

Contributors

---

Eyal Benvenisti is Anny and Paul Yanowicz Professor of Human Rights, Tel Aviv University Faculty of Law. He is an Editorial Board member of the American Journal of International Law, and Member Associe of the Institut de Droit International. His areas of teaching and research include international law, constitutional law and administrative law. His publications include Sharing Transboundary Resources: International Law and Optimal Resource Use (2002) and The International Law of Occupation (second edition 2012).

Fabrizio Cafaggi is Professor of Comparative Law at the European University Institute on leave from Trento University. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the European Law Institute and coordinates the HiiL project on transnational private regulation. He is the Director of the Centre for Judicial Cooperation at EUI. His recent publications include Contractual Networks, Inter-firm Cooperation and Economic Growth (editor), New Foundations of Transnational Private Regulation, and Transnational Governance by Contract: Private Regulation and Contractual Networks in Food Safety.

Federica Casarosa is a research assistant at the European University Institute, Department of Law. She graduated in Private Comparative Law at the University of Pisa and obtained a Master of Research in Law from the European University Institute (2003). In 2008, she successfully defended her PhD thesis on the role of information in online contracting, in particular analysing the protection provided to consumers in the pre-contractual phase. She has worked as a consultant for FAO and as a Jean Monnet Fellow at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies. Her research interests focus on new media law and regulation, and on child protection in the media sector. Her work appears in several Italian and international journals, such as the European Review of Private Law, the Journal of Internet Law, and Diritto dell'Informazione e dell'Informatica.

Sabino Cassese is Judge of the Italian Constitutional Court. Having graduated summa cum laude in law in 1956, from the University of Pisa, since 1961 he has served as Professor of Administrative Law at the Universities of Urbino, Naples and Rome. He has been a member of many governmental committees and, in 1993–94, was a member of the Italian Government. He currently teaches History and Theory of the State at the ‘Scuola Normale Superiore’, in Pisa and Global Regulation for the Master of Public Affairs at Sciences Po, Paris. He taught Administrative Law at the Faculty of Law of the University of Rome ‘La Sapienza’ from 1985 to 2005.

He has received a doctor honoris causa degree from seven Universities: Aix-en-Provence, Cordoba, Paris II, Castilla-La Mancha, Athens, Macerata and the European University Institute.

He was President of the European Group of Public Administration (International Institute of Administrative Sciences) from 1987 to 1991, and visiting professor at the NYU Hauser Global Law School (2004 and 2010). In 2006 he founded the Institute for Research on Public Administration (IRPA). His most recent works include: Il mondo nuovo del diritto (2008, Laterza), Il diritto globale (2009, Einaudi), Massimo Severo Giannini (2010, Laterza) and Il diritto amministrativo: storia e prospettive (2010, Giuffrè), Lo Stato fascista (2010, Il Mulino), When Legal Orders Collide: the Role of Courts (2010, Global Law Press), L’Italia una società senza Stato (2011, Il Mulino).

Elisa D’Alterio, PhD (Administrative Law), and lawyer, is research fellow at the University of Rome ‘Sapienza’. She won several scholarships on administrative law topics, and participated as discussant in prestigious seminars on global administrative law. Her major areas of research are: relations among legal orders, the regulatory function of courts, transparency and performance of public administrations, and outsourcing of public activities. Her most recent publications include the book, La funzione di regolazione delle corti nello spazio amministrativo globale (The Regulatory Function of Courts in the Global Administrative Space) (Giuffrè, 2010) and several articles, in particular: ‘From judicial comity to legal comity: a judicial solution to global disorder?’ in International Journal of Constitutional Law (I-CON) (2011), and ‘Tecniche giudiziarie di regolazione dei rapporti tra diritto europeo e diritto globale’ (‘Judicial techniques of regulation of relations between European law and global law’), in Sistemi regolatori globali e diritto europeo (Global Regulatory Systems and European Law) (Giuffrè, 2011).

Kevin E. Davis is Beller Family Professor of Business Law at New York University School of Law. His research and teaching interests include contracts, commercial law, economic crime, and the relationship between law and economic development.

Maurizia De Bellis is tenured Assistant Professor in Administrative Law at the University of Rome 'Tor Vergata'. She is also clerk at the Italian Constitutional Court. She has been Global Research Fellow at New York University School of Law and Jemolo Fellow at Nuffield College, Oxford University. She co-authored the book Global Administrative Law and EU Administrative Law (edited by B.G. Mattarella and E. Chiti.), writing the chapter 'EU and global private regulatory regimes: the accounting and auditing sectors'. Among her recent publications are also 'Public law and private regulators in the global legal space', in International Journal of Constitutional Law, 9(2) (2011) and 'Global standards for sovereign wealth funds: the quest for transparency', in Asian Journal of International Law, 1(2) (2011). Currently, her research interests focus on financial regulation and climate finance.

George W. Downs is Professor of Politics and the former Dean for Social Sciences at NYU. Prior to coming to NYU 1998, he was Boswell Professor of Peace and War at Princeton University. His areas of specialization are international institutions and international cooperation, and his current research focuses on the changing role of the judiciary in the international global regulatory system and the impact of failed states on human rights outcomes. Publications include the books Bureaucracy, Innovation, and Public Policy; The Search for Government Efficiency; Tacit Bargaining, Arms Races and Arms Control; Collective Security After the Cold War and Optimal Imperfection? Domestic Uncertainty and Institutions in International Relations, as well as articles in political science, international law, and for statistics journals.

Cynthia Estlund is the Catherine A. Rein Professor of Law at the New York University School of Law. She has written extensively on labour and employment law, and is the author of Regoverning the Workplace: From Self-Regulation to Co-Regulation (Yale University Press, 2010).

Francesco Francioni, Dr. Jur. (Florence and LL.M Harvard), is Professor of International Law and Human Rights and Co-Director of the Academy of European Law at the European University Institute in Florence. Prior to moving to the European University Institute, he was the Director of the International Peace Studies Center and Jean Monnet Chair in European Law (Professore Ordinario) at the Faculty of Law, University of Siena. He is a member of the Institut de Droit international and of the American Law Institute. He was the chairman of the World Heritage Committee of UNESCO and the Italian delegate of many diplomatic negotiations for the adoption of treaties and other normative instruments on the protection of cultural property, including the UNIDROIT Convention and the Second Protocol to the 1954 Convention. He is a member of the Editorial Board of the European Journal of International Law and general editor of the Italian Yearbook of International Law. He has written and edited many books, most recently War by Contract (with Ronzitti, OUP, 2011), The 1972 World Heritage Convention: A Commentary (OUP, 2008), Access to Justice as a Human Right (OUP, 2007) and La Dimension pluridisciplinaire de la responsabilité sociale de l'entreprise (with M.A. Moreau, Aix-en Provence, 2007). Recent articles in peer reviewed journals include: 'International human rights in an environmental horizon', EJIL (2010); 'Au-delà des traités: l'émergence d'un nouveau droit coutumier pour la protection du patrimoine culturel', Revue Générale de droit international public (2007) and 'From cultural property to cultural heritage: the dynamic evolution of a concept and scope', L'action normative de l'UNESCO (2007).

Geoffrey P. Miller, the Stuyvesant P. Comfort Professor at New York University Law School, is a nationally recognized expert on banking and financial institution regulation, law and economics, and complex litigation. Professor Miller attended Columbia University Law School, where he was Editor-in-Chief of the Law Review, served as a judicial clerk to Judge Carl McGowan of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit and to Justice Byron White of the United States Supreme Court, and worked as an attorney in the United States Department of Justice Office of Legal Counsel and at a private firm before entering law teaching. Miller is the Director of NYU Law School's Center for Financial Institutions and a founder and former co-president of the Society for Empirical Legal Studies. A recent inductee in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Miller has been a visiting professor or visiting scholar at institutions around the world. He is author of five books and nearly two hundred scholarly articles in the fields of banking law, civil procedure, corporate law, legal ethics, and law and economics.

Ernst-Ulrich Petersmann is Emeritus Professor and former Head of the Law Department of the European University Institute at Florence, Italy. He has published more than 25 books on international economic law and was a former legal advisor in the German Ministry of Economic Affairs, GATT and the World Trade Organization.

Colin Scott is Dean of Law and Professor of EU Regulation & Governance at University College Dublin. His main research interests are concerned with the design and operation of regulation regimes, accountability of regulation and non-state regulation.

Richard Stewart is University Professor at New York University, where he serves as Faculty Director of the Hauser Global Law School Program, and Director of the Guarini Center on Environmental and Land Use Law. He teaches and writes on environmental law and policy, administrative law and regulation, and law and global governance. His current research interests include global administrative law, international and domestic climate finance and regulation, and nuclear waste issues.

Paul Verbruggen is a PhD researcher at the European University Institute. He writes on the design and operation of non-stage, private regulation and its interplay with public regulatory frameworks, focusing on questions of legitimacy, accountability and enforcement. His current research interests include EU regulatory policy, risk regulation and consumer protection issues. One of his publications is entitled 'Does co-regulation strengthen EU legitimacy?', which appeared in the European Law Journal.