

Contributors

Neal M. Ashkanasy is Professor of Management, UQ Business School, the University of Queensland, Australia. He obtained his PhD in Social and Organizational Psychology from the University of Queensland, Australia. He worked as a professional engineer before joining the University of Queensland. His research on emotion, leadership, culture, and ethical behaviour has been published in, among others, the Academy of Management Review, the Academy of Management Journal, the Journal of Applied Psychology, the Journal of Management, and the Journal of Organizational Behavior. ORCID: 0000-0001-6422-1425

Robert A. Baron is Regents Professor, Mike and Robbie Holder Chair in Entrepreneurship and William S. Spears Chair, Spears School of Business, Oklahoma State University, USA. He received his PhD in Social Psychology from the University of Iowa. He worked at Purdue University and the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute before joining the Spears Business School. His research on social psychology and entrepreneurship has been published in, among others, the Academy of Management Review, the Academy of Management Journal, the Journal of Applied Psychology, the Journal of Business Venturing, and the Journal of Management. ORCID: 0000-0002-0779-8751

Shane Connelly is Professor of I/O Psychology at the University of Oklahoma and an Associate Director for the Center for Applied Social Research. Her research interests include emotions in the workplace, leadership, ethics, and ideological communication in online settings. ORCID: 0000-0002-2686-6836

Marie T. Dasborough is Associate Professor in Management at the University of Miami Business School. She has a PhD in Organizational Behavior from the University of Queensland Business School in Australia. Her research focuses on leadership, emotions, attributions, and teams. She co-edits the JOB Annual Review, plus serves on the editorial boards of Journal of Organizational Behavior, Leadership Quarterly, and Group & Organization Management. ORCID: 0000-0001-5323-5119

Cynthia D. Fisher (MS, PhD Purdue) is Professor of Management at Bond Business School, Bond University, Australia. She writes on moods and emotions at work and employee attitudes and work behavior. She is a Fellow of the Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology. ORCID: 0000-0002-2274-1366

Deanna Geddes is Professor in Human Resource Management and Associate Dean of Graduate Studies for the Fox School of Business at Temple University. She received her doctorate degree from Purdue University in the fields of organizational communication and industrial psychology. Her conceptual work and empirical studies focus on emotion at work, especially workplace anger, and performance feedback practices. ORCID: 0000-0001-7272-4321

Paul Harvey is the James R. Carter Professor of Management at the University of New Hampshire's Peter T. Paul College of Business and Economics. He has a PhD in Organizational Behavior from Florida State University and studies perceptual workplace phenomena such as psychological entitlement and abuse perceptions. He is an associate editor for the Journal of Organizational Behavior and Group and Organization Management, also serving as co-editor of the Annual Review issue for the former. ORCID: 0000-0001-7310-0537

Mathew L. A. Hayward is Professor, Department of Management, Monash Business School, Monash University, Australia. He received his PhD from Columbia University in Strategy, and worked at the University of Colorado, Boulder before joining Monash University. His research on behavioral decision theory explanations of strategy and entrepreneurship decisions and outcomes has been published in, among others, the Academy of Management Review, the Academy of Management Journal, Administrative Science Quarterly, Management Science, and the Strategic Management Journal. ORCID: 0000-0003-1557-7622

Peter J. Jordan is Professor of Organizational Behavior and Deputy Director of the Work Organization and Wellbeing Research Centre at the Griffith Business School, Griffith University. He gained his PhD in Management at the University of Queensland. Peter's current research interests include emotional intelligence, emotions in organizations, team performance and entitlement in organizations. Peter has published extensively in this field in leading international journals and has been awarded funding from the Australian Research Council for research in the area of emotional intelligence. ORCID: 0000-0001-8228-5457

Sandra A. Kiffin-Petersen is a Senior Lecturer at the Business School of the University of Western Australia. Her main research interests are in emotions at work, individual differences and trust in organizations. She has published this research in journals such as Human Relations, Personality and Individual Differences, Journal of Business Ethics and the International Journal of Human Resource Management. ORCID: 0000-0002-9422-304X

Heather C. Lench is Professor and Department Head of Psychological & Brain Sciences at Texas A&M University. Her research examines the role of affective reactions and their impact on people's beliefs about their future, as well as their role in guiding judgments and decision-making. ORCID: 0000-0002-6555-5811

Dirk Lindebaum is Professor of Organisation and Management at Cardiff Business School. His main preoccupation rests with the ways workers can experience repression at work, be they emotional or technological in kind. He is one of the book review editors at Organization Studies. For background on media engagement and publications, please visit his website: www.dirklindebaum.eu. ORCID: 0000-0002-5155-4359

Kathryn E. Moura is a doctoral candidate at the Griffith Business School. Her main area of research is in emotions, more specifically, anger within the workplace. Kathryn has extensive cross-cultural and human resource management experience, having lived and worked on three continents. Kathryn's experience includes being one of the directors of an international company for 14 years, founding her own company and working in the areas of HRM consulting, training and business coaching. ORCID: 0000-0001-5127-3453

Kenneth A. Perez is a doctoral student in the Department of Psychological and Brain Sciences at Texas A&M University. His research interests involve the examination of emotions, particularly the experience of awe, and their impacts on individuals' attitudes and behaviors. ORCID: 0000-0002-5785-8505

Richard H. Smith is Professor of Psychology at the University of Kentucky (PhD, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill). His research focuses on social emotions. He has co-edited two volumes on envy, Envy: Theory and Research, 2008; Envy at Work and in Organizations, 2016, and has a book on Schadenfreude, The Joy of Pain: Schadenfreude and the Dark Side of Human Nature. ORCID: 0000-0002-4698-9251

Rosanna K. Smith is Assistant Professor of Marketing at the University of Georgia. Rosanna completed her PhD in Marketing at the Yale School of Management and her BA in Art at Yale University. Her main area of research explores how beliefs about the nature of the creative process influence perceptions of authenticity and value. Her second line of research examines how marketing messages about the nature of beauty and the body affect self-esteem and social comparison processes. ORCID: 0000-0001-5276-9733

Peter N. Stearns is University Professor of History at George Mason University. He has written widely on the history of emotions and has also studied work in comparative context. ORCID: 0000-0001-7596-2878

Ashlea C. Troth is Associate Professor at Griffith Business School and Deputy Head of the Department of Employment Relations and Human Resources. Her areas of research expertise are in emotional intelligence and regulation, communication and performance. Ashlea's work has been published in leading international journals and she is currently a member of a research team with funding from the Australian Research Council to examine emotional regulation in the workplace. ORCID: 0000-0001-8768-7594

Megan R. Turner is a doctoral student in the University of Oklahoma's doctoral program in industrial and organizational psychology. Her research interests include emotions, ethics, and organizational citizenship behavior. ORCID: 0000-0002-8836-5105

Kristi Lewis Tyran is Professor of Organizational Behavior at Western Washington University, located in Bellingham, Washington, USA. She does research in the areas of Leadership, Emotion, Teaching Leadership, and International Service Learning and has published her work in the Journal of Organizational Behavior, International Journal of Management Education, and Group and Organization Management Journal. Prior to her career as an academic, she was a Vice President at Bank of America.

Tanja S. H. Wingenbach is a post-doctoral Research Fellow in the Social and Cognitive Neuroscience Laboratory at Mackenzie Presbyterian University (Sao Paulo, Brazil). Tanja completed her PhD in Psychology at the University of Bath (UK), her MSc in Clinical Psychology at the University of Basel (Basel, Switzerland), and her BSc in Psychology at the University of Luxembourg (Luxembourg, Luxembourg). Her main area of research is emotion science with a particular focus on facial expressions of emotion. ORCID: 0000-0002-1727-2374