Contributors

Catherine E. Bell is a Professor of Law at the University of Alberta, Canada specialising in Indigenous rights, property law and collaborative legal research. She is widely published including: First Nations Cultural Heritage and Law: Case Studies Voices and Perspectives (UBC Press 2008, with Val Napoleon) and Protection of First Nation Cultural Heritage: Laws, Policy and Reform (UBC Press 2008, with Robert K. Paterson). Her current research focuses on Métis constitutional rights and Indigenous and Canadian law and policy in cultural heritage. She is a co-investigator on an international interdisciplinary research collaboration with Indigenous peoples concerning intellectual property issues in cultural heritage (www.sfu.ca/ipinch) and a national project on Métis rights in Canada (www.metistreatiesproject.ca).

Michael Blakeney is Winthrop Professor, University of Western Australia and Visiting Professor in IP and Agriculture, Queen Mary University of London. He formerly worked in the Asia Pacific Bureau at the World Intellectual Property Organization. His latest books (published by Edward Elgar) are: Intellectual Property Enforcement. A Commentary on the Anti-Counterfeiting Trade Agreement (ACTA) (2012) and The Protection of Geographical Indications. Law and Practice (2014).

Dan L. Burk is Chancellor’s Professor of Law at the University of California, Irvine, where he teaches courses in patent law, copyright and related topics. An internationally prominent authority on issues of high technology, he is the author of numerous papers on the legal and societal impact of new technologies, including articles on Internet regulation, biotechnology patenting, scientific misconduct and competition policy. Professor Burk holds a BS (1985) in Microbiology from Brigham Young University, an MS (1987) in Molecular Biology and Biochemistry from Northwestern University, a JD (1990) from Arizona State University, and a JSM (1994) from Stanford University.

Susan Corbett is an Associate Professor of Commercial Law in the Business School, Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand. Her research focuses on copyright law and digital culture, online privacy law, and cyber-law more generally. She is a founder member and General Secretary of the Asian Pacific Copyright Society, an Associate of the Arbitrators’ and Mediators’ Institute of New Zealand, and is admitted as a solicitor in England and Wales and as a barrister and solicitor in New Zealand. Susan holds a BSc from the University of Auckland and LLM from the University of Wellington.

Susy Frankel is Professor of Law and Director of the New Zealand Centre of International Economic Law, at Victoria University of Wellington, where she teaches intellectual property, international trade law, and the protection of indigenous peoples’ innovation and knowledge assets. Since 2008 she has been Chair of the Copyright Tribunal (NZ). She is President (2015–2017) of the International Association for the Advancement of Teaching and Research in Intellectual Property (ATRIP). Susy is the author of Intellectual Property in New Zealand (2nd edn, LexisNexis 2011) and her most recent book is Test Tubes for Global Intellectual Property Issues: Small Market Economies (CUP 2015).

Jessica C. Lai is Senior Lecturer of Commercial Law in the Business School, Victoria University of Wellington. She researches in intellectual property and cultural heritage law, including the protection of indigenous cultural heritage. She has taught related classes at Victoria University of Wellington, the University of Lucerne, University of Geneva, Goethe University in Frankfurt, Stockholm University and Uppsala University. Jessica holds an LLB Hons, BSc and MSc in Chemistry from Victoria University of Wellington and a PhD in Law from the University of Lucerne. From February 2015 to July 2016 she was a Swiss National Science Foundation Postdoctoral Fellow at the Max-Planck Institute for Innovation and Competition Law in Munich.

Michael J. Madison is Professor of Law and Faculty Director of the Innovation Practice Institute at the University of Pittsburgh School of Law, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Professor Madison teaches and writes about information law, intellectual property law, contracts and commercial law, and property law. He is co-author of The Law of Intellectual Property (4th edn, Wolters Kluwer 2013) and co-editor of Governing Knowledge Commons (OUP 2014). A full list of publications is available at http://madisonian.net/home.

Antoinette Maget Dominicé is a postdoctoral researcher at the University of Lucerne, Switzerland, where she also teaches art law and sociology of law. She primarily works on cultural heritage protection, especially in the relation between preservation and valorisation. In 2012, she contributed to the study “Propriété Intellectuelle, Communs et...”
Exclusivité. Les nouvelles frontières de l’accès et de l’innovation partagés” with a report on the reutilisation of information in cultural institutions.

Aisling McMahon is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Newcastle, United Kingdom. Her research interests are primarily in the fields of medical and patent law. In 2015, she submitted and successfully defended her PhD at the University of Edinburgh, which was supported by a Principal’s Career Development Award (2011–2013). Her dissertation explored the institutional influences on the application of the morality provisions in the European patent system for biotechnological inventions. Aisling also holds an LLM in Law, Technology and Governance (first class honours) and a Bachelor of Civil Law (first class honours) from the National University of Ireland, Galway.

Laura K. Skorodenski is a practising lawyer at Kutz Skorodenski Law in Sundre, Alberta, Canada, and the owner/operator of a limited edition art publishing company through which she has over 20 years’ experience in the art industry, with a focus on copyright in artwork, contracts concerning copyright licensing, and the protection of rights asserted through copyright. She is a Juris Doctor graduate from the University of Alberta and an associate member of IPinCH (Intellectual Property Issues in Cultural Heritage, www.sfu.ca/ipinch). As the recipient of the 2012 Roger S Smith Student Research Award, she worked with Professor Catherine Bell to explore the impact of intellectual property laws on items of cultural heritage, and the consequences and interplay of these laws in the development of museum policy.

Giorgio Spedicato is an Adjunct Professor in Intellectual Property Law at the Department of Legal Studies of the University of Bologna. He studied International Copyright Law at the Universiteit van Amsterdam (Netherlands) and has been Visiting Research Scholar at the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law in New York and at the Max Planck Institute for Innovation and Competition in Munich. Professor Spedicato is currently a member of the Expert Task Force on Digital Books set up by the Italian Ministry of Education, University and Research to review and implement domestic legislation on digital books and on software platforms enabling social learning.

Peter K. Yu is Professor of Law and Co-Director of the Center for Law and Intellectual Property at Texas A&M University School of Law. Born and raised in Hong Kong, he most recently held the Kern Family Chair in Intellectual Property Law at Drake University Law School. He also served as Wenlan Scholar Chair Professor at Zhongnan University of Intellectual property and access to immaterial goods

Economics and Law in Wuhan, China and a visiting professor of law at the University of Haifa, the University of Hong Kong and the University of Strasbourg.