

Contributors

EDITORS

Pier Luigi Parcu is Professor at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies (RSCAS) of the European University Institute (EUI) in Florence, where he directs three projects: the European Networking and Training for European Competition Law Enforcers (ENTraNCE Judges), the Communications and Media Area of the Florence School of Regulation and the Centre for Media Pluralism and Media Freedom. He is also Chairman of Studio Economico, a consultancy firm specialising in antitrust and regulatory issues of network industries. From 2000 to 2003 he was CEO of the Independent System Operator running the Italian electricity grid. From 1991 to 2000 he was the Director of Investigations at the Italian Competition Authority (AGCM), in charge of several regulated sectors. Previously, he served as Chief Economist at the Italian Security and Exchange Commission and as an economist at the International Monetary Fund (IMF). He holds a PhD in Economics from the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA). His research in the area of industrial organisation and law and economics focuses on the interaction between regulation and antitrust in shaping firms' behaviour in network industries.

Giorgio Monti is Professor of EU Competition Law and Head of the Law Department of the European University Institute, Florence. In addition, he is Scientific Coordinator of ENTraNCE for Judges. Before joining the EUI in September 2010, Professor Monti taught law at the University of Leicester (1993–2001) and at the London School of Economics (2001–2010).

Marco Botta is senior Research Fellow at the Max Planck Institute for Innovation and Competition in Munich. In addition, he works as part-time Research Fellow at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies and lecturer at the University of Vienna. He holds a Bachelors degree in International Relations from the University of Turin (Italy), an LLM in European Business Law from Leiden University (the Netherlands) and a PhD from the European University Institute Law Department.

CONTRIBUTORS

Pádraic Burke is an economist and data analyst at Cartel Damage Claims (CDC), a company with offices in Belgium, Germany and Luxembourg specialising in follow-on damages actions related to breaches of EU or national competition law. Pádraic holds a Bachelor of Commerce degree from the National University of Ireland, Galway (NUIG), a Master of Science Degree in Business Economics from Katholieke Universiteit Leuven (KUL) in Belgium, and a Postgraduate Diploma in Digital Marketing. In his role at CDC, Pádraic is responsible for the data and economic analysis in ongoing and potential future cases including the assessment of potential claims and developing the theories of harm in relation to affected markets. Pádraic is also responsible for the marketing activities of CDC.

Carsten Krüger completed studies in business and economics with an emphasis on competition law at the University of Bayreuth. In addition, he obtained his LLM in International Competition Law and Policy from the University of East Anglia in Norwich. His doctoral thesis is on contribution among jointly and severally liable antitrust defendants. Prior to joining Cartel Damage Claims (CDC) in 2005, Carsten gained his professional experience in several law firms working as part of a competition law specialist team while also acting as a defence counsel in legal antitrust proceedings for the imposition of administrative fines. Within CDC he is responsible for the overall coordination and management of the CDC litigation activities.

Jerónimo Maillo is full-time Professor of European Union Law at the Law School, CEU San Pablo University, Madrid, and Head of the Public Law Department. He is Senior Research Fellow at the Institute for European Studies and Coordinator of its Centre for Competition Policy, where he coordinates a Masters in European Union Law (and its related PhD programme in European Studies) and he teaches a Jean Monnet Module on Single European Market and EU Competition Law. He holds an LLM with honours on EU Law from the College of Europe (Bruges), he was a PhD researcher at the European University Institute, Florence and he obtained a doctorate in law with honours (European Doctorate) at CEU San Pablo University. He is currently Fulbright Visiting Scholar at Harvard Law School.

Sebastian Peyer has been Lecturer in Law at the University of East Anglia (UEA) since September 2015. He has a German and English legal background, having graduated from the University of Potsdam (Germany) and obtained an LLM and PhD from UEA. Previously, Sebastian worked as a post-doctoral researcher in the UEA Centre for Competition Policy and as a lecturer at the University of Leicester. Sebastian has published widely on the private enforcement of competition law and his work has been cited in the UK government's consultation on options for the reform of private antitrust actions. His research interests include competition law, tort law, law and economics, and empirical legal studies. Sebastian is regularly invited to present his research at national and international conferences. He has an interest in US antitrust law and he serves as the Vice-Chair on the American Bar Association (ABA) Scholar in Residence Selection Committee. He was a visiting scholar at Georgetown Law School with a grant from the ABA Section of Antitrust Law.

Anna Renata Pisarkiewicz works as Research Associate at the Florence School of Regulation (FSR) of the European University Institute, Florence and she is involved in the organisation of ENTraNCE for Judges as well. Anna has worked as a consultant for the World Bank and the OECD. Prior to joining the FSR, she worked as a Competition Policy Analyst at the Competition Division of the OECD and as a trainee in the Directorate-General for Information Society and Media of the EU Commission. Anna holds a PhD from the Law Department of the EUI. Her thesis on the critical analysis of margin squeeze in the electronic communications sector won the 2015 Concurrences PhD Award. Anna also holds an LLM in Law and Administration from the University of Warsaw (Poland), a Diploma in International and European Law and a Diploma in Spanish Law from the University of Deusto (Bilbao) and a Diploma in British and European Law awarded by the Board of Continuing Education of the University of Cambridge.

Maria Alessandra Rossi is Associate Professor of Economics Policy at the University of Siena (Italy). She was visiting researcher at the University of Oxford, the Council of Europe, the Department of Economics at UC Berkeley, the Santa Fe Institute of Technology and University of Paris X. She carried out research and reports for the OECD, the Italian Telecommunications National Regulatory Authority (AGCOM), the Italian Ministry of Finance and the Independent Regulatory Group (IRG). She has written several essays in national and international journals including Cambridge Journal of Economics, Telecommunications Policy, Economics of Innovation and New Technologies, Communications & Strategies and European Journal of Law and Economics. Maria Alessandra holds a PhD in Law & Economics from the University of Siena.

Till Schreiber is the Managing Director of Cartel Damage Claims (CDC). He studied law at the universities of Bonn, Cologne, Barcelona and London (University College) and published a doctoral thesis on international competition law. Before joining CDC in 2007, he worked as an attorney for six years in the antitrust and competition group of a leading international law firm in Brussels, Cologne and Madrid. Till frequently speaks at international conferences about private enforcement of EU competition law and has published several articles on that topic.

Silvia Solidoro joined the EUI as Research Associate in May 2016, where she is also involved in the organisation of ENTraNCE for Judges. She obtained a PhD in Law and Economics from the Institute of Advanced Interdisciplinary Studies (ISUFI) in 2011. From 2007 to 2011 she served as a Lecturer and Teaching Assistant in International Law at the University of Salento, Faculty of Law. From 2009 she has been consulting on corporate law and competition policy matters with the Investment Climate Department of the International Finance Corporation (IFC), the World Bank Group, in Washington DC, with a focus on economy-wide and sector-specific reforms aimed at fostering private sector development. Prior to joining the EUI, she also acted as independent expert for a consulting firm based in Rome. Silvia obtained her law degree (magna cum laude) in 2006 and was admitted to practise law in Italy in 2009.

Simon Vande Walle is a case handler in the European Commission's Directorate-General for Competition. Before joining the Commission, he worked as a private practitioner at an international law firm in Brussels from 2003 to 2008 and subsequently as a researcher at the University of Kyushu and the University of Tokyo in Japan. He has published widely on competition law in the EU and Japan and is the author of the book Private Antitrust Litigation in the European Union and Japan – A Comparative Perspective (Maklu, 2013). Simon holds a law degree from the Catholic University of Leuven in Belgium, an LLM from Georgetown University Law Center in the US and a doctoral degree in law from Kyushu University, Japan.