Editors

Fergus Lyon is Professor of Enterprise and Organizations in the Centre for Enterprise and Economic Development Research, Middlesex University. His research interests include trust and co-operation in networks and clusters, enterprise behaviour, social enterprise and entrepreneurship, market institutions, social enterprise and economic development policy. He has published widely, including in Organization Studies, International Small Business Journal, Cambridge Journal of Economics, International Journal of Management Reviews, World Development and Human Organisation. He has carried out research in the UK, Ghana, Nigeria, India, Pakistan and Nepal. Recent work involves trust in business science relationships, trust in entrepreneurship and research on trust in relationships between public, private and third sector organizations.

Guido Möllering is Associate Professor of Organization and Management and holds the EWE Chair of Economic Organization and Trust at Jacobs University Bremen, Germany. He earned his PhD in Management at the University of Cambridge, UK, and his habilitation (postdoctoral degree, venia legendi) in Business Administration at Freie Universität Berlin, Germany. His main areas of research are inter-organizational relationships, organizational fields, and trust. Professor Möllering has published several books, notably Trust: Reason, Routine, Reflexivity (Elsevier, 2006), and many articles in leading journals such as Organization Science and Journal of International Business Studies. He is a Senior Editor of Organization Studies and a Deputy Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Trust Research.

Mark N.K. Saunders is Professor in Business Research Methods at the Birmingham Business School, University of Birmingham. He holds Visiting Professorships at the Department of Management, University of Malta; Surrey Business School, University of Surrey; and Worcester Business School, University of Worcester. His research interests include human resource aspects of the management of change including trust and organizational learning, and research methods. He has published in a range of journals including Human Relations, Journal of Personnel Psychology, Journal of Small Business Management, Management Learning and Social Science and Medicine. He is a member of the editorial boards of Personnel Review, Journal of Services Research and the Electronic Journal of Business Research. Mark is book series editor of the Handbooks of Research Methods (Edward Elgar Publishing) and co-series book editor of Understanding Research Methods for Business and Management Students (Sage). He is co-editor of Organizational Trust: a Cultural Perspective (Cambridge University Press, 2010) and lead author of Research Methods for Business Students (7th edition, FT Prentice Hall, 2016), which has also been translated into Chinese, Dutch, Russian and Vietnamese. He has co-authored a range of other books including Strategic Human Resource Management (FT Prentice Hall, 2007) and Dealing with Statistics: What You Need to Know (Open University Press McGraw-Hill, 2008). Mark also enjoys dinghy sailing, hill walking and riding his motorbike.