

Contributors

Martin Bliemel is a Senior Lecturer and Director of the Diploma in Innovation at the new Faculty of Transdisciplinary Innovation at the University of Technology Sydney (UTS). He is a member of the advisory committee for the Australian Centre for Entrepreneurship Research Exchange (ACERE) and for the Amway Global Entrepreneurship Report. Martin's research interests include entrepreneurial networks, acceleration, education, and research commercialization. His research has been published in several prestigious journals including Nature Nanotechnology, Entrepreneurship Theory and Practice and the Entrepreneurship Research Journal.

Massimo G. Colombo is Full Professor of Economics of Technical Change at Politecnico di Milano, where he serves as the Deputy Dean for Research at Politecnico di Milano School of Management. His research interests include entrepreneurship and entrepreneurial finance, economics of innovation, economics of organizational design and industrial economics.

Israel (Issy) Drori (PhD, UCLA) is Head of the Department of Organization Sciences and a Chaired Professor of Organization and Globalization at the Faculty of Social Science, VU, Amsterdam. He has held visiting professorships at the Faculty of Management, Tel Aviv University; Ross School of Business, University of Michigan; Simon Fraser University; Oxford University; Tsinghua University, Beijing; and Hitotsubashi University, Tokyo. He has published ten books and numerous articles in journals such as Academy of Management Journal, American Sociological Review, Organization Science, Public Administration Review and Organization Studies.

Ricardo Flores is an Assistant Professor at the Peter B. Gustavson School of Business, University of Victoria. He received his PhD in Organizational Theory and International Business from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. His work has appeared in internationally recognized journals such as the Journal of International Business Studies, Multinational Business Review and Research in the Sociology of Organizations. Ricardo's research interests are multiple but broadly associated with cross-national and transformational organizational-centered processes.

Jyun-Ying (Trent) Fu is an Assistant Professor at National Chengchi University, Taiwan. His research interests cover corporate governance, entrepreneurial finance and business accelerators.

Juanita Gonzalez-Uribe is an Assistant Professor at the London School of Economics (LSE). Her research focuses on entrepreneurship, private equity and innovation. Her work on the interaction between venture capital and innovation has won several prizes including the Kauffman Dissertation Award (2012) and the Coller Prize Award London (2013).

Saskia de Klerk is Senior Lecturer and Higher Degree Coordinator at the School of Business, UNSW Canberra. She teaches foundations of management, international business and business planning. Her research interests are broad, but include career development, networking, innovation and entrepreneurship.

Jochen Koch is Professor of Management and Organization and Director of the Centre for Entrepreneurship Research (CFER) at the European University Viadrina in Frankfurt (Oder), Germany. His research interests include organizational creativity, organizational routines and practices, and the theory of strategic and organizational path dependence.

Michael Leatherbee is an Assistant Professor at the Industrial and Systems Engineering Department at Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile. He is the Academic Director of the Evidence-based Policy and Innovation Research Lab, board member of Start-Up Chile and IncubaUC business accelerators, and member of the Chile-California Council. His research focuses on strategy, entrepreneurship and policies.

Morgan P. Miles recently became Professor of Entrepreneurship at Charles Stuart University. Prior to that, he was Professor of Entrepreneurship and Innovation at the University of Canterbury. He holds a DBA in Marketing from Mississippi State University. Currently, he is working with the Department of Industry on entrepreneurial support program policies dealing specifically with accelerators and incubators.

Cristina Rossi-Lamastra holds a PhD in Economics of Innovation from Sant'Anna School of Advanced Studies in Pisa. She is currently Associate Professor at the Politecnico di Milano School of Management. Her research interests are in the area of entrepreneurship, organizational economics and open innovation.

Jonas Van Hove is a researcher at ETH Zurich. His main research areas are related to the dynamics of entrepreneurial ecosystems, incubation models, and academic entrepreneurship with a specific focus on acceleration of deep tech ventures.

Iris Vanaelst is a Senior Researcher at the Department of Innovation, Entrepreneurship and Service Management at Ghent University. Her research interests include entrepreneurial teams in innovative high-tech startups, the entrepreneurial university and student entrepreneurship.

Laurens Vandeweghe is a PhD applicant at Imperial College Business School, London. His research interests revolve around business accelerators and organizational legitimation.

Matthias Wenzel is a post-doctoral researcher at the Chair of Management and Organization at the European University Viadrina in Frankfurt (Oder), Germany. He conducts research on strategy as practice, disruptive innovation and path dependence.

Mike Wright is Professor of Entrepreneurship and Director of the Centre for Management Buy-out Research, Imperial College Business School, and Visiting Professor at the University of Ghent and ETH Zurich. He is an editor of the Academy of Management Perspectives, Chair of the Society for the Advancement of Management Studies and a Fellow of the British Academy. He has published over 50 books and 450 academic articles on entrepreneurial finance, academic entrepreneurship, management buyouts, returnee entrepreneurs and habitual entrepreneurs.

Ronit Yitshaki is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Economics and Business Administration at Ariel University. Her research interests include startups' acceleration processes, social entrepreneurship, entrepreneurial motivations and opportunity recognition, entrepreneurial identities and psychology of entrepreneurship.

