

Acknowledgments

The editors would like to thank the tireless work of our contributing authors and everyone who helped make this volume possible. We especially thank Peter Boettke, who liked our idea, encouraged us to push forward, and brought us together with the wonderful editing team at Edward Elgar Publishing. The forever patient Laura Mann at Edward Elgar deserves special thanks as we worked together throughout this process. Session participants at various annual conference meetings—including the Southern Economic Association, the Association of Private Enterprise Education, Global Business Research Symposium, and the Public Choice Society—provided invaluable feedback and perspective. Rob and Mike would like to thank Geoffrey Turnbull, and Greg would like to thank Russell Sobel for their years of mentoring and guidance. We all thank our wives and families for putting up with us throughout the completion of this book.
