
About the editors

Raghbendra Jha is Rajiv Gandhi Chair Professor of Economics and Executive Director, Australia South Asia Research Centre at the Australian National University. He has previously taught at Columbia University and Williams College in the United States, Queen's University in Canada, the University of Warwick in the UK, and the Delhi School of Economics, IIM Bangalore and the Indira Gandhi Institute of Development Research in India. He has been a consultant to many organizations including the ADB, the World Bank, WIDER, IFAD, DFID, UNESCAP, UNRISD and the Government of India.

Raghav Gaiha is a former Professor of Public Policy at the University of Delhi, Faculty of Management Studies. He has also served as a visiting fellow/scholar at various institutions, including Harvard, MIT, Stanford, Yale, Penn and the University of Cambridge. He is currently a Visiting Fellow at the Australian National University. He has been a consultant with the World Bank, ADB, FAO, ILO, IFAD and WIDER.

Anil B. Deolalikar is Professor Economics and Associate Dean of Social Sciences for the College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences at the University of California, Riverside, USA. He has published extensively on poverty, health, education and social protection in developing countries, has held visiting appointments at major universities and has consulted widely for many international organizations.