

Contents

List of figures	vii
List of tables	viii
Editorial review board	ix
List of contributors	xi
Preface	xii

PART I FISCAL CARBON POLICY DEVELOPMENT

1 A good FACT for climate change mitigation Cristina Brandimarte	3
2 Tax credit hypothesis to coordinate the EU ETS and EU energy tax systems Lorenzo del Federico and Silvia Giorgi	17
3 Carbon policy in Australia – a political history Evgeny Guglyuvatyy and Natalie P. Stoianoff	31
4 Trends in the greening of energy and vehicle tax systems – Japan and the EU Aya Naito and Yuko Motoki	53

PART II TRADE, TAXATION AND SUSTAINABILITY

5 CO ₂ in goods Agime Gerbeti	77
6 The global natural resource consumption tax Sally-Ann Joseph	93
7 Potential environmental impacts of the Australia–South Korea Free Trade Agreement and fiscal intervention Seck L. Tan	109
8 The impact of environmental taxes on enterprise behavior and competitiveness – China’s iron and steel industry Jian Wu, Xiao Wang and Zhe Yang	124

PART III NATIONAL EXPERIENCES WITH FUEL AND ENERGY PRICING
9	Distributional effects of motor-fuel taxation in the Czech Republic Jan Brůha, Hana Brůhová-Foltýnová and Vítězslav Piša	141
10	Renewable electricity support in the EU – what lessons can be learned? Claudia Kettner and Daniela Kletzan-Slamanig	155
11	Protecting Australian gas resource and the need to reserve and promote the use of natural gas for Australian industries Prafula Pearce	169
PART IV EVALUATING GREEN ECONOMIC INSTRUMENTS
12	The Australian Renewable Energy Target scheme: a case study of the impact of uncertainty on a market-based mechanism David Leary	187
13	Economic instruments in pollution law in New South Wales, Australia: a case for greater use and refinement Sarah Wright	204
	Index	221