The contributors to this Handbook include established scholars and young talents from Australia, Canada, Europe, Hong Kong, mainland China, Taiwan, and the US, who are from different disciplines including anthropology, economics, gender studies, political science, social work, history, and sociology. Contributors wrote from the perspective of their discipline and wrote their chapter as a guide for both academics and the general public to gain a quick and reliable understanding of a specific topic on family and marriage in China.

David Goodman, editor of the Handbooks of Research on Contemporary China series by Edward Elgar Publishing, invited us to edit a volume on marriage and the family in China as part of his Handbook series. We appreciated his editorial guidance, encouragement and support. This book project wouldn't be possible without the assistance and logistic support from Yuanyuan Wang and Monica Yang from Xi'an Jiaotong-Liverpool University and Candy Choi and Vivian Tang from City University of Hong Kong. Last but not least, we thank Alexandra O'Connell, Senior Supervising Editor at Edward Elgar Publishing, for her assistance and support during the course of editing this book.
