We are extremely grateful to the authors who contributed chapters to this book, the contents of which were considered at great length at King's College London in June 2013, where we came together to discuss the topic 'European Union: Solidarity in Question'. We thoroughly enjoyed exchanging ideas on European solidarity and much appreciated the authors' patience with this publication. The meetings and valuable discussions we had were generously supported by the King's Centre of European Law and the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence, for which we are thankful.

We would also like to mention Stefanie Lehnert and Maria Kendrick and their kind help with proofreading the chapters at various stages of the editorial process. The assistance we received from Ben Booth and Amber Watts, both from Edward Elgar Publishing, was invaluable for making this book materialise. A final thank you goes to our families, especially spouses, for their continuing support with our scholarly endeavours.
