
Index

- advertising
 - commercial vs. eWOM
 - analytical framework 136
 - different sources of information 135–6
 - information searches 138–9, 144–5
 - information spread 139–40, 145–6
 - likelihood of resisting power of
 - negative information 142, 147
 - methodology 147–51
 - observability 140–41, 146
 - product awareness 137–8, 143–4
 - researcher interests 133
 - trial intention 141–2, 146–7
 - creativity in
 - fieldwork and findings 230–32
 - qualities of creative advertisement 223–9, 232
 - role of music 223, 229–30, 232–3
 - iconic component in successful 228
 - restructuring experiment 226–8, 233
 - television, as substitute for social media 133
 - trust in 123–4
 - and use of symbols 168
 - WOM as complementing and extending effects of 133
 - advice seeking 130, 141
 - aesthetics
 - as aspect of product design 33–4
 - of smartphones 36
 - attributes 38
 - results and conclusions 38–42
 - aggression 187–8
 - alcohol 79–80
 - altruism 130, 141, 177
 - ambidexterity hypothesis 46, 51–2
 - anorexic organizations 87
 - anxiety reduction 130, 141
 - arts industry
 - experiential perspective 108
 - future research recommendation 115
 - restricted roles of customers in 102
 - behaviourism see Learning Approach
 - Benz, Karl 29
 - Big Five personality trait theory 113, 176–7, 179–81, 189
 - brainstorming 18
 - Buddhism 207–9, 215, 217–18
 - business models
 - adopting new 45–6
 - measures 55
 - moderating role of 50, 52–4, 62
 - novelty-focused and efficiency-focused 50, 53–4, 59–63, 72–4
 - questions on role of 72–4
 - views on 52–3
 - business unit size
 - as control variable 50, 55
 - results 60, 62
 - statistics and correlation matrix 59
 - chan*
 - Buddhism movement 218
 - elements of emptiness and interdependence 218
 - from India to China/Japan 207–8
 - liberation of creative mind 213
 - mind training 215
 - motivated mind 219
 - for social engagement 213, 215–16, 219
 - three phases of 214
 - virtues of 208, 216, 219
 - vs. zen 208–9, 219
 - change-averse manager, as barrier to creativity 88
 - chaos
 - controlled 83
 - and creativity myth 79
 - cheerleaders, for creativity 84
 - clinical personality traits 181–2
 - Cognitive-Affective Processing System (CAPS) 192–3
 - cognitive personality traits 179
 - co-innovation

- conclusions and future research 114–16
- customers as co-innovators 99–100
- development of customer
 - collaboration in 93–9
- methodology 92–3
- questions relevant to study 91–2
- roles of customers in 99–102
- towards socio-cultural approach 106–10
- types of customer value 103–5
- typologies of customers in 110–14
- collaboration
 - for creativity 84
 - customer 93–9
- collectivism 162–3
- commercialization
 - personality traits for 113
 - relation to innovation 8–9
 - as required for entrepreneurship 9
- competition, internal, as barrier to creativity 87
- competitive intensity
 - as control variable 50, 55
 - questions in relation to 74
 - results 60, 62
 - statistics and correlation matrix 59
- complementarity 214–15
- conditioning
 - association processes 190
 - subjective 23
- consumer innovativeness 159–60, 163, 170
- consumer perspective see product design innovation
- continuity 212–13, 215
- creative self-efficacy 189, 194–5, 199
- creativity
 - as act of producing something new and meaningful 8
 - in advertisement
 - fieldwork and findings 230–32
 - qualities of creative advertisement 223–9, 232
 - role of music 223, 229–30, 232–3
 - associated adjectives and components of 173–4
 - barriers to
 - anorexic organizations 87
 - criticism 87
 - habit 85–6
 - internal competition 87
 - isolation 87
 - lack of reflection 87
 - negative and condescending language 88
 - perfectionism 88–9
 - reasons for 84
 - risk avoidance and punishment 86
 - routine 86–7
 - short-term management 88
 - stressful environment 88
 - unwillingness to change 88
 - convergent, for managing life 212–19
 - definition 76
 - encouraging
 - cheerleaders 84
 - collaboration and social gatherings 84
 - controlled chaos 83
 - humour 83
 - leadership style 81–2
 - passion 82
 - resources 84
 - trust and safety 82
 - as essential to humans 75, 80, 88
 - expressing 76–8
 - four Cs model 210
 - as genuine enrichment and as adding real value 13
 - as harbouring tension between novelty and norm 16–17
 - implicit theories of 224–5
 - importance of 80, 88–9
 - and innovation 1, 10–12, 29–30, 236–8
 - and invention 28
 - and learning 23–4
 - in life 209–11
 - monopolization as instance of 13
 - myths about 78–80
 - nature of 75–6
 - and personality
 - Dynamic Approach 185–8, 198–9
 - influence of management 197–9
 - influence on 173–4
 - Learning Approach 191–2, 199
 - Social-Cognitive Approach 193–7, 199, 237–8
 - Trait Approach 178–82, 198, 237

- as resulting from combination
 - of “previously unconnected matrices” 12, 19
 - as social-cultural act 211
 - social elements of 225–6
- creativity management
 - chan* or zen 207–8
 - chan* vs. zen 208–9
 - chapter
 - organization 211–12
 - overview 219
 - convergence in divergence 215–17
 - convergent creativity for managing life
 - complementarity 214–15
 - continuity 212–13
 - emergence of 219
 - interaction 213–14
 - creativity in life 209–11
 - synthesis for emerging life 217–18
- creativity paradox
 - impossibility of eliminating 20
 - integrated model as solution to 19–20
 - relation to learning paradox 17
 - transcending the norms 16–17
 - two-step model as way of facing 18–19
 - use of expert judgments 17–18
- criticism, as barrier to creativity 87
- culture
 - conceptual framework of innovation
 - resistance and components 162–70
 - need for 161–2
 - creativity emerging within person in 211
 - definitions 156–7
 - dimensions 156–8
 - emic approach 157, 159, 170
 - etic approach 156–9, 170
 - as important element in consumer behaviour 170
 - innovation resistance and culture at individual level 164–5
 - heroes 167–8
 - individualism 162–3
 - long-term orientation 164
 - masculinity 164
 - national culture 162
 - power distance 163
 - rituals 168–70
 - symbols 168
 - uncertainty avoidance 163
 - values 165–7
- operationalizing approaches 158–9
- study discussion 170
- use as independent variable 156
- customer-centric approach 96–9
- customer co-creation
 - conclusions and future research prospects 114–16
- customer collaboration development
 - evolution from innovation 1.0 to innovation 4.0 93–6
 - growing importance of customer-centric approach 96–9
- customer value
 - aspects across time 105
 - definition 103
 - from functional value to value through experience 108–10, 114–15
 - need for further research 115–16
 - shifts in 105–6
 - types of 103–5
 - from utility to highly symbolic element 106–8, 114–15
- lack of studies in innovation literature 91–2
- methodology 92–3
- roles of
 - changes in 97
 - customers as co-designers 101
 - customers as co-innovators 99–100
 - customers as co-marketers and co-branders 100
 - customers as socially responsible actors 101
 - restricted role of customers in arts 102
- towards socio-cultural approach 106–10
- typologies of
 - expert users 111
 - lead user 110–11
 - trait-based approach 113–14
 - user-innovators 111–12

- defence mechanisms 184
- Dynamic Approach
 - basic premise 175
 - as covering personality development 174
 - creative personality
 - according to 185–6, 198–9
 - negative emotion and aggression 187–8
 - role of moods and emotions for 186–7
 - defence mechanisms 184
 - intra-psycho conflicts 183–4
 - limitations 188
 - motivational drives 183
 - organizational applications of 188
 - in organizational context 184–5
 - theory 182–3
- dynamic capabilities theory 46–7
- education of consumers 15–16, 26
- efficiency-focused business model 50, 53–4, 59–63, 72–3
- Einstein, Albert 20
- electronic word-of-mouth (eWOM)
 - background 122–3
 - definition 126
 - emergence, and features of 126–7
 - hypotheses development
 - generating information searches 138–9
 - generating product awareness 137–8
 - information spread 139–40
 - likelihood of resisting power of
 - negative information 142, 147
 - observability 140–41
 - trial intention 141–2
 - hypotheses set-up, evidence to support
 - in-depth interview introduction 142–3
 - in-depth interview results 143–7
 - importance of researching 123–5
 - and innovation adoption
 - exploring impacts 132–4
 - impacts of sources of information 135–6
 - importance of researching 124–5
 - prior research linking 131–2
 - six effects of 134–5
 - usefulness for 127–8
- marketing 127–8
- methodology
 - additional control variables 151
 - experiment procedure 149–51
 - research method overview 147–8
 - sampling strategy 149
 - stimuli 148–9
 - positive and negative 128–9
 - research framework 136
 - research orientation 123
 - strength of negative
 - motivations behind publishing 130
 - sensitivity to loss 129–30
- emotions
 - and music in advertising 229–30, 232–3
 - negative 187–8
 - role of 186–7
- empathy values 166–7
- entrepreneurship, innovation
 - distinguished from 9, 28
- Europe 2020 Flagship Initiative
 - Innovation Union 238
- evolutionary biology 18, 21–2
- eWOM see electronic word-of-mouth (eWOM)
- expert users 111
- fatalism 158, 169–70
- flexibility 78, 86, 179, 186
- flow (being in) 75–6, 82, 186–7
- functionality
 - as aspect of product design 33
 - of smartphones 36
 - attributes 38
 - results and conclusions 38–42
- habit
 - as barrier to creativity 85–6
 - of mind 211, 215–16
 - resistance 161
- habitual behaviour 24–5
- hedonistic values 166
- heroes 167–8
- Hu, S. 208–9, 212, 214, 219
- humour, for creativity 83

- incremental creativity 192
- incremental innovation 12, 18, 22, 25, 208, 215–16
- individualism 162–3
- information
 - impact of different sources on innovation adoption 135–6
 - overload 122–3
 - power of negative
 - consumers more influenced by early 124
 - likelihood of resisting 142, 147
 - motivations behind publishing WOM/eWOM 130
 - vs. positive 128–30, 138–47
 - sensitivity to loss 129–30
 - power of positive
 - vs. advertisement 138–47, 149–51
 - main motivation for spreading WOM/eWOM 130
 - vs. negative 128–30
- searches
 - experiment procedure 150–51
 - hypothesis 138–9
 - male vs. female enthusiasm for 149
 - as reducing perceived risk 131–2
 - results 144–5
- spread
 - eWOM vs. WOM 126–7
 - experiment procedure 150–51
 - hypothesis 139–40
 - results 145–6
- innovation
 - applications of see product design innovation; product innovation; service innovation performance
 - broad and narrow notions of 7–10
 - and creativity 1, 10–12, 29–30, 236–8
 - definitions 12–13, 27–30, 76
 - evolution from closed innovation to co-innovation 93–6
 - and learning 22–7
 - many faces of 12–16
 - nature of 6–30
 - paradoxes and problems 16–22
 - process activities 236
 - Schumpeter's five types of 13
 - and social cognitive theory 238
 - traits 237
- innovation adoption
 - culture and innovation resistance 159–60, 170
 - customer perceptions influencing 98–9
 - impact of different sources of information on 135–6
 - impact of eWOM
 - model of 136
 - six effects of 134–5, 137, 140
 - in specific stage 132–4
 - importance of researching WOM/eWOM on 124–5
 - prior research linking WOM/eWOM with 131–2
 - and religion 169
 - resisting effects of negative WOM/eWOM as good for 142
 - usefulness of WOM/eWOM marketing 127–8
 - and user-innovators 111–12
- innovation diffusion
 - close relation to innovation adoption 131
 - customers' role in successful 96, 98
 - elements influencing spread of new idea 131
 - vs. innovation resistance 159, 162–3
 - power of WOM in 122, 133–4
 - and religion 169
 - transmission of useful information 139
 - two main concepts in 159
- innovation resistance
 - concept and forms 159–61
 - conceptual framework of culture and
 - components 162–70
 - need for 161–2
 - and heroes 167–8
 - high probability of 170
 - and individualism 162–3
 - and long-term orientation 164
 - and masculinity 164
 - and national culture 162
 - and power distance 163
 - and rituals 168–70
 - study discussion 170
 - and symbols 168

- and uncertainty avoidance 163
- and values 165–7
- intentional production 27–8
- intentionality 23
- interaction 213–14, 217
- Internet
 - and eWOM
 - benefits of 137
 - emergence of 126–7
 - online reviews 124
 - providing opportunities for WOM marketing 123, 128
 - spread of negative information 140
 - time spent on 133, 135
- intra-psychic conflicts 183–4
- invention
 - examples of 28–9
 - macro- 15, 25
 - micro- 16, 25–6
 - necessity as mother of 79
 - as potentially useful 28
 - as prototype 28
 - in relation to innovation and creativity 28
 - technological 8, 11
 - user-driven 26
 - as very first instance of product 29
- isolation, as barrier to creativity 87
- knowing how 24
- language
 - as barrier to creativity 88
 - relation to symbols 168
- lead user theory 110–11
- leadership style
 - creative 81–2
 - empowering 199
 - personalities 184–5, 198
 - transactional 191
 - transformational 178
- learning
 - and creativity 23–4
 - highest forms of 24
 - and innovation 22–7
 - organizational 23, 26
 - paradox 17, 26–7
- Learning Approach
 - basic premise 175
 - creative personality according to 191–2, 199
 - environmental influences considered 174, 196
 - in organizational context 190–91 and Social-Cognitive Approach 189 theory 189–90
 - long-term orientation (LTO) 164
 - luck 20–21
 - management influence on creative personality 197–9
 - market choice test 35–6
 - market orientation (MO)
 - assumptions on 45
 - concept of 48
 - in conceptual framework 50
 - consequences of 50–51
 - definition 48
 - future research recommendations 64
 - having both internal and external component 45
 - hypotheses
 - ambidexterity 51–2
 - consequences of 50–51
 - novelty-focused and efficiency-focused business models 53–4
 - results 60–63
 - interaction with resource orientation ambidexterity hypothesis in 51–2
 - concept of 48–50
 - measures 55
 - new service vs. new products 47
 - results of hypotheses 60–61
 - statistics and correlation matrix 59
 - study questions on 46
 - market turbulence
 - as control variable 50, 55
 - questions in relation to 74
 - results 60, 62
 - statistics and correlation matrix 59
 - marketing
 - innovation strengthening central role in 93–4
 - of new products 124–5, 139
 - usefulness of WOM/eWOM 122, 127–8, 138
 - masculinity 164
 - meditation see chan; zen
 - “mini-c creativity” 25

- MO see market orientation (MO)
- mood, role of 186–7
- motivational drives 183
- motivational-emotional personality traits 179–80
- music
- alignment with brand example 107
 - clinical personality traits 181
 - Mozart 11
 - redefining tasks example 21–2
 - role in creative advertising
 - “emerging meaning” 230
 - emotional content 229–30, 232–3
 - fieldwork and findings 230–32
 - guiding better grasp of sense of creative restructuring 233
 - influencing consumers’ behaviour 229–30
 - as privileged aspect 223
- nanoinnovation 25–6
- national culture 162
- new product development (NPD)
- customers contributing values for 91, 96, 113
 - development of customer co-creation theory in literature 95–6, 114
 - first stage as key to success 98
 - growth and development of literature 92–3
 - principle of activities in 103
 - role of customers in 99–101
 - and trait-based approach 113
- new products
- cosmetics 143–51
 - creativity as about developing 79
 - cultural influence 160
 - fatalism 170
 - vs. new service 46–7
 - relation to creativity and innovation 236
 - in smartphone market 35
 - success, failure and killed rates 124–5
 - from technical preference perspective 32–3
 - traditionalism 169
- new service
- efficiency-focused business model for 63
 - vs. new products 46–7
 - senior managers as respondents 56
 - study questions on 74
 - as study setting 46
 - novelty-focused business model 50, 53–4, 59–63, 73–4
- observability
- hypothesis 140–41
 - results 146
- openness
- to affective states 186
 - to change 157
 - to experience 77, 113, 175, 177–9, 195–6
- opinion leaders 110–12, 167–8
- optimum stimulation level (OSL) 166
- organizations
- anorexic 87
 - arts 102
 - Buddhist 218
 - and creativity
 - barriers to 85–9
 - encouraging 81–4
 - as existing in all workplaces 77
 - importance of 78, 80
 - Dynamic Approach in 184–5, 188
 - innovative 26, 75
 - learning 23, 26
 - Learning Approach in 190–91
 - management influencing creative personality 197–9
 - management of, undergoing paradigm shift 45–6
 - need to adopt new business model 45–6
 - routine-driven 80, 86–7
 - Social-Cognitive Approach in 193
 - with sustained competitive advantage 94
 - Trait Approach in 176, 178
- passion, for creativity 82
- perfectionism 88–9
- personality
- diversity within 196
 - influence on creativity 173–4
 - influence of management on creative 197–9
 - research approaches to

- Dynamic Approach 182–8, 198–9
- Learning Approach 189–92, 199 overview 174–5
- Social-Cognitive Approach 192–7, 199
- Trait Approach 175–82, 198
- Plato 17, 26
- Popper, Karl 19
- power distance 163
- practice-oriented innovation 8–10
- product awareness
 - hypothesis 137–8
 - results 143–4
- product design innovation
 - definition 32
 - fieldwork procedure 37–8
 - future buyers 32–3
 - future research recommendation 43
 - method 36–7
 - product choice
 - results 40–43
 - theoretical concept 34–5
 - varying in aspects of 38
 - quality products 32
 - results and conclusions 38–43
 - theoretical concepts
 - aesthetics 33–4
 - functionality 33
 - self-identity 34–5
 - sustainability 33
 - test market choice 35–6
- product innovation
 - co-innovation
 - development of customer collaboration in 93–9
 - roles of customers in 99–102
 - typologies of customers in 110–14
 - conclusions and future research 114–16
 - engaging customers in
 - methodology 92–3
 - questions of relevance to study 91–2
 - reasons for 91
 - towards socio-cultural approach 106–10
 - types of customer value 103–5
- “product of genius” 20
- Prospect Theory 129–30, 138
- psychodynamic theory 174, 183–5, 188, 192
- psychographic approach 114–15
- punishment, as barrier to creativity 86, 191
- reflection
 - lack of, as barrier to creativity 87
 - “in practice” 11
- reinforcement 190, 192–3
- Reino & Aino 106–8
- religion 168–9
- resource-based theory 46–7
- resource orientation (RO)
 - concept of 47–8
 - in conceptual framework 50
 - definition 45, 47
 - future research recommendations 64
 - having both internal and external component 45
 - hypotheses
 - ambidexterity 51–2
 - consequences of 50–51
 - novelty-focussed and efficiency-focused business models 53–4
 - results 60–63
 - interaction with market orientation
 - ambidexterity hypothesis in 51–2
 - concept of 48–50
 - study questions on 46
- resources, for creativity 79, 84, 198, 213
- retaliation 130, 141
- reward
 - behaviour controlled by 190
 - and creativity 180, 194
 - for failure 83
 - flow as internal 76
 - in Learning Approach 175, 190–92, 199
 - money or praise as external 76
 - for negative language 88
 - for organizational management 199
 - in self-determination theory 194
 - in Social-Cognitive Approach 194
- risk avoidance
 - as barrier to creativity 86
 - and uncertainty avoidance 163
- rituals 168–70
- RO see resource orientation (RO)
- routine, as barrier to creativity 86

- safety for creativity 82
- Schumpeter, Joseph 2, 12–16, 20, 24, 26
- scientific creativity 17–18, 224–5
- scientific development 11–12
- seeding programmes 127–8
- self-actualization values 167
- self-determination theory 190, 193–4
- self-identity
- influence on product design trade-off choices 41–2
 - measures 35
 - scale 40–41
 - and sustainability 42–3
 - theory 34, 42
- self-service technologies 47
- service innovation performance
- analysis and results
 - testing of hypotheses and results 58–62
 - validation of methods 57–8
 - basis, and contribution, of study 45–6
 - hypotheses
 - ambidexterity, in interaction of MO and RO 51–2
 - consequences of MO and RO 50–51
 - moderating role of business model 52–4
- research methods
- average variance extracted (AVE) 57–9, 70–74
 - common method variance 56–7
 - confirmatory factor analysis (CFA) 56–8
 - exploratory factor analysis (EFA) 57
 - measures 55
 - non-response bias 56
 - questionnaire development 54–5
 - questions for interviews 70–74
 - sampling and data collection 55–6
 - study discussion and implications
 - limitations and future research 63–4
 - purpose of study 62
 - research findings 62–3
- theory framework
- market orientation 48
 - MO and RO interaction 48–50
 - new product vs. new service 46–7
 - resource-based view 47–8
- smartphone study 34–43
- Social-Cognitive Approach
- basic premise 175
 - creative performance
 - belief of members 195
 - homogenous groups 195–6
 - creative personality according to 193–5, 199
 - creativity construction 237–8
 - and Learning Approach 189
 - limitations 196–7
 - in organizational context 193
 - theory 192–3
- social gatherings for creativity 84
- social innovation 9, 26, 28
- social personality traits 180
- Socrates 7
- SOLO-taxonomy 24
- stressful environment, as barrier to creativity 88
- sustainability
- as aspect of product design 33
 - of smartphones 36
 - attributes 38
 - results and conclusions 38–42
- Suzuki, D.T. 207–9, 212–16, 219
- symbols 168
- team composition 195–6
- technological innovation 8, 111
- technological turbulence
- as control variable 50, 55
 - questions in relation to 74
 - results 60, 62
 - statistics and correlation matrix 59
- technology 8, 14
- Technology Acceptance Model 132
- trade-offs see product design
- innovation
- traditionalism 158, 169, 176
- Trait Approach
- basic premise 175
 - big-five factors
 - facets and examples of traits 177
 - model 176
 - categories of creative traits
 - clinical 181–2
 - cognitive 179

- and innovation 237
 - motivational-emotional 179–80
 - social 180
- creative personality
 - according to 178–9, 198
 - limitations 182
- in Eastern research 225–6
- engaging customers in product innovation 113–15
- in organizational context 176, 178
- three independent factors 175–6
- universal traits 175
- trial intention
 - hypothesis 141–2
 - results 146–7
- trust
 - in advertisements 123, 140
 - for creativity 82
 - eWOM and impact on consumers' 131–2
 - as facet of trait 177
- two-step model
 - applying best to incremental innovation 12
 - close relation to linear model of scientific development 11–12
 - critique of 10–11, 18–19
 - exaggeration of role of randomness 20
 - as way of facing creativity paradox 18
- uncertainty avoidance 163
- usefulness of innovation 7–8, 10, 13–14, 19–20, 22, 27–9
- “user-driven” innovation 16, 26
- user-innovators 111–12
- value creation study see customer co-creation
- values
 - aspects across time 105
 - definition of customer 103
 - from functional value to experiential value 108–10, 114–15
 - as important element in consumer behaviour 170
 - and innovation resistance 165–7
 - need for further research 115–16
 - shifts in 105–6
 - types of customer 103–5
 - typology of 157
 - from utility values to symbolic values 106–8, 114–15
- Watt, James 11, 29
- word-of-mouth (WOM)
 - background 122–3
 - concept, definition and crucial elements of 126
 - contribution to innovation adoption 131–2
 - as important marketing communication channel 125, 131
 - trust in 123–4
 - see also* electronic word-of-mouth (eWOM)
- zen*
 - Buddhism movement 218
 - vs. chan 208–9, 219
 - of creativity management 219
 - elements of emptiness and interdependence 218
 - from India to China/Japan 207–8
 - liberation of creative mind 213
 - mind training 215
 - motivated mind 219
 - for social engagement 213, 215–16, 219
 - virtues of 208, 216, 219