

Contributors

---

Paolo Barbieri is Professor in Economic Sociology at the University of Trento, Italy, where he currently also coordinates the PhD program in Sociology. His main research interests are concerned with welfare and labor market dynamics in a comparative perspective. Address: University of Trento, Department of Sociology and Social Research, Via Verdi 26, 38122, Trento, Italy. e-mail: [paolo.barbieri@unitn.it].

Carlo Barone is a Lecturer at the University of Trento. He is interested in social stratification and social mobility, education and educational policies. He has published two books and several peer-reviewed articles on these topics. Address: University of Trento, Department of Sociology and Social Research, Via Verdi 26, 38122, Trento, Italy. e-mail: [carlo.barone@unitn.it].

Hans-Peter Blossfeld was born in Munich (Germany) in 1954 and received his training in sociology, economics, social statistics and computer science at the University of Regensburg (Dipl.-Soz., 1980), the University of Mannheim (PhD, 1984), and the Free University of Berlin (Habilitation, 1987). He worked as Research Scientist at the University of Mannheim from 1980 to 1984 and as Senior Research Scientist at the Max Planck Institute for Human Development and Education. Since 2002 he is Professor and Chair of Sociology I at the University of Bamberg (where he is on leave) and since 2012 he is Professor and Chair of Sociology at the European University Institute (EUI) in Florence (Italy). His research interests include life course research, educational sociology, labor market sociology, family sociology, demography and statistical methods. Address: European University Institute, Via dei Roccettini 9, 50014 San Domenico di Fiesole, Italy. e-mail: [HP.Blossfeld@EUI.eu].

Sandra Buchholz is a Professor of Sociology at Bamberg University in Germany. Before, she served as a research scientist in various international comparative research projects. Her research especially addresses the influence of national institutions and cultures on the structure and development of social inequalities and individual life courses and she published several articles and books on this topic. Address: Otto-Friedrich-University Bamberg, P.O. Box 1549, 96045 Bamberg, Germany. e-mail: [sandra.buchholz@uni-bamberg.de].

Sandra Buchler is a Research Fellow and Lecturer at the Chair of Sociology Specializing in Quantitative Analyses of Social Change at the Goethe-University Frankfurt am Main. Her research interests include families and households, cohabitation, gender attitudes, longitudinal research and inequalities in education. While completing the research for this book Sandra was employed as a Research Fellow and Lecturer at the Chair of Sociology I at the University of Bamberg. Address: Goethe-University Frankfurt am Main, Faculty of Social Science, Chair of Sociology Specializing in Quantitative Analyses of Social Change, Grüneburgplatz 1, 60323, Frankfurt am Main, Germany. [e-mail: buchler@soz.uni-frankfurt.de].

Jenny Chesters is currently a Post-Doctoral Research Fellow at the University of Canberra. She graduated with a PhD in Sociology from the University of Queensland in 2009. Her research interests include transitions between education and employment throughout the life course and the persistence of inequality in educational attainment. Address: ESTeM Faculty, Building 6, University of Canberra, Canberra, ACT 2601, Australia. [e-mail: jenny.chesters@canberra.edu.au].

Gábor Csanádi is Professor of Sociology and Director of the Research Centre for Urban and Regional Studies at Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest. His research topics are the relations between knowledge and urban development, social segregation, socio-spatial urban policies and governance. The focus is on comparative studies in a European context with a special attention on Hungary, Eastern and Central Europe. He has participated in a number of EU-funded research projects and in numerous advisory boards. Address: Eötvös Loránd University (ELTE) Faculty of Social Sciences, Pázmány Péter sétány 1/A, H-1117 Budapest, Hungary. [e-mail: gcsanadi@tatk.elte.hu].

Adrienne Csizmady is an Associate Professor of Sociology at Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest. She holds a senior researcher position at the Research Centre for Social Sciences, Institute for Sociology of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences. The main fields of her interests are: urban social problems (including integration of poverty groups), housing and large housing estates, organizations of civil society (including young people) and lifelong learning. She has participated in several international comparative projects. Address: Institute for Sociology, Centre for Social Sciences, HAS Országház u. 30, H-1014 Budapest, Hungary. [e-mail: csizmady.adrienne@tk.mta.hu].

Giorgio Cutuli, PhD, is a Research Fellow at the Department of Sociology and Social Research of the University of Trento. His main research interests include social stratification, labor markets, income and inequality dynamics, and longitudinal and counterfactual analysis. Address: University of Trento, Department of Sociology and Social Research, Via Verdi 26, 38122 Trento, Italy. [e-mail: g.cutuli@unitn.it].

Johanna Dämmrich is a PhD researcher at the Department of Social and Political Science in the European University Institute, a member of the Comparative Life Course and Inequality Research Center at the EUI, and part of the research team on the ERC-funded international comparative research project 'Education as a Lifelong Process – Comparing Educational Trajectories in Modern Societies'. Her primary research interests involve educational systems, labor markets and welfare states in a comparative perspective as well as gender differences in educational and labor market outcomes. Address: European University Institute, Via dei Roccettini 9, 50014 San Domenico di Fiesole, Italy. [e-mail: Johanna.Dammrich@eui.eu].

Cheryl Elman is an Emeritus Professor of Sociology at The University of Akron and Scholar in Residence (History) at Duke University. She studies the effects of twentieth century social change on and over the adult life course, as produced through social institutional and organizational forms such as labor markets, school systems and households. Her publications include articles in American Journal of Sociology, American Journal of Public Health, Demography and Social Science History. Address: Department of Sociology, University of Akron, Akron, OH 44325-1905, United States of America [e-mail: cse10@duke.edu].

Dana Hamplová is a Senior Researcher in the Institute of Sociology, ASCR and an Associate Professor at the Charles University. Her main research interest lies in a topic of social inequality and she particularly focuses on the interdependence between education and family behavior. She has authored and co-authored several books and published in peer-reviewed journals such as Demography, Journal of Family Issues, Journal of Comparative Family Studies, Ethnic and Racial Studies, and others. Address: Institute of Sociology, Jilská 1, 110 00 Prague 1, Czech Republic. [e-mail: dana.hamplova@soc.cas.cz].

Michele Haynes is an Associate Professor and Leader of the Research Methods and Social Statistics Program at the Institute for Social Science Research, The University of Queensland. Haynes is also the current Chair of the Social Statistics Section of the Statistical Society of Australia and is an internationally respected authority in longitudinal analysis. Her research interests include developing methodology for modeling longitudinal social survey data, and optimal weighting strategies for longitudinal and dual-frame surveys. She has more than 20 years' experience in providing statistical advice and teaching statistical methods to researchers, public sector officers and practitioners in the social sciences and other disciplines. Address: The University of Queensland, Institute for Social Science Research, St Lucia Campus, GPN3 (Building 39A), Level 4, Campbell Road, QLD 4072, Australia. [e-mail: m.haynes@uq.edu.au].

Angela Higginson is a Research Fellow at the Institute for Social Science Research at the University of Queensland, Australia. Her research interests are predominantly in quantitative methods for social sciences, including evaluation, systematic reviews, and longitudinal methods. She leads the Systematic Review team in the Policing and Security program, where her work focuses on the synthesis of empirical evidence for intervention effectiveness, particularly around issues of crime and justice. Address: The University of Queensland, ARC Centre of Excellence in Policing and Security (CEPS) and Institute for Social Science Research, St Lucia Campus, Building 31B, Room 111, Brisbane QLD 4072, Australia. [e-mail: a.higginson@uq.edu.au].

Elina Kilpi-Jakonen is an Academy of Finland Postdoctoral Researcher at the University of Turku. During the time of writing this book, she was a Research Fellow on the eduLIFE project, first at the University of Bamberg and then at the European University Institute. Her research interests focus on social inequalities related to social origin, migration background and gender within education and the labor market. Address: Sociology unit, Department of Social Research, Assistentinkatu 7, 20014 University of Turku, Finland. [e-mail: elina.kilpi-jakonen@utu.fi].

Yuliya Kosyakova is a PhD researcher at the Department of Social and Political Science in the European University Institute, a member of the Comparative Life Course and Inequality Research Centre at the EUI, and part of the research team on the ERC-funded international comparative research project 'Education as a Lifelong Process – Comparing Educational Trajectories in Modern Societies'. Her main research interests focus on educational inequalities over the life course, social inequality, post-socialist societies, and international comparison. Address: European University Institute, Via dei Roccettini 9, 50014 San Domenico di Fiesole, Italy. [e-mail: yuliya.kosyakova@eui.eu].

Michele Lugo is a PhD student in Sociology and Social Research at the University of Trento, Italy. His main research areas concern social stratification and inequalities, welfare and labor market studies, occupational career analysis and family and labor market dynamics in a comparative perspective. Address: University of Trento, Department of Sociology and Social Research, Via Verdi 26, 38122 Trento, Italy. [e-mail: michele.lugo@unitn.it].

Pekka Martikainen is Professor of Demography at the Department of Social Research, University of Helsinki. He has written on socio-demographic differences in mortality in Finland, and on the health effects of unemployment and death of spouse. His current research interests include changes and causes of socioeconomic differences in cause-specific mortality, and social determinants of use of long-term care in aging populations. He is also working on the health effects of marital status and living arrangements and has been involved in cross-national comparisons of health inequalities. Address: Population Research Unit, Department of Social Research, P.O. Box 24, FIN-00014 University of Helsinki, Finland. [e-mail: pekka.martikainen@helsinki.fi].

Patricia McMullin is a PhD researcher at the Department of Social and Political Science in the European University Institute, a member of the Comparative Life Course and Inequality Research Centre at the EUI, and part of the research team on the ERC-funded international comparative research project 'Education as a Lifelong Process – Comparing Educational Trajectories in Modern Societies'. She has worked as a research assistant in the University of Bamberg, Germany and the Geary Institute, University College Dublin. Her main research interests focus on educational inequality in third-level education, employer-sponsored adult education and early childhood education. Additionally she is interested in labor market research, longitudinal data analyses, program evaluation and comparative research. Address: European University Institute, Via dei Roccettini 9, 50014 San Domenico di Fiesole, Italy. [e-mail: Patricia.McMullin@eui.eu].

Pau Miret Gamundi is a Senior Researcher at the Centre for Demographic Studies (CED) at the Autonomous University of Barcelona (UAB). His main research interests are the effect of education on family formation, labor force dynamics, and migration. Address: Centre for Demographic Studies, Campus de la Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, Edifici E2, 08193, Bellaterra (Barcelona), Spain. [e-mail: pmiret@ced.uab.es].

Vibeke Myrup Jensen is a Senior Researcher and Director of the Education Research Group at the Danish National Centre for Social Research (SFI). Her research interests include economics of education, health economics and family economics. Address: The Danish National Centre for Social Research, Herluf Trollesgade 11, DK-1052, Copenhagen, Denmark. [e-mail: vmj@sfi.dk].

Elisabeth Reichart is a Researcher at the German Institute for Adult Education. She studied educational science at the Universities of Bamberg and Aarhus and got her Ph.D. in social and economic sciences from the University of Bremen. Her research interests include participation in adult education, adult education systems in comparative perspective, and statistics on adult education providers. Address: German Institute for Adult Education, Heinemannstr. 12-14, 53175, Bonn, Germany. [e-mail: reichart@die-bonn.de].

Peter Róbert is Professor of Sociology at Széchenyi University. He holds a senior researcher position at the Institute for Political Science, HAS. His research interests involve social stratification, educational inequalities, public opinion research and analysis on political attitudes. He has published in edited volumes by Oxford University Press, Princeton University Press, Edward Elgar, Routledge, Springer and Stanford University Press as well as in refereed journals like RSSM, ESR, European Societies, ERE. Address: Institute for Political Science, Centre for Social Sciences, HAS Országház u. 30. H-1014, Budapest Hungary. [e-mail: robert.peter@tk.mta.hu].

Eve-Liis Roosmaa is a Researcher Lecturer and a graduate student in sociology at the Institute of International and Social Studies, Tallinn University, Estonia. She is interested in the research fields of education, lifelong learning and labor market, mostly in a comparative perspective to investigate structural effects on individual outcomes. Address: Institute of International and Social Studies, Tallinn University, Uus-Sadama 5-662, Tallinn 10120, Estonia. [e-mail: eve-liis.roosmaa@iiss.ee].

Ellu Saar is a Professor at the Institute of International and Social Studies, Tallinn University, Estonia. Her research areas are social stratification and mobility, educational inequalities and life course studies. She is an editor-in-chief of the journal Studies of Transition States and Societies, a member of the editorial board of European Sociological Review and a member of the Steering Committee of the European Consortium of Sociological Research. Address: Institute of International and Social Studies, Tallinn University, Uus-Sadama 5-662, Tallinn 10120, Estonia. [e-mail: ellu.saar@iiss.ee].

Stefani Scherer is an Associate Professor in Sociology at the University of Trento, Italy. She is working on social inequalities in international comparison, the analysis of life courses, family and labor market dynamics. She is the principal investigator of the ERC-financed project “Families of Inequalities”. Address: University of Trento, Department of Sociology and Social Research, Via Verdi 26, 38122 Trento, Italy. [e-mail: stefani.scherer@unitn.it].

Susanne Schührer is a PhD researcher at the Department of Social and Political Science in the European University Institute, a member of the Comparative Life Course and Inequality Research Centre at the EUI, and part of the research team on the ERC funded international comparative research project ‘Education as a Lifelong Process – Comparing Educational Trajectories in Modern Societies’. Her research interests are educational sociology, sociology of the labor market, non-cognitive skills as well as methods of empirical social research. Address: European University Institute, Via dei Roccettini 9, 50014 San Domenico di Fiesole, Italy. [e-mail: susanne.schuhrer@eui.eu].

Natalie Simonová is a Senior Researcher at the Institute of Sociology, ASCR and has been associated with the ISEA think tank since 2011. Her research interests include educational inequalities, their sources and developments, and particularly educational mobility in the Czech Republic. She has written the book “Educational Inequalities in Czech Society: Development from the Early 20th Century to the Present”, and edited the book “The Czech University System at the Crossroad”. Her work has also been published in peer-reviewed journals such as British Journal of Sociology of Education, The Sociological Review, Sociologický časopis/Czech Sociological Review, Sociologia, Sociological Theory and Methods, and Higher Education. Address: Institute of Sociology, Jilská 1, 110 00 Prague 1, Czech Republic. e-mail: [Natalie.simonova@soc.cas.cz].

Outi Sirniö is a doctoral candidate in the Population Research Unit, University of Helsinki. Her scholarly interests include social stratification, inequality and intergenerational social mobility. Address: Population Research Unit, Department of Social Research, P.O. Box 18, FIN-00014 University of Helsinki, Finland. e-mail: [outi.sirnio@helsinki.fi].

Anders Stenberg is an Associate Professor of Economics at the Institute for Social Research, Stockholm University. Adult education has been his major research area for more than a decade, and he has published articles in world leading economics field journals. Address: Swedish Institute for Social Research, Stockholm University, 10691 Stockholm, Sweden. e-mail: [anders.stenberg@sofi.su.se].

Moris Triventi, PhD, has been post-doc researcher at the University of Milano-Bicocca from 2010 to 2013; in September 2013 he joined the eduLIFE research project as a Research Fellow at the European University Institute. He is interested in social stratification, education, and transition to the labor market in a comparative perspective. He published a book (in Italian) and several peer-reviewed articles on these topics. Address: European University Institute, Via dei Roccettini 9, 50014 San Domenico di Fiesole, Italy. e-mail: [moris.triventi@eui.eu].

Julia Unfried was a project assistant at the Department of Social and Political Science in the European University Institute working from Bamberg, a PhD researcher at the University of Bamberg and part of the research team on the ERC-funded international comparative research project ‘Education as a Lifelong Process – Comparing Educational Trajectories in Modern Societies’. Her main research interests focus on Labour Market and Employment Research, Life Course Research as well as the Comparison of Different Educational Systems and Quantitative Methods. Address: Äußere Großweidenmühlstraße 25, 90419 Nürnberg, Germany. e-mail: [julia.unfried@googlegmail.com].

Marge Unt is a senior researcher at the Institute of International and Social Studies, Tallinn University, Estonia. Her research interests lie in social stratification, transition from school to work, late career and retirement pathways in comparative perspective as well as methods of data analysis. Address: Institute of International and Social Studies, Tallinn University, Uus-Sadama 5-662, Tallinn 10120, Estonia. e-mail: [marge.unt@iiss.ee].

Daniela Vono de Vilhena, Ph.D., Scientific Coordinator at the Population Europe Secretariat / Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research. During the time of writing this book, she was a Research Fellow on the eduLIFE project, first at the University of Bamberg and then at the European University Institute. Her research interests focus on family and labor market dynamics over the life course. Address: Population Europe Secretariat, Markgrafenstrasse 37, 10117, Berlin, Germany. e-mail: [vono@demogr.mpg.de].

Susanne Wahler is a PhD researcher at the Department of Social and Political Science in the European University Institute, a member of the Comparative Life Course and Inequality Research Centre at the EUI, and part of the research team on the ERC-funded international comparative research project ‘Education as a Lifelong Process – Comparing Educational Trajectories in Modern Societies’. Her main research interests lie in educational sociology, life course research, longitudinal research and quantitative methods. Address: European University Institute, Via dei Roccettini 9, 50014 San Domenico di Fiesole, Italy. e-mail: [susanne.wahler@eui.eu].

Felix Weiss is head of the team “German Microdata Lab” at the GESIS Leibniz Institute for Social Sciences. Before joining GESIS he was researcher at the Universities of Mannheim and Cologne. Felix studied sociology, political science and business administration at the University of Mannheim and the Chinese University of Hong Kong and obtained a Diploma in Social Sciences and a doctoral degree in Sociology from the University of Mannheim. His main research interests are sociology of the life course, social stratification in comparative perspective, educational inequality and sociology of the labor market. Address: GESIS Leibniz Institute for Social Sciences, B2,1, D-68159, Mannheim, Germany. e-mail: [felix.weiss@gesis.org].