

Tables

3.1	Estimates of those who worked at home in the US at least one day a week, and those who worked at home only	50
3.2	Home workers and change 2005–2010 by selected US cities	50
3.3	Socio-economic status of home-based workers	52
3.4	Occupations of all workers and home-based workers	53
7.1	Indicators of positions accessed by entrepreneurs and differences between 2008 and 2013	142
8.1	Information on the interviewed entrepreneurs	160
9.1	Case studies	183
11.1	Industry composition of businesses by home location, urban/rural classification and gender	231
11.2	Socio-demographic characteristics of home-based business owners versus non-home-based business owners by urban–rural area	233
11.3	Type of area in which urban businesses are located by type of business and gender	235
11.4	Most important reasons for running the business from home by urban–rural location, gender and child in household	237
11.5	Most relevant major advantages of running the business from home by urban–rural location, gender and child in household	238
11.6	Most relevant major disadvantages of running the business from home by urban–rural location, gender and child in household	239
13.1	Forms of capital for entrepreneurship in persons, households and neighbourhoods	277