

Contributors

---

Jose Bento da Silva is an assistant professor of organization studies at Warwick Business School. Jose is an organizational theorist, whose multidisciplinary research is centred on the emergence of modern managerialism and capitalism between 1500 and 1800. Jose holds a PhD in Business Studies from the University of Warwick and two bachelor degrees (Engineering and Philosophy). Prior to joining academia Jose worked in the private sector for 15 years.

Caterina Bettin is a PhD (Management) candidate at St Mary's University. Her research interests include selfhood and subjectivity and she is particularly interested in organizations that deal with the extreme and with emotional intensity. She engages with actor network theory, critical management studies, existentialism, aesthetics, critical historiography, sociology of knowledge, death studies, arts and management of the arts and sports.

Martin Brigham lectures in the Department of Organisation, Work and Technology at Lancaster University. His current research interests focus on Quaker businesses and the history of management, the role of silence in meetings, and the organization of sustainability. He is also Worldwide Academic Director of the International Masters Programme for Managers, an innovative management development programme founded by Henry Mintzberg and Jonathan Gosling in 1996 based on developing managers' practice from experience, mindsets and community learning.

Gibson Burrell is Professor of Organization Theory in both the School of Business, University of Leicester and Manchester Business School, having been, in previous university incarnations, head of school in Leicester, dean of social sciences at Warwick and head of department in Lancaster. He was a founding editor of the journal Organization and is currently a section editor of the Journal of Business Ethics. He is a recent recipient of a Leverhulme Emeritus Fellowship to study the peasantry. The chapter for this volume was completed in Dublin whilst he was a Visiting Scholar at UCD.

Peter Case is Professor of Organization Studies at the University of the West of England, Bristol and a member of the Bristol Leadership and Change Centre. He also holds a part-time chair in management at James Cook University, North Queensland, Australia. His interests and expertise encompasses leadership studies, organization theory and philosophy, organization development and international development. He acts as a consultant to the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation-funded research centre, Malaria Elimination Initiative, on malaria programme management.

Barbara Czarniawska is Senior Professor at GRI, School of Business, Economics and Law at the University of Gothenburg, Sweden. She takes a feminist and processual perspective on organizing, and is interested in techniques of fieldwork and in the application of narratology to organization studies. Her recent books in English are Research Agenda for Management and Organization Studies (editor, 2016), Social Science Research from Field to Desk (2014) and A Theory of Organizing (second edition, 2014).

Wenjin Dai is Senior Lecturer of Organization Studies at the University of Portsmouth. She is curious about Chinese classical philosophies and the associated implications for understanding organizing and organizations. Her research interests include organizational ethnography, sociology of translation, corporate sustainability and communication. She graduated with a PhD from the Centre for Leadership Studies, University of Exeter in 2014. Before moving to the UK, she worked as a managing consultant in China, gaining consultancy and cross-cultural management experience in the process.

Hugo Gaggiotti is Associate Professor of Organization Studies at the University of the West of England, Bristol and is Visiting Professor at the New School for Social Research, New York. He holds a PhD in Anthropology from the University of Barcelona and a PhD in Management from ESADE. He is currently leading a British Academy-Newton Fund research project on the social impact of organizations in the US–Mexican borderland. His research focuses on interdisciplinary organizational research methodologies, theory and transcultural management.

Ioanna Iordanou is Senior Lecturer in Human Resource Management at Oxford Brookes University and an associate fellow of the Centre for the Study of the Renaissance at Warwick University, specializing in the historical development of managerial/leadership practices and corporate entities in the early modern period. She has published her research in the Economic History Review and Intelligence and National Security. She is the author of the forthcoming monograph Venice's Secret Service: Intelligence Organisation in the Renaissance (2019).

Donncha Kavanagh is Professor of Information and Organization in the Business School at University College Dublin. His research interests include the sociology of knowledge and technology, phronesis, the history and philosophy of management thought, money, play and ethics. He has published widely in the fields of information and organization, management, marketing, organization studies and engineering.

Monika Kostera is Professor Ordinaria and Chair in Management at the Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland, at Durham University, UK and at Linnaeus University, Sweden. She is the author, co-author and editor of over 40 books in Polish and English, and of numerous scientific articles. Her current research interests include imagination, disalienated work and organizational ethnography. She is a member of poets' co-operative Erbacce, Liverpool.

Paweł Krzyworzeka is an organizational researcher with a background in cultural anthropology (PhD, Institute of Ethnology and Cultural Anthropology, University of Warsaw). He currently holds the position of Vice-Director of the College of Management and Finance at Kozminski University, Poland. Additionally, he is a co-editor-in-chief of Tamara: Journal for Critical Organization Inquiry. Previously, he was affiliated with State Ethnographic Museum in Warsaw, and Cornell University, with the Fulbright Senior Advanced Research Award.

Albert J. Mills is currently the co-chair of the International Council for Critical Management Studies (CMS) and was formerly the co-chair of the CMS Division of the Academy of Management. He is Professor of Management and Director of the PhD Management programme in the Sobey School of Business. He is also a visiting senior research fellow at Hanken University, Helsinki and International Professor at the University of Eastern Finland, Kuopio. Albert's research interests are in the areas of gender at work, existentialism and organizational life, critical sense-making, CMS and management and organizational history.

Tuomo Peltonen is Professor of Organization and Management at Åbo Akademi University, Finland. He holds a docent appointment at Aalto University and University of Turku and has previously been a professor at Oulu University, Tampere University of Technology and Turku School of Economics. Tuomo's current research interests include organization theory and philosophy; wisdom, spirituality and religion in organizations; and history of management thought. His recent books are Organization

Theory (2016); Spirituality and Religion in Organizing (2017) and Towards Wise Management (forthcoming in 2018).