About the editors

Laura Hyatt is a Professor at the University of La Verne, CA, USA where she served as Department Chair and teaches in the Organizational Leadership Doctoral program. She is an associate of an international think-tank, participated as an advisor to the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation at the Department of Health and Human Services in Washington, DC, and was appointed to a White House Policy Conference by the President of the United States. Prior to teaching, she was Vice President of Education for a production company and part of a collaborative effort that won several awards in the entertainment industry. Dr Hyatt has published books, book chapters, journal articles, serves on editorial boards for peer-reviewed journals, and has developed contemporary research methods utilized by researchers in the US and in Europe including the Dynamic Narrative Approach and the Case Story research method. Dr Hyatt has received recognition and grants for her research, which focuses on the intersections of learning, neuroscience, change, and the powerful climates created by our convergent stories as individuals, organizations and communities.

Stuart Allen is a Professor of Organizational Leadership at Robert Morris University in Pittsburgh, PA, USA. He currently teaches research in the Doctor of Science in Information Systems and Communications program and previously taught for the Organizational Leadership Doctoral program at the University of La Verne. Dr Allen is an active researcher and author in leadership, leadership education, adult learning, online learning, non-profit leadership, workplace pluralism and diversity, and post-traumatic stress in the workplace. He has received multiple grants related to leadership education. He is originally from South Africa where he worked as an industrial psychologist, CEO, board chair, trainer, coach, consultant and entrepreneur. Stuart has published articles in journals such as the SA Journal of Industrial Psychology, International Journal of Management Education, Journal of Leadership Educators and Journal of Management Inquiry, as well as chapters in various books, and a handbook on leadership. He is an editorial board member for the International Journal of Organizational Analysis and has received awards for his doctoral teaching and journal review work.