About the editors

Mathieu Winand, PhD is a Professor of Sport Management and Head of Department of International Sport Management at LUNEX International University of Health, Exercise and Sports, Luxembourg. Before joining LUNEX in 2017, he worked at the University of Stirling, UK, where he held the post of Programme Director for the MSc in Sport Management. Before moving to Stirling in 2012, he was a Postdoctoral Researcher at KU Leuven, Belgium, and Research Fellow at the Université catholique de Louvain, Belgium, where he obtained his PhD in 2009. He has published in a number of peer-reviewed international journals and book chapters, co-edited a book in 2014 on performance management for sport organizations, and has presented his research at numerous international conferences. His research interests are in the area of sport governance and innovation in sport, and he has conducted research on key determinants leading to high performing sport organizations. He also has a strong interest in anti-doping research and was awarded a WADA Social Science Research Grant in 2018. He is Deputy Editor of Sport, Business and Management: An International Journal and is on the editorial board of Managing Sport and Leisure. He teaches in MEMOS (International Olympic Committee Executive Masters in Sport Organisations Management), and is past Chair of the Managing Sport strategic interest group at the European Academy of Management (EURAM).

Christos Anagnostopoulos, PhD is an Assistant Professor in Sports Business Management (1.0) and the Deputy Head of School of Business & Management at the University of Central Lancashire, Cyprus and an Associate Professor in Sport Management (0.2) at Molde University College, Norway. His research interests lie in corporate social responsibility, governance, and more recently entrepreneurship and positive organizational behavior in sport. He has (co-)authored more than 40 peer-reviewed international journal publications and ten book chapters and has given more than 50 presentations in international conferences worldwide. He also co-edited the first ever Handbook of Football Business and Management (Routledge). Since 2017, he has served on the Board of the European Association for Sport Management as an elected member-at-large, responsible for international research projects. He also serves on the editorial boards of the European Sport Management Quarterly, Sport Business and Management: An International Journal, the International Journal of Sport Management, the International Journal of Sport Communication and the Journal of Global Sport Management. He is the author of the first version of the Code for Good Governance of the Cypriot National Sport Federations, while he is a consultant to Cyprus Sports Organization (the highest authority of sports in the country) on issues related to governance and strategy. He is also the Research Coordinator of the EU Erasmus+ project (worth €419000) “Good Governance Enhancement through e-Learning for Sport Volunteer Board Members” (GReFORM).