

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Acknowledgments	xii
PART 1 AN INTRODUCTION TO LEGAL ASPECTS OF PROTECTING FOREST AND MARINE BIODIVERSITY
1 Legal aspects of the protection of forest and marine biodiversity: understanding the context Ed Couzens, Alexander Paterson and Sophie Riley	3
PART 2 GLOBAL ISSUES OF PROTECTION OF BIOLOGICAL DIVERSITY
2 Moral boundaries, anthropocentrism and biodiversity: possums in New Zealand as an example Gay Morgan	27
3 For peat's sake: environmental law amidst the bogs Nicholas A. Robinson	53
4 Illegal trade in endangered forest and marine species – enhancing laws and enforcement: a Southeast Asian perspective Lin Heng Lye and Sallie Chia-Wei Yang	96
PART 3 THE PROTECTION OF BIOLOGICAL DIVERSITY IN THE FOREST ENVIRONMENT
5 Biodiversity and agriculture – friends or foes? The legal implementation of agroforestry practices in Brazil Marcia Fajardo Cavalcanti de Albuquerque	127

6	Forest biodiversity conservation: strengthening the regulation and management of Chinese enterprises during foreign investment Bingyu Liu	151
7	Addressing human and wildlife conflict in forest protected areas: a critical analysis of China's nature reserve management experience Yilin Pei	173
8	Climate change and forest management in Nepal Amber Prasad Pant	197
PART 4 THE PROTECTION OF BIOLOGICAL DIVERSITY IN THE MARINE ENVIRONMENT
9	Governance of oil and gas exploration and exploitation at sea: towards coastal marine biodiversity preservation Violeta S. Radovich	227
10	The valuable role that private environmental governance might play in managing global fisheries resources Anastasia Telesetsky	251
11	Black coral forests and marine biodiversity in New Zealand Trevor Daya-Winterbottom	272
12	The contribution that the concept of global public goods can make to the conservation of marine resources Carina Costa de Oliveira and Sandrine Maljean-Dubois	290
	Index	315