

Contents

List of figures	vii
List of tables	viii
List of contributors	ix
1. Introduction: private enterprise and the future of urban planning Stefano Moroni and David Emanuel Andersson	1
PART 1 CONCEPTS AND THEORIES
2. Cities and planning: the role of system constraints David Emanuel Andersson	19
3. Towards a general theory of contractual communities: neither necessarily gated, nor a form of privatization Stefano Moroni	38
4. Governance by voluntary association Fred E. Foldvary	66
5. Private urban planning and free enterprise Walter E. Block	93
6. Community technology: liberating community development Alvin Lowi and Spencer MacCallum	106
7. Planning by contract: two dialogues Lawrence Wai-Chung Lai	135
PART 2 CASE STUDIES AND POLICIES
8. Modern cities: their role and their private planning roots Peter Gordon and Wendell Cox	155
9. Houston's land-use regime: a model for the nation Randal O'Toole	174

10.	Lessons from Gurgaon, India's private city Shruti Rajagopalan and Alexander Tabarrok	199
11.	The rise and fall of growth management in Florida Randall G. Holcombe	232
12.	The public planning of private planning: an analysis of controlled spontaneity in the Netherlands Edwin Buitelaar, Maaïke Galle and Niels Sorel	248
13.	The challenge of regulating private planning initiatives Nurit Alfasi and Talia Margalit	269
	Name index	295
	Subject index	300