This book grew out of the Eighth TransAtlantic Business Ethics Conference (TABEC) held on 23–25 October 2014 at the University of Notre Dame (USA), and is published thanks to the many contributions of several people and institutions who have helped us realize the project.

First, we are very grateful to Laszlo Zsolnai and George Brenkert for inviting us to host this conference at Notre Dame, as well as to edit this volume. As founders of the TABEC initiative and editors of the Studies in TransAtlantic Business Ethics book series, their passion, personal involvement and constructive suggestions have not only made this book possible, but also a mostly enjoyable project.

We are also indebted to several people and institutions who contributed to the realization of the conference and to the publication of this book. We would like to thank all the participants at the conference for bringing their knowledge and creativity to work in illuminating the topic of the conference. It is our hope that the dialogues at the conference will stimulate further work on these important issues, the interactions at the Sixth World Congress of Business, Economics, and Ethics on 13–16 July 2016 in Shanghai, China (<http://isbee.org>) and further discussions around the world.

We are thankful to Roger Huang, Dean of the Mendoza College of Business at the University of Notre Dame, for his practical and collegial support and especially for underwriting the financial costs of the conference, as well as to Oliver F. Williams, CSC and the Center for Ethics and Religious Values in Business for additional financial aid.

Four administrative personnel at Notre Dame were very helpful with the conference and the completion of the book. Deb Coch handled many organizational details leading up to the Eighth TABEC conference. Harriet Baldwin managed hotel accommodation, meals and conference room arrangements including technology. Diane Stauffer reformatted slides of the figures and tables in the book to make them publishable and Tracey Thomas edited and proofread every chapter of the book. To Deb, Harriet, Diane and Tracey, thank you.

There were several participants at the conference whose work for different reasons are not included in this book. We are grateful for the contributions of these individuals to the conference, and thereby to the intellectual content of this book, to which they have contributed indirectly through dialogues at the conference: Andy Crane, Geert Demuijnck, Julia Roloff and Lee Tavis.

Finally, we would like to acknowledge our editors at Edward Elgar Publishing for publishing this book as part of the Studies in TransAtlantic Business Ethics series, as well as for their constructive help, engagement and commitment to the book project.
