

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Foreword	x
Kathryn Mills
Introduction: Mills today	xvi
Ann Nilsen and John Scott
 PART ONE THE INTELLECTUAL LEGACY
1 The Sociological Imagination , ‘On intellectual craftsmanship’ and Mills’s influence on research methods	3
Jennifer Platt
2 C. Wright Mills and the necessity of history	29
Krishan Kumar
3 The fate of The Sociological Imagination : Mills, social science and contemporary sociology	57
Lars Mjøset
4 Contextualizing lives: the history–biography dynamic revisited	88
Ann Nilsen and Julia Brannen
5 Mills, Miliband and Marxism	105
Michael Newman
6 C. Wright Mills and the contemporary challenge of biographical methods	129
Mike Savage
7 Class, elites and power: a contemporary perspective	150
John Scott
8 Access to power resources and increase of the symbolic body	165
Daniel Bertaux
9 C. Wright Mills on war and peace	183
John D. Brewer

PART TWO REFLECTIONS AND ENCOUNTERS

Kathryn Mills	War and peace, civil rights and gender: a few reflections about my father	205
John Scott	Encountering the sociological imagination	210
A. Javier Treviño	C. Wright Mills as designer, craftsman and stylist	213
Ottar Brox	What C. Wright Mills can teach us today	216
John D. Brewer	The sociological imagination and public sociology	219
Ole Johnny Olsen	Learning from an early encounter with The Power Elite	222
Ann Nilsen	Encounters with pragmatism	227
Index		229