Contributors

Sergio Albertini has a PhD in Economics and Management at Venice University (1988) and is Professor of Organization and Human Resource Management at the Department of Economics and Management of the University of Brescia (Italy). He has been Visiting Researcher at Manchester Business School in 1993 where he worked on a research project on R&D Management competencies in innovation community networks in the pharmaceutical industry. His main research interests are: innovation networking, high performance work practices, knowledge and technological transfer in SMEs, and local production systems. In 2014 he was Visiting Researcher at CEEDR – Centre for Enterprise and Economics Development Research of Middlesex University of London.

Gilda Antonelli is Associate Professor of Organizational Theory and Human Resources Management at the University of Molise. She holds a PhD in Organization, Technology and Innovation of Human Resources Management. She is currently Visiting Professor at the Department of Entrepreneurship and Innovation at The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania. She is the Rector’s Delegate for Innovation and Technology Transfer of the University of Molise. Her main research interests are innovative ventures and start-ups, their founders’ team, company level and environment, and resource management.

Bernardo Balboni is Research Fellow at the University of Trieste. His research interests deal with internationalisation of SMEs, new ventures and business marketing.

Alessia Berni is Research Fellow at the University of Napoli ‘Parthenope’, she holds a PhD in ‘Organizational Design and Human Resource Management’ (University of Molise, Italy). She studies institutional logics in organisational fields. Her research interests are focused on human research management, inter-organisational relationship and social innovation.

Sara Bonesso is Associate Professor of Business Organization and Human Resources Management at Ca’ Foscari University of Venice. She is one of the founders and the Vice Director of the Ca’ Foscari Competency Centre.
Her recent research interests embrace the assessment and development of emotional and social competencies in higher education, behavioural competencies and performance, entrepreneurial intent, competencies for innovation and entrepreneurship.

Guido Bortoluzzi is Assistant Professor of Innovation Management at the University of Trieste. He is co-founder and coordinator of the ITT Lab of the University of Trieste. He is recurring visiting lecturer in several international universities, including University of Northern Colorado (CO) and ISM University of Economics and Management (Vilnius). His main research interests deal with the innovation and internationalisation strategies of firms.

Mara Brumana is Research Fellow at the University of Bergamo, Italy. She is also a member of the Research Center for Young and Family Enterprise (CYFE). As a visiting scholar, she has been at the Alberta School of Business (Canada), the Johannes Kepler University and the WU Vienna University (Austria). Her research interests lie at the intersection of entrepreneurship, organisation theory and international business, with a particular focus on family firms’ entrepreneurial initiatives, institutional-bound strategic change and power relationships within multinational corporations.

Diego Campagnolo (PhD) is Associate Professor of Business Organization and Strategy at the University of Padova and fellow of the National Center for Middle Market at the Fisher College of Business (Ohio State University). He has been Adjunct Professor at Bocconi University and visiting at Ohio State University, Guangzhou University and Boston University. His research interests include innovation and internationalisation of SMEs. Since 2012, he has been member of the Academic Advisory Board of GE Capital for the research ‘The Mighty Middle: Why Europe’s Future rests on its Middle Market Companies’.

Lucio Cassia is Professor in Strategic Management and Entrepreneurship. He teaches strategic management, corporate strategy, competition and growth, and entrepreneurial strategy in graduate, post-graduate and PhD programs. He is currently leading research, education and consulting on entrepreneurship, business strategy and family business. His main interests are on technology-based start-ups, high-tech companies, innovation tools and patterns of growth of small and medium enterprises. With particular focus on the topics of youth entrepreneurship, growth of family businesses, managerial succession and generational change, Lucio promoted and founded the Research Center for Young and Family Enterprise (CYFE). Lucio has published ten books and over 150 papers in academic and professional journals.
Anna Comacchio is Professor of Organization and Management at the Department of Management of Ca’ Foscari University of Venice. She is the Director of the international PhD program in Management of Ca’ Foscari University and of the MPhil in Management Studies. Her research areas are organisation design and people management for innovation, more recently she focused on conceptual innovation, start-up and crowd-sourcing.

Stefano Consiglio is Professor of Organization Studies at the Department of Management of the University of Naples Federico II, President of the Graduate Course for ‘Organization and Management of Cultural and Environmental Heritage’ and Vice President of the Italian Academy of Business Economics (AIDEA). His research interest focuses on human resource management, business innovation and enterprise creation.

Francesco Crisci is Assistant Professor in Management at the University of Udine, Italy. His main research interests concern ‘knowledge intensive’ organisations, ‘critical management perspectives’, and ‘interpretive approaches’ in social science research.

Chiara Eleonora De Marco is PhD Student of the PhD Program in Management at Scuola Superiore Sant’Anna (www.sssup.it). Her research focuses on Ecosystems of Innovation, including research spin-offs and demand-side policies for innovation. Her goal is to support decision-makers on innovation policy issues. She worked at the Italian Ministry of Education, University and Research as assistant to the Senior Advisor to the Ministry on Innovation Policy and Technology. Chiara holds a Postgraduate Degree in Law and two Masters respectively in Diplomatic Studies and International Relations.

Claudia Dossena, PhD in 2010, is Researcher at Catholic University of the Sacred Heart (Milan), Department of ‘Scienze dell’Economia e della Gestione Aziendale’ (SEGESTA). Her research interests include entrepreneurial orientation, HR management and employee engagement, organisation design and change management, tourism and cultural districts, Web-based technologies and user-generated media, open innovation, and online corporate reputation.

Vladi Finotto is Assistant Professor of Business Strategy and Entrepreneurship at the Department of Management of Ca’ Foscari University of Venice. He is Rector Delegate for intellectual property rights, entrepreneurship and technology transfer. His main research interests deal with the creation of novel firms and with innovation in SMEs.

Alberto Francesconi, PhD in Management, post-graduated at SAFI (Advanced School of Integrated Training – IUSS) and is currently
Fast growing firms in a slow growth economy

Assistant Professor of Business Organisation and MIS. He collaborates on research projects on entrepreneurship, organisational design, HR and change management in organisations and local systems. He has carried out research with leading organisations and he is author of four books and many articles, with research interests ranging from Web-based technologies, open innovation and online corporate reputation, entrepreneurial orientation and employee engagement, designing of tourist local systems and cultural districts.

Davide Gamba graduated cum laude in management engineering (MSc) at Bergamo University. During his initial work experience, gained within different sectors (industrial, retail, junior and higher education), he has collaborated with the CYFE – the Bergamo University’s Center for Young and Family Enterprise – in several projects since his bachelor degree.

Davide Giacomini, PhD, Research Fellow of the University of Brescia. His research topics are collaborative networks, intermunicipality, co-operative firms, entrepreneurship and start up.

Martina Gianecchini (PhD) is Associate Professor at the University of Padova. She has been visiting scholar at different universities in Canada (HEC Montreal), Belgium (KU Leuven), China (Liaoning University). Her main research interests are in career management and labour market dynamics. She is a member of the international research group 5C (Cross-Cultural Collaboration on Contemporary Careers), which aims at understanding meanings, determinants and outcomes of careers around the world.

Paolo Gubitta (PhD) is Professor of Business Organization and Family Business at the University of Padova, and Adjunct Professor at University of Michigan-Dearborn. He has been visiting scholar at different universities in China (Liaoning University and Guangzhou University), Switzerland (Lugano University) and Israel (Tel Aviv University). His research is focused on organisation and governance of family businesses, management of academic spin-offs and the development of entrepreneurial competencies. Since 2012, he has been member of the Academic Advisory Board of GE Capital for the research ‘The Mighty Middle: Why Europe’s Future rests on its Middle Market Companies’.

Francesco Izzo is a Professor of Strategic Management of Innovation at the University of Naples 2. His research interests include innovation strategy, academic spin-off, international strategy of SMEs and innovation in creative industry. He is the author of a large number of scholarly publications on these topics.
Contributors

Giancarlo Lauto is Assistant Professor in Organisation Studies and lecturer of Organisation of SMEs and of Change Management, at the Department of Economics and Statistics, University of Udine. His research interests lie in the following areas: organisation of scientific research, technology transfer and academic entrepreneurship, management of innovation and growth patterns in SMEs.

Giovanna Magnani is a Post-Doctoral Research Fellow at the University of Pavia. She received her PhD in Economics and Management in 2015. She has been visiting PhD candidate at the University of Queensland (Australia). Her research focuses on international business and international entrepreneurship.

Marcello Martínez is Professor of Organization Studies at University of Naples 2, with a PhD in Business Administration and Management at University of Catania. He was a Research Student at London School of Economics. In his academic research he has explored the organisational change processes within the public utilities domain, the impact of information systems on organisational dynamics and structures and the organisational design of SMEs.

Barbara Masiello is Assistant Professor of Management at the Department of Economics, University of Naples II. Her main research areas include collaborative strategies, network of firms and social capital and the strategic management of innovation in high-tech industries.

Paola Angela Maria Mazzurana is a Post-Doctoral Researcher and Adjunct Professor of Organization Studies at the Department of Economics and Statistics, University of Udine. She received her PhD in 2010. Her research interests focus on the governance of inter-organisational relationships, management and growth patterns in SMEs.

Tommaso Minola is co-founder and Director of the Research Center for Young and Family Enterprise (CYFE) of the University of Bergamo, where he is a tenured Professor in the fields of technology management and entrepreneurship. He is TOFT Visiting Professor at Jönköping International Business School (Sweden). He has also been Technology Manager and Director of Technology Incubator at Politecnico di Milano. He is a member of several academic and professional associations on entrepreneurship and family business, and a reviewer for major international journals in the field. His research and teaching is focused on entrepreneurship, family business, technological innovation and technology transfer.

Caterina Muzzi achieved her PhD in Information Systems Management at LUISS University of Rome in 2004. Currently she is Assistant Professor. of Organization Theory and Design at the Department of Economics and Management of the University of Brescia (Italy). She has been Visiting Professor at Copenhagen Business School in 2003 where she held a Master Degree course in Computer-Mediated Communication in Groups and Organization. She participated in two international research projects funded by the European Commission in the 5th FP. Her main research interests are innovation in local production systems and SMEs, managerial competencies for innovation in SMEs and female leadership.

Alberto Onetti is Professor of Management and Entrepreneurship at the Department of Economics of the University of Insubria, where he is also responsible for the Master Degree in Global Entrepreneurship, Economics and Management. He has been the Director of the Research Centre for Innovation and Life Sciences Management (CRESIT) since its inception. He has been Visiting Professor at San Francisco State University for almost ten years. In 2009, he was appointed as Chairman of the Mind the Bridge Foundation, which has recently been appointed by the European Commission to lead the Startup Europe Partnership, a Startup Europe initiative focused on exploiting the growth of the most promising European start-ups. He has committed himself along the years to research in the fields of innovation, entrepreneurship and corporate strategy, authoring and co-authoring over 100 publications thus far.

Mario Pezzillo Iacono is an Associate Professor of Organization Studies at University of Naples 2. He has a PhD in Organization Design and Human Resource Management from the University of Molise. He was a Research Student at Cardiff Business School. His research interests are focused on organisational control in private and public sectors, knowledge management related to performance management systems and inter-organisational coordination mechanisms in private and public sectors.

Andrea Piccaluga is Professor of Innovation Management at the Istituto di Management, Scuola Superiore Sant’Anna (www.sssup.it), where he is coordinator of the PhD programme in Management. He is president of Netval (www.netval.it), the Italian network of University Technology Transfer. He holds a PhD from Scuola Superiore Sant’Anna and a Master in Technology and Innovation Management from SPRU (University of Sussex, Brighton). He is Associate Editor of the R&D Management Journal and collaborates with large and medium-sized companies (Telecom Italia, Knauf, Loccioni, etc.). He has published books and papers in the field of R&D management and technology transfer.

Alessia Pisoni is Assistant Professor at the Department of Economics – University of Insubria of Varese, where she teaches Innovation and Contributors

Operations Management. She holds a PhD in the Economics of Production and Development and coordinates the research unit of the Research Centre for Innovation and Life Sciences Management (CRESIT). Nowadays, her research interests are in the area of entrepreneurship and innovation, with specific focus on startup ecosystems. She is author of an extensive list of articles and books in the fields of international business, international entrepreneurship and corporate governance.

Daniel Pittino is Assistant Professor in Organization Studies at the University of Udine. His main research interests are corporate governance from an organisational perspective, corporate governance issues in small and medium enterprises and family firms, governance of innovation and entrepreneurial activities. He is author of several articles and research papers on the topics of corporate governance in the family business setting and on the relationship between corporate governance, strategies and innovative performance in small and entrepreneurial firms.

Paolo Pressiani is Research Fellow at the University of Bergamo, Italy. He is also a member of the Research Center for Yong and Family Enterprise (CYFE). After an important experience in a major Italian bank, he developed a start-up project in the medical devices industry, achieving some valuable awards in a local business plan competition. He is now responsible for the Applied Research, Education and Knowledge Transfer activities. Particularly, he is the project manager of Start Cup Bergamo, the business plan competition of the University of Bergamo.

Tommaso Pucci graduated in Economics (cum laude) from the Faculty of Economics of the University of Florence (Italy). He is a PhD in Economics and Management of Enterprises and Local Systems and is a Post-Doctoral Research Fellow at the Department of Business and Law Studies, University of Siena (Italy). His research interests include R&D and innovation management, knowledge management and performance measurement.

Marco Talaia is a Post-Doctoral Fellow at the Department of Economics – University of Insubria of Varese. During the PhD he has been visiting scholar at the San Francisco State University. Since 2007, he has been part of the research unit of the Research Centre for Innovation and Life Sciences Management (CRESIT). His research activity focuses mostly on technology transfer and business models for high-tech companies/start-ups. He co-authored several articles, research reports and conference contributions in the fields of business model innovation for high-tech companies and entrepreneurship.
Fast growing firms in a slow growth economy

Alessandra Tognazzo (PhD) is a Post-Doctoral Researcher at the Department of Economics and Management at the University of Padova. She is adjunct Professor for the following courses: Family Business at University of Padova and Human Resource Management at Ca’ Foscari University of Venice. In 2010 she was visiting PhD at the Master in Research in Management, IESE Business School, Barcelona. In 2010, she received a ‘Best PhD Proposal’ Award from the Family Business Newtwork-IFERA and in 2012 she co-authored a work that won the ASFOR-EMERALD Teaching Case Study-Competition.

Andrea Tracogna is Professor of Strategic Management at the University of Trieste, Italy. His current research interests range from internationalisation processes and strategic management of SMEs, to innovation management, new ventures start-up and entrepreneurship.

Francesca Visintin is Associate Professor in Organisation Studies at the Department of Economics and Statistics, University of Udine. Her research interests lie in corporate governance issues in SMEs and family firms, governance of innovation, academic entrepreneurship and growth patterns in SMEs. Currently she teaches Organization of SMEs in the undergraduate courses and organisational behaviour in the master degree programmes.

Lorenzo Zanni is Professor of Management at the University of Siena (Italy). His research interests are in the fields of small businesses and entrepreneurship, economics, and management of innovation. At present he is Vice Chancellor Knowledge Transfer and External Relations at the University of Siena.

Antonella Zucchella is Professor of Marketing and Pro-Rector of Finance at Pavia University, Italy. She is Visiting Professor in International Marketing at the Université Robert Schuman in Strasbourg, and at the School of Management and Université Jean Moulin Lyon 3. She is external examiner of PhD theses at Anglia Ruskin University, Cambridge, at King’s College, London, at the University of Glasgow and at the Universidad Autonoma, Barcelona. She is author of four books and more than 30 articles, ranging from entrepreneurship to international marketing and management.