Committee in the House of Lords on the role of national parliaments in the EU and participates in a training programme for parliamentarians and civil servants which promotes best practice in subsidiarity monitoring.

Bleddyn Davies studied law at the University of Liverpool, completing his PhD in the field of criminal justice and constitutional safeguards in 2010.

His research interests include European constitutional law, European criminal law, public law and public international law. Since July 2011, Bleddyn has been a Lecturer in Public and European Union Law at Liverpool John Moores University, United Kingdom.

Elaine Fahey, PhD, has been a Lecturer in Law at the School of Social Sciences and Law at the Dublin Institute of Technology, Ireland since 2006. She is a Visiting Max Weber Fellow at the European University Institute, Florence, Italy (2010–2011) at the Global Governance Programme, Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies. Her research interests are Global Governance Law and EU–US Relations, EU Institutional Law, Internal Market Law and the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice. She has written two monographs on EU Law in Ireland. She was previously a Max Weber Post-doctoral Fellow at the European University Institute (2009–2010). She is a former Judicial Research Assistant, Judges’ Library, Four Courts, Dublin, a Judicial Extern at the Los Angeles Federal District Court, USA and a stagiaire at the Court of Justice of the European Union, Luxembourg. She has practised at the Irish Bar and is Chairperson of the Irish Society for European Law.

Flora Goudappel, PhD, is Associate Professor of European Union law at Erasmus School of Law, in Rotterdam, The Netherlands. Her specializations are EU citizenship, Justice and Home Affairs, as well as federalism. She has previously worked at both Erasmus School of Law and the University of Utrecht, as well as at the Ministry of Justice of the Netherlands. She has been a visiting professor in a.o. Baltimore, Bordeaux, Istanbul, Curaçao and Beijing.

Barbara Guastaferrò is Emile Noel Fellow at the Jean Monnet Center of the New York University School of Law for the academic year 2011/2012. She holds a PhD in European and Public Law from the University of Padua, Italy. She is currently Adjunct Professor in History, Institutions and Politics of the EU at the University of Naples L’Orientale, and Teaching Assistant in Public Law at the University of Naples Federico II. In 2009 she was visiting fellow at the European Court of Justice and in 2004 she was intern at the legal office of the Permanent Representation of Italy to the EU in Brussels, where she followed the works of the Intergovernmental Conference adopting the Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe. She is author of several publications in the field of European Politics and European Law.

Ester Herlin-Karnell is Assistant Professor in EU Law at the Free University of Amsterdam in the Netherlands. She holds a DPhil in Law from Oxford University as well as an LLM from King’s College London and a Jur. Kand. (LLM) from Stockholm University, Sweden. She has previously worked as a legal secretary and judge's assistant in a Swedish District Court. Her research interests lie within EU (constitutional) law and European criminal law. She is currently completing a monograph on the constitutional dimension of European Criminal Law (forthcoming Hart, 2012).

Urfan Khaliq is a Reader at Cardiff Law School, Cardiff University. His research interests are in the fields of Public International Law, International Human Rights Law and EU Law and he has published widely in these fields.

Rafael Leal-Arcas is a Senior Research Fellow at the World Trade Institute and a Senior Lecturer in International Economic Law and European Union Law, Queen Mary University of London (Centre for Commercial Law Studies), United Kingdom. He is the author of more than 70 scholarly publications on international trade law, WTO law, international investment law, international environmental law, and EU law. Among his publications are the books, International Trade and Investment Law: Multilateral, Regional and Bilateral Governance (Edward Elgar, 2010) and Theory and Practice of EC External Trade Law and Policy (Cameron May, 2008).

Michael Mirschberger, Ass. Jur., is Research Fellow at the German Research Institute for Public Administration Speyer. Previously he has been Scientific Assistant at the German University of Administrative Sciences Speyer and Scientific Assistant at the Ludwig-Maximilian University in Munich. His main research interests are German and European Administrative Law as well as European and Comparative Constitutional Law. Michael Mirschberger is currently reading for a PhD at the German University of Administrative Sciences Speyer.

Julian Nowag, LLM European Legal Studies (Dunelm), MSt in Law (Oxon), Ref. iur., Dipl. iur., is a DPhil candidate from St Anne's College at the Law Faculty of the University of Oxford, United Kingdom. His main research areas are in EU Competition and Internal Market Law. He has published in the field of European Competition Law and other areas. Julian Nowag has worked on projects for the European Commission, the European Parliament and advised the Colombian Competition Authority.

Laura Puccio holds a Bachelors degree in International Economics and Management from Bocconi University in Milan, Italy and a Masters degree in International Affairs from the Institut d'Etudes Politiques of Paris (Sciences Po Paris), France. She is currently a PhD candidate in Law at the European University Institute in Florence. Her research interests are in International and European Economic Law.

Helena Raulus has been Lecturer in European Union Law at the Erasmus School of Law, Rotterdam, The Netherlands, since the beginning of 2008. She obtained her PhD, on ‘Private International Law in the European Union: From Conventions to Regulations’, in 2005 from the University of Aberdeen. After her PhD, Helena Raulus worked at the University of Helsinki as a post-doctoral researcher and project coordinator for Europeanized Criminal Justice programme. Her current research interests are in the European Union fundamental rights protection and the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice.

Lisa Rodgers is a Senior Lecturer at Birmingham City University, United Kingdom. Her main research interests are European and International Employment Law and Policy. She has written a range of articles on aspects of Employment Law and Policy, most recently in the Industrial Law Journal, and is currently completing a PhD in Employment Law at the University of Leicester.

Luca Rubini, Laurea in giurisprudenza, MA, PhD, is Senior Lecturer and Deputy-Director of the Institute of European Law at Birmingham Law School. His research currently focuses on the governance of public subsidies and on the various linkages between trade, energy and climate change. His publications include The Definition of Subsidy and State Aid – WTO Law and EC Law in Comparative Perspective (Oxford University Press, 2009), and he has recently edited Microsoft on Trial: Legal and Economic Analysis of a Transatlantic Antitrust Case (Edward Elgar, 2010) and Challenges of Development: Asian Perspectives (Vita e Pensiero, 2010; co-edited with Francesco Bestagno). He served as référendaire to Francis Jacobs, Advocate General at the European Court of Justice and has held visiting positions at King’s College London, the Institute of International Economic Law (Georgetown University), the World Trade Institute (University of Berne) and Bocconi University Milan. He is fellow of the Centre of European Law, King’s College London, and visiting professor at ASERI (Catholic University, Milan). He is admitted to the Bar in Italy and to the Law Society of England and Wales as solicitor (non-practising).

Catalin Stefan Rusu studied law at ‘Babes-Bolyai’ University, Cluj Napoca, Romania, at the International Faculty of Comparative Law, Strasbourg, France and at Utrecht University, The Netherlands. He obtained his PhD degree in 2009 after publishing his research findings in the field of European Merger Control. He carried out academic research and was engaged in teaching activities at the Molengraaff Institute for Private Law, Utrecht University, between 2005 and 2010. Currently, he is an Assistant Professor of European Law at Radboud University, Nijmegen, The Netherlands, where he lectures on European Competition Law and EU Internal Market Law. His main area of research revolves around the economic concentration phenomenon in the Internal Market.

Melanie Smith, LLB, LLM, PhD, is a Lecturer at Cardiff Law School, Cardiff University in Wales, United Kingdom. Her main research interests are in EU Constitutional and Administrative Law, in particular the study of institutions as seen through the lens of legitimacy. She is the author of Centralised Enforcement, Legitimacy and Good Governance in the EU (Routledge, 2009) and has published a number of articles on the topic of enforcement of EU obligations.

Martin Trybus, LLM, PhD, Rechtsassessor, is Professor of European Law and Policy and Director of the Institute of European Law at Birmingham Law School, University of Birmingham, United Kingdom. His research aims to make a contribution to the understanding and development of the Law of the European Union, especially its economic and constitutional aspects, to establish 'European Union Defence and Security Law' as a separate legal subject, and to contribute to the understanding and development of European Union Public Procurement Law. Martin Trybus is the author of European Union Law and Defence Integration (Hart, 2005) and the co-editor, with Nigel White, of European Security Law (Oxford University Press, 2007) and, with Roberto Caranta, of The Law of Green and Social Procurement in Europe (Djøf, 2010). He has been involved in major studies for the European Defence Agency and the European Commission on the European armaments market, and for the OECD on procurement regulation. He is currently a member of the Procurement Review Board of the European Space Agency in Paris.

Johan van de Gronden is Professor of European law at the Law Faculty of the Radboud University Nijmegen, The Netherlands. He received his PhD in 1998. His research interests concern European Internal Market Law, Competition Law, Services of General (Economic) Interest and the impact of EU law on health care. From 1998 until September 2007 he worked at the Europa Institute of the University Utrecht (in the last years as a senior lecturer). In 2007 he was appointed as a professor of European law in Nijmegen. He is also a member of the Committee of Consumer Affairs and of the Committee of International Social and Economic Affairs of the Dutch Social and Economic Council. Furthermore, he is a founding editor of the TMC Asser series Legal Issues of Services of General Interest.

Ton van den Brink is Associate Professor in European Union Law at the Europa Institute of Utrecht University in the Netherlands and is responsible for the daily management of the Europa Institute. He has coordinated various national and EU-funded research and training projects. His research focuses on topics of European constitutional law and national dimensions of the European integration process. He is a member of the Ius Commune research school (senior researcher Constitutional Processes: Interaction between the National and the European Dimension). Ton is involved in several courses in the EU law Masters programme of Utrecht University as well as at Utrecht University College.

Bart van Vooren is Assistant Professor of EU Law and European Integration at the University of Copenhagen, Denmark. He specialized in international law at NYU School of Law, and subsequently received his doctoral degree from the European University Institute which focused on EU External Relations Law. During his doctoral studies he served as board member and editor-in-chief of the European Journal of Legal Studies. He is currently associate fellow at the Leuven University Centre for Global Governance Studies (GGS), and faculty liaison with the Centre for the Law of EU External Relations (CLEER).

Wolfgang Weiß studied Law and Economics at the University of Bayreuth. He completed his Dr. juris (1995) and his second thesis in law (Habilitation) in 2000. He was Reader, later Professor in International Law at Oxford Brookes University, United Kingdom (2006) and later Professor of Public Law, European Law and Public International Law at University of Erlangen-Nuremberg, Germany (2006–2008). Since 2008 he has held a Chair in Public Law, European Law and Public International Law at the German University of Administrative Sciences in Speyer and became an Ordinary Member to the German Research Institute for Public Administration in Speyer. He is still affiliated with Oxford Brookes University as a part-time Professor in International Law.