

Editors

Alessandra Faggian is a Professor of Applied Economics, the Director of Social Sciences and the Vice Provost for Research at the Gran Sasso Science Institute in L'Aquila, Italy. She is a co-editor of Papers in Regional Science and the President of the North American Regional Science Council. Dr. Faggian's research interests lie in the fields of Regional and Urban Economics, Demography, Labour Economics and Economics of Education. Her publications cover a wide range of topics including migration, human capital, labour markets, creativity and local innovation and growth. Dr. Faggian is ranked among the top 20 regional science scholars worldwide.

Jana Schmutzler is a Professor at the Business School at the Universidad del Norte in Barranquilla, Colombia. She holds a Ph.D. from the Bergische Universität Wuppertal, Germany. Her current research interests focus on the interplay between the socio-economic context and individual economic actors in shaping innovation processes and the entrepreneurial, networking and collaboration behaviour of innovators and entrepreneurs and its influence on success.

Marcela Suarez is a post-doctoral fellow at the International Research Training Group 'Between Spaces, Actors and Representations of Globalisation' at the Lateinamerika-Institut, Freie Universität Berlin, Germany. She specializes in topics on knowledge networks, the role of non-state actors in science and technology policy, digital qualitative research and the dynamics of new technologies such as nanotechnology and artificial intelligence, particularly drones.

Alexandra Tsvetkova is a post-doctoral researcher at the Department of Agricultural, Environmental, and Development Economics, The Ohio State University, USA, where she studies the effects of energy sector expansion, productivity growth and other processes on economic performance of urban and rural areas. Her broad research interests are in the determinants of regional economic growth with a specific focus on innovation and entrepreneurship.