

Acknowledgements

This book emerged from the international seminar, ‘Economic policy, external imbalances and income inequality’ hosted by the Faculty of Economics at the National Autonomous University of Mexico (UNAM) and the research project ‘Financialization and economic policies: a theoretical and institutional analysis for developing countries’ (IN 303314) supported by the Dirección General de Asuntos del Personal Académico, UNAM, together with the ‘Area of Dynamic Macroeconomic and Structural Change’ of the Universidad Autónoma Metropolitana, Xochimilco (Mexico City, 24–25 September 2014). We would like to thank these institutions and the contributors to the research project, in particular Roberto Escorcía at the Metropolitan Autonomous University (UAM) and Alma Chapoy from the Institute for Economic Research at the UNAM, as well as the Programa de Apoyo a Proyectos de Investigación e Innovación Tecnológica (PAPIIT) project assistants who supported the seminar and ordered the texts. We would also like to thank Louis-Philippe Rochon and Sergio Rossi for accepting this book in their series, New Directions in Post-Keynesian Economics. Chapter 1, ‘A structural and monetary perspective of the euro crisis’ is an updated version of a paper published in Review of Keynesian Economics, volume 3 (4) and Chapter 8, ‘Financialization, crisis and economic policy’ is a revised version published by the authors in Review of Keynesian Economics, volume 3 (2). Both are published with special permission from the copyright holder.

