Contributors

Jason Archie-Acheampong is a Postgraduate Research Student at the Alliance Manchester Business School, UK. He obtained a master’s degree in entrepreneurship and works on issues related to SMEs’ responsible behaviour.

Paul W. Beamish is Professor of International Management at the Ivey Business School, Western University, Canada. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, the Academy of International Business, and the Asia Pacific Foundation, as well as the Director of the International Business Institute at Ivey. He served as Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of International Business Studies from 1993 to 1997. His research focuses on FDI, joint ventures, emerging markets, and activities of the multinational enterprise. He has published numerous articles in top-tier journals, such as Academy of Management Journal, Journal of International Business Studies, and Strategic Management Journal, among others.

Ricky Y. K. Chan is an Associate Professor in the Department of Management and Marketing at the Hong Kong Polytechnic University. His research interests lie in ethical and environmental issues relating to business operations and consumption. His research has appeared in various journals, such as the Journal of Management Studies, Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of World Business, International Business Review, and Management International Review.

Pantelitsa Eteokleous is a Post-doctoral Researcher at the University of Cyprus. Her research interests are concentrated on the fields of social responsibility, ethics, entrepreneurship, and international marketing. Her work has appeared in the International Marketing Review and in various conference proceedings.

Suraksha Gupta holds a PhD in marketing and is a Professor of Marketing at Newcastle University, UK. Her research focuses on international business practices of multinationals in developing markets, particularly India, and is based on her industry experience in IT, telecoms, and the food industry. Suraksha’s research output has been published in Journal of World Business, British Journal of Management, Journal of Business Research, and others.
Contributors

Industrial Marketing Management, Technological Forecasting and Social Change, European Journal of Marketing, Studies in Higher Education, Computers in Human Behaviour, among others. In addition, she has participated in the editorial activities of various journals such as Journal of World Business, Journal of Business Research, and Industrial Marketing Management as guest editor. She has also published books, various book chapters, and book reviews.

Peter S. Hofman is Professor of Corporate Governance and Corporate Social Responsibility at Nottingham University Business School China, located at the University of Nottingham in Ningbo, China. He received his PhD from the University of Twente in the Netherlands. His research broadly covers business-government-society interaction in the areas of innovation, corporate social responsibility, and sustainable business strategies. He has published in academic journals such as Asia Pacific Journal of Management, The International Journal of Human Resource Management, Business & Society, Journal of Cleaner Production, Energy Policy, Technology Analysis and Strategic Management, Business Strategy and the Environment, and Innovation: Management, Policy and Practice.

Gopalkrishnan R. Iyer is Professor of Marketing and coordinator for the PhD programme in marketing at the Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton, Florida. Apart from corporate social responsibility issues, his current research interests are in the areas of business-to-business marketing, entrepreneurship, innovation, global business, pricing, and services marketing. His recent research is published in Industrial Marketing Management, Psychology & Marketing, Journal of Product Innovation Management, Entrepreneurship Theory & Practice, and the Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, among other outlets. His teaching experience spans about 26 years and courses at various levels (undergraduate, MBA, MS, PhD and Executive Education) and in various formats (lectures, seminars, online, hybrid) in the disciplines of marketing, international business, e-commerce, and management.

Constantine S. Katsikeas holds the Arnold Ziff Research Chair in Marketing and International Management and is the Founding Director of the Global and Strategic Marketing Research Centre at Leeds University Business School (LUBS), University of Leeds, UK. He served as Vice President of the Academy of Marketing Science (2012–2014). He is currently the Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of International Marketing and editor for international marketing for the Journal of International Business Studies. His interests are marketing and sales management, global marketing and management, strategic alliances and competitive strategy. He has published Arash Kordestani is an Assistant Professor of Logistics at Linnaeus University in Sweden. His research interests involve transdisciplinary areas and his primary research focus is on digitalization and sustainable supply chain management. His current area of research includes forecasting using machine learning, corporate social responsibility, consumer behaviour, and supplier diversity.

Daniel Korschun is an Associate Professor of Marketing at Drexel University’s LeBow College of Business, Philadelphia, USA. He is a fellow of the Center for Corporate Reputation Management and the Center for Corporate Governance at LeBow College of Business. His areas of expertise include corporate reputation management, CSR, and country reputation. His research has been published in The Journal of Marketing, MIT-Sloan Management Review, Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, Journal of Public Policy & Marketing, Journal of Business Research, and Journal of Business Ethics.

Constantinos N. Leonidou is Professor of Marketing and Head of the Marketing Division at Leeds University Business School, University of Leeds, UK. His main research interests focus on sustainability, international marketing, consumer behaviour, and advertising. His research has appeared in various journals, such as Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of Business Research, Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, Journal of International Marketing, Journal of World Business, Industrial Marketing Management, and Tourism Management.

Leonidas C. Leonidou is a Professor of Marketing at the School of Economics and Management of the University of Cyprus. His current research interests are in the areas of international marketing/purchasing, relationship marketing, strategic marketing, socially responsible marketing, and marketing in emerging economies. He has published extensively in these fields and his articles have appeared in various journals, such as The Journal of Marketing, Journal of International Business Studies, Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, Journal of World Business, Tourism Management, Journal of International Marketing, Management International Review, International Business Review, Journal of Business Research, Long-Range...

Lei Li is an Associate Professor of International Business and Strategy at Nottingham University Business School China, located at the University of Nottingham in Ningbo, China. He received his PhD from the University of Texas at Dallas, USA. His research focuses on internationalization strategy and international social innovation and sustainable development. His academic work has appeared in Journal of World Business, Management International Review, and International Journal of Management Reviews, among others.

Lilac Nachum is Professor of International Business at City University New York, Baruch College. Her current research interests include global supply chains and value creation in a global world, emerging market MNEs, and the relationship between firms, society, and governments as they shape the international strategies of firms. Her work has appeared in the Academy of Management Journal, Strategic Management Journal, Management Science, and Journal of International Business Studies, among others, and has been awarded several recognitions, most recently the AIB 2017 Best Paper Award of the Research Method Division. At various periods, she has served on the editorial boards of leading journals in strategy and international business. She has also held visiting positions at universities around the world and has consulted with firms and governments on issues relating to globalization and multinational companies.

Elizabeth A. Napier is a PhD scholar at Georgia State University, USA. Her research focuses on the investigation of multinational firms and their interaction with local economies and environments. She studies the utilization of strategic corporate social responsibility as a competitive advantage that is economically profitable, law abiding, and ethical.

Cezara A. Nicoara is a Postgraduate Researcher in Marketing at Leeds University Business School, UK. Her research interests revolve around international business, sustainability, and business ethics. Her PhD thesis focuses on corporate social responsibility within multinational organizations in emerging markets. She was the recipient of the University of Alabama Best Reviewer Award, as well as the SAMS Tom Lupton Prize for Best Doctoral Presentation.

Jean-Marie Nkongolo-Bakenda is a Professor of Strategy at the Paul J. Hill School of Business, University of Regina, Canada. His recent research interests include strategies in international small and Pejvak Oghazi is Professor of Business Studies and Head of Logistic Program at Sodertorn University, School of Social Sciences, Stockholm, Sweden. Prior to his current position, he worked as an industrial manager at national and international level. His current research interests revolve around topics in business studies and his research has been published in internationally renowned academic journals, such as Industrial Marketing Management, Journal of Business Research, Journal of Business Venturing Insights, Psychology & Marketing, Entrepreneurship & Regional Development, and Service Industries Journal, among others. His work is also regularly presented at international academic conferences.

Chang Hoon Oh is William Saywell Professor in Asia Pacific Business at the Beedie School of Business, Simon Fraser University, Canada. His research centres on internationalization strategy, country risk, business continuity and sustainability, and globalization versus regionalization. His research has been published in journals including Strategic Management Journal, Organization Science, Journal of International Business Studies, and Global Environmental Change.

Ayse Ozturk is Assistant Professor of Marketing at the Gary W. Rollins College of Business at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, USA. She has substantive research interests primarily in the areas of marketing strategy, global marketing, and emerging markets. She has had multiple publications in the International Business Review and Thunderbird International Business Review. She has also previously worked with globally recognized companies, including PricewaterhouseCoopers, Deloitte, and Peugeot.

Dayananda Palihawadana is a Professor of Marketing and Chair in Marketing Education at Leeds University Business School, UK. His research interests include marketing ethics, international marketing, and export marketing. His research has been published in the Journal of International Marketing, Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of Business Research, and International Marketing Review, among others.
Kaveh Peighambari is a marketing strategist, an entrepreneur, and a faculty member at Linnaeus University in Sweden. Backed by over 14 years of experience, including corporate-level marketing, product development, and start-up business development, his research interests include areas such as sustainable supply chains, the circular economy, and digital marketing channels. His work has appeared in publications such as Advances in Management, American Marketing Association (AMA), and Academy of Marketing Science Proceedings.

George Z. Peng is an Associate Professor of International Business at the Paul J. Hill School of Business, University of Regina, Canada. His research has been published in Asia Pacific Journal of Management, Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of International Management, Journal of World Business, and Management and Organization Review.

Hoori Rafieian is a Post-doctoral Fellow at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, USA. Her research interests include consumer judgement and decision-making, political consumerism, and consumer well-being.

Petra Riefler is Professor of Marketing at the Department of Marketing & Innovation, University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences Vienna, Austria. Her research focus is on consumer behaviour and international marketing. Her work relates to consumers' dispositions towards local and global market offerings, domestic and foreign company origins, and consumer cosmopolitanism. She has published numerous articles in international journals in this field.

Matthew J. Robson is a Professor of Marketing and International Management at Cardiff Business School, Cardiff University, UK. His research interests focus on international and export marketing, franchising, strategic alliances, and retailing. His research has been published in British Journal of Management, Industrial Marketing Management, International Marketing Review, Journal of International Marketing, Journal of Marketing, Journal of World Business, Management International Review, Organization Science, among others. He presently serves as Associate Editor at the Journal of International Marketing.

Mihaela Roman holds a master’s degree in International Management Studies. She has worked at the TUI Group and currently is associated as a digital product manager with Photobox (UK) as part of the site migration team.

Saeed Samiee is the Collins Professor of Marketing and International Business at The University of Tulsa, USA. He has contributed to scholarly journals in marketing and international business as an author and member of editorial review boards, including The Journal of Marketing, Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, and Journal of International Business Studies. He is currently an editor for international marketing for the Journal of International Business Studies and serves as Associate Editor for marketing and international business for Decision Sciences.

Setayesh Sattari is Assistant Professor of Marketing at Linnaeus University in Sweden. Her research experience and interests include sustainable consumption, sustainable tourism, the circular economy, social entrepreneurship, supplier diversity, and sustainable innovation. Her work has appeared in publications such as Sustainability, Corporate Communications, and Place Branding and Public Diplomacy.

Jiyoung Shin is an Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Economics and Business, University of Groningen, the Netherlands. Before she joined the University of Groningen, she worked as a Post-doctoral Research Fellow at Beedie School of Business, Simon Fraser University, Canada. Her interests include corporate social responsibility of multinational companies, non-market strategy, and sustainable development strategy of MNEs.

Jaywant Singh is Professor of Marketing at the Kingston Business School, Kingston University, UK. His research examines consumer responses to marketing stimuli, such as corporate branding, brand alliances, cause-related marketing, and CSR. He has authored books on consumer behaviour and brand management and has published extensively in top-tier international journals such as Marketing Letters, Journal of Business Research, Journal of Business Ethics, Industrial Marketing Management, and the Journal of Advertising Research.

Noemi Sinkovics is a Lecturer in International Business and Management at the Alliance Manchester Business School, UK, and is currently Visiting Scholar at Temple University, Fox School of Business, Philadelphia, USA. Her research focuses on international entrepreneurship, supplier capability development and upgrading in emerging markets, and issues related to the business society interface, including social value creation, business ethics, and responsible innovation. She has published in journals such as International Business Review, International Marketing Review, Journal of Business Research, Critical Perspectives on International Business, Journal of International Management, and the European Journal of International Management.

Rudolf R. Sinkovics is Professor of International Business at The University of Manchester, UK, Visiting Professor at Lappeenranta University of Contributors

Yanxue Sun is a Lecturer in Business Administration/Management at the University of Greenwich, UK. Previously, she was Teaching Fellow in International Business at Nottingham University Business School China (NUBS China), the University of Nottingham (UK).

Rob van Tulder is Professor in International Business at RSM Erasmus University Rotterdam. He is founder of the Department of Business-Society Management and Academic Director of the Partnerships Resource Centre. Both are leading academic institutes aimed at enhancing the corporate contribution to sustainable development. He has published extensively on these topics in journals and through award-winning books. He also acts as a consultant to many international organizations.

Pavlos A. Vlachos is an Associate Professor of Marketing at ALBA Graduate Business School, The American College of Greece. His work has appeared in Frontiers in Psychology, Journal of Organizational Behavior, Journal of Business Ethics, and Journal of the Academy of Marketing Science, among others. He serves as an Associate Editor of Frontiers in Organizational Psychology and sits on the editorial board of the European Journal of Marketing.

Seraphim Voliotis is an Assistant Professor of Strategy, ALBA Graduate School, The American College of Greece. His work has appeared in Journal of Business Ethics, Frontiers in Psychology, and Journal of Operator Theory, among others. A member of the Bar of England and Wales since 1995, he has distinguished himself in negotiation theory. He has consulted on and successfully negotiated or mediated company mergers, a series of litigation disputes, and a number of national and international commercial deals.

Melanie Tao Xue is an International Senior Teaching Fellow in Marketing at Lancaster University Management School, UK. Her research interests lie in consumer behaviour, cause-related marketing, brand strategies, and social media communications. She has presented her research at peer-reviewed international conferences.