

Acknowledgements

We are very much indebted to our contributors, who not only offered their expertise but also provided important feedback during the entire project. Miguel Martínez Lucio, Richard Hyman, Rebecca Gumbrell-McCormick, Charles Woolfson and Anders Neergaard, in particular, offered advice and extensive comments at various stages. We also owe much to Richard Hyman and John Wrench for their views on our comparative chapters. Special acknowledgement goes to Guglielmo Meardi for his support in the initial phases of this project and for his valuable comments on earlier drafts of our comparative analysis. The usual disclaimers about responsibility apply.

We would also like to acknowledge Andrew Wilson and Andrea Oates for their valuable language editing, Arjan Keizer for close readings of certain chapters, the anonymous referees for their detailed feedback, and ILO staff and Chris Edgar in particular for their practical support.

Finally, we would like to thank the International Labour and Employment Relations Association (ILERA), and its President, Dong-One Kim, for the interest and support provided to the project and Moussa Oumarou, Secretary-General of ILERA and Director of the ILO's Governance and Tripartism Department, for the financial support received. The work has also benefited from support by the IMISCOE Research Network and the Economic and Social Research Council (grant number ES/K001752/1).
