The authors and editors thank Benedict Hill and Chloe Mitchell for their continuous guidance in the elaboration of this book, and Edward Elgar Publishing for believing in the project from the start. Also, our gratitude goes to Cathrin Scupin and FBBVA for giving us permission to publish this book in English, which is a revision of a recent book originally published in Spanish, Familias empresarias y grandes empresas familiares en América Latina y España (Fundación BBVA, Bilbao, 2015, http://www.fbbva.es/TLFU/dat/DE_2015_familias_empresarias.pdf).

An Icrea Academia distinction of the Catalan Institute for Advanced Research (ICREA) provided resources to prepare a first draft in English with the assistance of Kirstin Adams, and to edit the book with the technical support of the University of Barcelona PhD student Jaime López Guaque.

The editors Paloma Fernández Pérez and Andrea Lluch give special thanks to the authors for their long-term commitment and collaborative work. They have made possible a difficult and ambitious project that involved 22 scholars from 11 countries and three academic disciplines, living in two continents. Enthusiasm, optimism and above all team work, as well as a cooperative and positive attitude have made it possible to produce this book, one of the first ones in the English language that has attempted to analyse the continuities and changes of large family businesses in Latin America and Spain in the last century.
