Many thanks to everyone who has contributed to this volume. As editors, we are very grateful to all the authors for their work and patience as we constructed this compilation. Thanks to anonymous reviewers for their constructive contribution. On behalf of the authors, we also wish to thank everyone who contributed either by participation in the research or by providing support behind the scenes. We thank Frank Boons for inviting us to develop our ISDRS conference sessions into this book, and indeed we thank all the people who have contributed to those sessions over the past decade, thereby contributing to our international understanding. Erin McVicar and Alan Sturmer at Edward Elgar are thanked for their support in putting the volume together.

A special thank you is due to our families for their patience and support, especially over the last few challenging months of what has been a lengthy project. We are indebted to Pauline's daughter, Hazel Deutz, for her meticulous proofreading of the entire book; she reports that she now knows all she needs to know about industrial ecology. The contribution of the University of Hull to this work was part-funded by the UK Natural Environment Research Council (with the Economic and Social Research Council and DEFRA: NE/I019468/1).

To Dr Jalal Etriki, who is fondly remembered by everyone who knew him in Hull. We can only imagine how much more he is missed by his family in Tripoli.
