
Acknowledgements

An ambitious project such as this one, which aims to draw together a broad range of high quality material from a diverse and already overcommitted global community of scholars and advocates, depends on the generous collaboration and diligent engagement of many. We are extremely grateful to all those who helped us put this Research Handbook together, responding to our requests and expanding their frames of reference to accommodate them. First of all, we are indebted to the authors who agreed to share their work in this common venture. We are also grateful to the expert members of our advisory board who provided valuable and detailed guidance and feedback as peer reviewers. They include Pablo Ceriani Cernados, Benyam Dawit Mezmé, Kirsten di Martino, Mike Dottridge, Najat Maalla M'jid, Rebecca O'Donnell, Carola Suárez Orozco, David B. Thronson and Charles Watters. We thank Judith Kumin, Nora N. Nercessian and Guglielmo Schininà for their expert comments on select chapters and Lula Beresford-Banker, Cynthia Gomez and Michael Miller for support through different phases of the project. Lena Ransohoff provided meticulous assistance in promptly and efficiently bringing together the many disparate strands of the manuscript. Thank you to the research centre MIGRINTER for financing translations and to Henry Shah for translating French language contributions into English. Finally, we are grateful to our editors for inviting us to embark on this project and for advising and supporting us along the way. We hope the final product corresponds with their vision of a text that can enrich the lives of the subjects of a field we all seek to strengthen.

Jacqueline Bhabha
Jyothi Kanics
Daniel Senovilla Hernández
Cambridge MA; Lucerne, Switzerland; Poitiers, France – October 2017