Contributors

Massimo Baù
Massimo is a Research Fellow at the Centre for Family Enterprise and Ownership, at Jönköping International Business School. His research topics are related with the entrepreneurial process and their relationship to three main research areas: First, family dynamics and the influence of family members on the actor’s decisions, and the entry and exit in the entrepreneurial process through the embeddedness perspective; second, academic entrepreneurship and factors enabling new venture startup and technology transfer; third, the firm’s growth paths through collaborative agreements and inter-firms networks.

Keith H. Brigham
Keith H. Brigham is an Associate Professor of Entrepreneurship and the Director of Entrepreneurship Programs at the Rawls College of Business at Texas Tech University. His primary research interests are in entrepreneurship, entrepreneurial cognition and decision-making, and family business. His research has been published in a number of journals such as the Journal of Business Venturing, Entrepreneurship Theory & Practice, Family Business Review, Organizational Research Methods, Business Ethics Quarterly, and The Leadership Quarterly. He currently serves on the editorial review board of Family Business Review.

Mary Schmid Daugherty
Mary is an Associate Professor of Finance at the University of St. Thomas. Mary teaches corporate finance and investment related topics at the undergraduate, graduate and executive level. In addition to her teaching duties, Mary is the lead faculty member for the Aristotle Fund, a student-managed portfolio responsible for approximately $3 million dollars of the university’s endowment. Mary co-authored the fourth edition of the book, Family Business, with Ernesto Poza. Mary also consults family business owners on financial education and family/board governance issues to help enhance the value of their business. Mary has held a variety of leadership positions in the Association for Investment Management and Research, served as President of the Chartered Financial Analyst Society of Minnesota, and serves on a number of private business and public boards. Mary is a proud owner and board member of a third-generation family business.

Gregory G. Dess
Greg is the Andrew R. Cecil Endowed Chair in Management, at the University of Texas at Dallas. Greg’s primary research interests are in strategic management, entrepreneurship, and knowledge management. He has published articles in leading academic and practitioner journals such as Academy of Management Journal, Strategic Management Journal, Academy of Management Review, Strategic Management Journal, and Administrative Science Quarterly. He presently serves on several editorial boards including Strategic Entrepreneurship Journal and Journal of Business Venturing. In 2000, he was inducted as one of 33 charter members of the Academy of Management Journals’ Hall of Fame. He has also co-authored several books, including Strategic Management: Text and Cases (2012) as well as two books targeted at the practitioner market: Beyond Productivity (1999), and Mission Critical (1997).
Contributors

Prior to joining the University of Texas at Dallas in 2002, he spent six years as the Gatton Endowed Chair at the University of Kentucky and has served on the faculties of the University of Texas at Arlington, Florida State University, and the University of South Carolina. Greg received his bachelor’s degree from Georgia Tech (1971), his MBA from Georgia State University (1976) and his PhD from the University of Washington (1980).

Karin Hellerstedt
Karin is an Assistant Professor at Jönköping International Business School. She has conducted research on entrepreneurship and knowledge intensive industries, and on how firms and entrepreneurial teams are formed and develop over time. She has been involved in several research projects dealing with aspects of entrepreneurship such as, academic, rural and knowledge-intensive entrepreneurship. Karin has written and published various research reports and also published in international peer-review journals. Her current research is centered on ownership transitions and the succession of privately held businesses, and the short- and long-term effects that firm failure may have on its’ owners and their family members.

Frank Hoy
Frank is the Paul R. Beswick Professor of Innovation & Entrepreneurship at Worcester Polytechnic Institute. Recently, he and co-author, Pramodita Sharma, published the book Entrepreneurial Family Firms (Pearson, 2010). Frank serves as president of the Family Enterprise Research Conference. He is a member of the global board of directors of the Successful Transgenerational Entrepreneurship Practices (STEP) project. Frank is a Fellow of the Family Firm Institute and the International Family Enterprise Research Academy. From 1988 to 1991, he held the Carl R. Zwerner Professorship of Family-Owned Businesses at Georgia State University and from 1991 to 2001 was Dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of Texas at El Paso.

Franz W. Kellermanns
Franz is a Professor of Management in the College of Business at the University of Tennessee. He holds a joint appointment with the INTES Center at the WHU–Otto Beisheim School of Management (Germany). He received his PhD from the University of Connecticut. His research interests include strategy process and entrepreneurship with a focus on family business research. He is an associate editor of Family Business Review and has published in journals such as Organization Science, Journal of Management, Journal of Management Studies, Journal of Organizational Behavior, Journal of Business Venturing, Entrepreneurship Theory and Practice, Academy of Management Learning and Education, etc. He serves on the editorial boards of Entrepreneurship Theory and Practice, Journal of Business Venturing, Journal of Management, Journal of Management Studies, Journal of Family Business Strategy and Strategic Entrepreneurship Journal.
G.T. Lumpkin
Tom is the Witting Chair of Entrepreneurship and head of the Department of Entrepreneurship and Emerging Enterprises at the Whitman School of Management at Syracuse University in New York. Tom's primary research interests include entrepreneurial orientation, social entrepreneurship, opportunity recognition, family business, and strategy-making processes. Tom is a globally recognized scholar publishing and serving on editorial boards of several premier journals such as Academy of Management Journal, Academy of Management Review, Entrepreneurship Theory and Practice, Journal of Business Venturing, Strategic Entrepreneurship Journal, and Family Business Review. He currently serves as co-editor of Strategic Entrepreneurship Journal. In 2009, Tom received the IDEA Awards’ Foundational Paper award from the Academy of Management for the paper, “Clarifying the Entrepreneurial Orientation Construct and Linking it to Performance” (1996). Recently, Tom and co-authors, Greg Dess, Alan Eisner, and Gerry McNamara published the sixth edition of the textbook, Strategic Management: Creating Competitive Advantages. Tom received his PhD in Business Administration from the University of Texas in Arlington and his MBA from the University of Southern California.

Mattias Nordqvist
Mattias is the Hamrin International Professor of Family Business and co-director of the Center for Family Enterprise and Ownership at Jönköping International Business School in Sweden. He is on the faculty of the Department of Entrepreneurship, Strategy, Organization and Leadership where he also has served as the associate dean for doctoral programs. Mattias is a former co-director of the global Successful Transgenerational Entrepreneurship Practices (STEP) project and a visiting scholar at Babson College, USA, the University of Alberta, Canada, and Bocconi University, Italy. He was selected as a “Family Owned Business Institute Scholar” twice; 2007–2008 and 2011–2012 by the Seidman College of Business at Grand Valley State University in Grand Rapids, Michigan, and won the Family Firm Institute's award for the “Best Unpublished Research Paper” in 2005 and again in 2011. Mattias also received the “Young Entrepreneurship Researcher” award in 2006 from the Swedish Entrepreneurship Forum and the Swedish Agency for Economic and Regional Growth.

Kirby Rosplock
Kirby is Director of Research and Development at GenSpring Family Offices. Kirby has extensively researched family wealth and the family office and is a published author and speaker on the topics. Kirby also conducted research on women and wealth and men and wealth as well as the intersections of entrepreneurship in family businesses and family offices. Kirby is the editor of GenSpring’s A Thought Leader’s Guide to Family Wealth (2009), comprised of insights from leading family wealth experts and created in celebration of the firm’s 20th anniversary. Kirby is a fifth-generation family member of a separate family enterprise. Kirby directs and co-researches with notable scholars in the field including, Dr. Dianne H.B. Welsh, from the University of North Carolina – Greensboro, and Dr. Juan Roure and Juan Luis Segurado, from the IESE Business School at the University of Navarra.
Contributors

Pramodita Sharma
Dita is the Sanders Professor for Family Business at the School of Business Administration at the University of Vermont. Prior to this appointment, she was the CIBC Distinguished Professor of Family Business at the John Molson School of Business, Concordia University in Montreal. Her research on the succession, governance, innovation, and the unique dynamics underlying family firms has been honored with several international awards including the NFIB “Best Dissertation” award from the Academy of Management. In 2011, Dita was presented with the Family Firm Institute’s prestigious Barbara Hollander award. Dita has co-authored two books and published approximately 50 scholarly articles and book chapters on family business. Dita is active in leadership and advisory roles in several professional associations including her role as editor-in-chief of the Family Business Review and as a co-founder of the Family Enterprise Research Conference. Dita is a frequent speaker at gatherings of family business leaders and her research remains focused on issues of significant importance to the family business community. Dita’s experiences as a member of a family enterprise prepare her understanding of the complexity and dynamics of family business.

Ritch L. Sorenson
Ritch is a Full Professor and teaches a graduate and undergraduate class on family business management at the University of St. Thomas. Ritch was an early pioneer in establishing family business education. He continues to develop new courses and an academic concentration in family business at St. Thomas. Ritch is an associate editor for Family Business Review, the premier journal in family business, and publishes research in top management journals. In addition to his journal publications, Ritch recently co-authored and edited the book Family Business and Social Capital (2011). In 2008, Ritch led the development of a unique series of family business conferences at the University of St. Thomas on family capital. In addition to his duties at Saint Thomas, he is an active participant in many professional organizations including the Family Firm Institute, the United States Association for Small Business and Entrepreneurship, and the Academy of Management.

Laura J. Stanley
Laura is an Assistant Professor of Management in the College of Business at East Carolina University. She received her PhD in Management from the University of Georgia. She holds an MS in accounting and a BS in business administration from UNC-Chapel Hill. Her primary research interests include organizational commitment and emotions. Her work has appeared in such journals as Entrepreneurship Theory and Practice, Journal of Vocational Behavior, Journal of Occupational and Organizational Psychology, and Human Performance. She currently serves on the editorial board of Journal of Vocational Behavior. Outside of her university related activities, Laura worked as a human resource consultant for Aon Consulting and Arthur Andersen, LLP.

Karl Wennberg
Karl is an Assistant Professor at the Stockholm School of Economics and vice-President at the Ratio Institute. His research investigates the interaction between social influences and economic performance for entrepreneurial action. He has published in, among other journals, Strategic Entrepreneurship Journal, Journal of Business Venturing, Management Science, Research Policy, and authored the book The Birth, Growth and Demise of Entrepreneurial Firms (Edward Elgar, 2010). His research earned best paper awards at Babson College Entrepreneurial Research Conference (2006) and the Academy of Management’s Entrepreneurship Division (2008), and best dissertation award from the Academy of Management’s Entrepreneurship Division (2010).

Andy Yu
Andy is an Assistant Professor of Management at the University of Wisconsin – Whitewater. He earned a doctorate in management and an MBA in marketing from Texas Tech University and received a BS in management information systems from National Chengchi University in Taiwan. He not only teaches entrepreneurship, strategy, and family business, but also had hands-on experience in new venture creation and family firms. He currently serves on the editorial review board of Family Business Review and has received several awards including “Best Paper” and the “Distinguished Reviewer” from the Entrepreneurship Division of Academy of Management, Family Business Review’s “Outstanding Reviewer,” and honorable mentions from the United States Association for Small Business and Entrepreneurship (USASBE). His research has appeared in Family Business Review, Journal of Management Policy and Practice, and Advances in Entrepreneurship, and Firm Emergence and Growth: Entrepreneurship and Family Business.