

FIGURES

3.1	Steamboat Willie: From Character to Brand?	60
3.2	Steamboat Willie: The Character as Mascot (Brand)	61
3.3	The Cat in the Hat: The Brand	62
3.4	Bibendum in 1898 (public domain)	64
3.5	Bibendum today	64
3.6	Bibendum now and then	65
3.7	The 'Yellow Kid'	67
3.8	Buster Brown shoes advertisement (1950s)	69
3.9	7Up Dot: 'Coolspot'	74
3.10	M&Ms 'Spokescandy'	75
7.1	Interbrand PLC (S Curve)	152
7.2	Brand value over time	169
11.1	A, B, explicit 'no man's land'	274
11.2	A, B, no explicit 'no man's land'	274
11.3	A, not $\bar{A}$	274
11.4	A, not $\bar{A}$ , explicit no man's land	275
11.5	A, B, with explicit exclusions to A, or vice versa	275
19.1	Revenue from franchising (BR$)	471
21.1	The concept of a 'trademark'	513
21.2	The 'Google' logo displayed on the web page of Google Inc. that provides a search engine service	515
21.3	Example of a snippet containing a trademark displayed by a search engine	515
21.4	Example of a registered trademark in a three-dimensional shape	516
21.5	Example of a registered trademark in a three-dimensional shape used as a product container	516
21.6	Example of a registered trademark using an illustrated portrait of a person (Japan Trademark Registration No. 4582803)	525
21.7	The shape of Dogo Onsen (hot-spring spa in the Dogo area) and the trademark in Chinese characters pronounced as 'dogo onsen'	534
23.1	Licenses of trademarks	560