

Contributors

Johan Bastiaensen (Johan.bastiaensen@uantwerpen.be) is a professor at the Institute of Development Policy (IOB), University of Antwerp, Belgium, and an associate researcher at the Instituto Nitlapan, Universidad Centroamericana (UCA), Managua, Nicaragua. His main research interest lies with the transformative role of microfinance for a more socially inclusive and environmentally less destructive rural-agricultural development. This research is inspired by critical institutional theory and is often done in cooperation with the Instituto Nitlapan in Nicaragua, an academic partner of the IOB since 1988. Much of Johan's applied research relates to policy debates in the context of the Fondo de Desarrollo Local (FDL), today one of the largest and most agricultural microfinance institutions in Nicaragua.

Website: <https://www.uantwerpen.be/en/staff/johan-bastiaensen/>

ORCID number: 0000-0002-1369-8570

Anastasia Cozarenco (a.cozarenco@montpellier-bs.com) is an assistant professor of economics at Montpellier Business School. She holds a PhD in economics from Aix-Marseille School of Economics and benefited from the postdoctoral fellowship at the Centre for European Research in Microfinance (CERMi), Université Libre de Bruxelles. Her current research is focused on microfinance in developed countries with special attention to regulation, non-financial services, subsidization, discrimination and gender, from theoretical and empirical perspectives. In 2018, Anastasia set up a Chair Microfinance in Developed Countries in partnership with Créa-Sol, a French microfinance institution, and the Caisse d'Épargne Languedoc-Roussillon. She published articles in Small Business Economics, Journal of Business Ethics, and Economics Letters. She is a member of the European Microfinance Network Research Committee.

ORCID number: 0000-0002-4354-9488

Bert D'Espallier (bert.despallier@kuleuven.be) is an associate professor in financial management at the Faculty of Economics and Business (KU Leuven, Belgium). He is also affiliated to the Centre for European Research in Microfinance (CERMi), the Center for Research on Social Enterprises and Microfinance (CERSEM, Agder, Norway), and the Antwerp Management School (Antwerp, Belgium). His research is on microfinance and social enterprises with ongoing research projects on subsidization of microfinance, institutional transformations in microfinance, female entrepreneurship in emerging economies and informal savings groups.

Website: <https://feb.kuleuven.be/bert.despallier>

Maren Duvendack (m.duvendack@uea.ac.uk) has a PhD in development economics from the University of East Anglia (UEA), UK. Her key research areas cover applied micro-econometrics, impact evaluation, systematic reviews and meta-analysis, microfinance, women's empowerment, replication and reproduction of quantitative analyses as well as research ethics. After completing her PhD she joined the International Food Policy Research Institute in Washington DC as a Postdoctoral Fellow before joining the Overseas Development Institute in London as a Research Fellow in evaluation and impact assessment. She is now a Senior Lecturer in the School of International Development at the University of East Anglia where she is mainly teaching on the MSc Impact Evaluation for International Development.

Website: <https://people.uea.ac.uk/en/persons/m-duvendack>

ORCID number: 0000-0002-8125-9115

Adriana Garcia (a.garcia@rug.nl) is a PhD Candidate at the University of Groningen, The Netherlands. Her research interests lie in Finance and Development, Impact Evaluation and Applied Microeconometrics. Her dissertation focuses on the social impact of Microfinance and Microfinance-Plus. She is currently involved in the impact evaluation of a microcredit program in Bolivia, where she has gained field-work experience. She has presented results of her research at international conferences in the United Kingdom, Bolivia and the United States. As a teaching assistant, Adriana has participated in the workshop on Impact Evaluation by the African Economic Research Consortium in Nairobi, Kenya, and the summer schools Financial Inclusion and Sustainable Growth, and Experiments in Developing Countries by the University of Groningen.

Website: <https://www.rug.nl/staff/a.garcia/>

ORCID number: 0000-0003-2914-5839

Jann Goedecke (jann.goedecke@kuleuven.be) is a PhD researcher at the Faculty of Economics and Business, KU Leuven (Belgium), and the School of Business and Law, University of Agder (Norway). He is also affiliated with the Center for Research on Social Enterprises and Microfinance (CERSEM), Norway. His research includes topics related to the commercialized business of microfinance, such as the relationship lending model, borrowers' credit risk, and the economic activities of borrowers. He has conducted research in collaboration with institutions such as the Central Bank of Mexico and the Ecuadorian lender Banco D-MIRO.

ORCID number: 0000-0002-2288-8464 (JG)

Isabelle Guérin is a senior research fellow at the Institute of Research for Development (CESSMA, Centre d'Etudes en Sciences Sociales sur les Mondes Américains, Africains et Asiatiques), France, and an associate researcher at the French Institute of Pondicherry, India, and CERMI. She specializes in the political and moral economics of money, debt and finance. Her current work focuses on how financialization of the economy can lead to new forms of inequalities and domination, but also to alternative and solidarity-based initiatives. Her work combines ethnography and statistical analyses drawing from her own field-based data. Isabelle's latest books in English include The Crises of Microcredit (coedited with Marc Labie and Jean-Michel Servet, Zed Books, 2015), and Under Development: Gender (coedited with Christine Verschuur and Hélène Guétat-Bernard, Palgrave, 2014).

Website: <http://www.cessma.univ-paris-diderot.fr/spip.php?article261>

ORCID number: 0000-0002-4476-0074

Valentina Hartarska (hartarska@auburn.edu) is an alumni professor at the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, and at the Department of Finance, Auburn University, USA. She received her PhD from the Ohio State University. Dr Hartarska's work has been published in the Journal of Money, Credit, and Banking, Journal of Banking and Finance, World Development, Applied Economics, European Financial Management, Journal of Real Estate Finance and Economics, as well as in Food Policy and the American Journal of Agricultural Economics, among others. She has consulted for the World Bank and was a fellow with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and with Fulbright.

Website: <http://aers.auburn.edu/valentina-hartarska/>

ORCID number: 0000-0001-7424-8808

Brian Hathaway (behathaw@wharton.upenn.edu) is a doctoral student in the Management (MGMT) and Legal Studies & Business Ethics (LGST) departments at the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania (USA). He studies how organizations create, negotiate, and respond to perceptions of their impact on society, drawing on prior work in organizational identity, organizational stigma, and social entrepreneurship. Prior to commencing his doctoral studies, Brian worked as a strategy consultant and as a policy analyst for the Manhattan district attorney's office.

ORCID number: 0000-0002-1201-0762

Niels Hermes (c.l.m.hermes@rug.nl) is a full professor of International Finance and Chair of the Department of Economics, Econometrics and Finance of the Faculty of Economics and Business, University of Groningen. He is associate member of the Center for Research on Social Enterprises and Microfinance (CERSEM, Norway), associate researcher of the Centre for European Research in Microfinance (CERMi), and member of the Institute for Governance and Organizational Responsibility (iGOR, University of Groningen). His research focuses on international finance, microfinance and corporate governance. He has published on these topics in journals such as Economic Journal, World Development, Journal of Development Studies, Journal of Banking and Finance, Corporate Governance: An International Review, Journal of Economic Surveys, and Small Business Economics.

Website: <https://www.rug.nl/staff/c.l.m.hermes/>

Frédéric Huybrechs (frederic.huybrechs@uantwerpen.be) is a post-doc researcher at the Institute of Development Policy (IOB), University of Antwerp, Belgium. He currently studies the role of microfinance in the advancement of the cattle-driven agricultural frontier in Nicaragua. In his PhD thesis, he analyzed the topic of Green Microfinance from a political ecology perspective and in the context of rural development. He conducted fieldwork in Nicaragua in order to analyze a particular green microfinance project which combined green credits with payments for ecosystem services and technical assistance. He is also a member of the action group “Green Inclusive and Climate Smart Finance” of the European Microfinance Platform and has been involved in a consultancy project on Green Microfinance in Latin America for the Inter-American Development Bank.

Website: www.uantwerpen.be/frederic-huybrechs

ORCID number: 0000-0002-6430-3444

Robert Lensink (b.w.lensink@rug.nl) is a professor of finance at the University of Groningen, and part-time at Wageningen University, The Netherlands. He is a development economist with experience in field studies, including impact evaluations. He was the chair of the International Review Panel of the International Initiative of Impact Evaluation (3ie) Open Window to select proposals for impact evaluation in developing countries. He published more than 100 articles in international journals, among which are the American Economic Review, Economic Journal, Management Science, Public Economics, and World Development. In 2011 he won the SOM Outstanding Researcher Award (best researcher of the Faculty of Economics and Business, University of Groningen). Robert has been appointed Officer of the Order of Orange-Nassau.

ORCID number: 0000-0001-6448-5164

Roy Mersland (roy.mersland@uia.no) is a professor at the School of Business and Law at the University of Agder (UiA), Norway. He has extensive experience in the field of microfinance as a researcher, consultant and manager. Roy is the director of PhD Education at the School of Business and Law at the UiA and the director of the Center for Research in Social Enterprises and Microfinance (CERSEM) at UiA. He is also an associated member of CERMi.

Website: <https://cersem.uia.no/>

ORCID number: 0000-0002-6683-2737

Jonathan Morduch (jonathan.morduch@nyu.edu) is a professor of public policy and economics at the Wagner Graduate School of Public Service at New York University. His research focuses on poverty and finance. He is the author with Rachel Schneider of The Financial Diaries: How American Families Cope in a World of Uncertainty (Princeton 2017). He is also co-author of Portfolios of the Poor: How the World's Poor Live on $2 a Day (Princeton 2009), The Economics of Microfinance (MIT Press 2010), and Economics (McGraw-Hill 2017, 2nd ed.), an introductory text. He is a coeditor of Banking the World: Empirical Foundations of Financial Inclusion (MIT Press).

Website: <https://wp.nyu.edu/jmorduch/>

ORCID number: 0000-0002-1837-9579

Solène Morvant-Roux is assistant professor in socioeconomy at the University of Geneva; she is sponsored by the Swiss National Research Foundation (SNSF). She works in Mexico on the financialization of social reproduction. Her latest publications are: “Fragmented rural communities: The faenas of Prospera at the interface of community cooperation and state dependency”, with C. Crucifix, in Money from the Government in Latin America: Conditional Cash Transfer Programs and Rural Lives (edited by Maria Elisa Balen and Martin Fotta, Routledge, 2019) and “Microfinance and financial inclusion”, with P. Mader, in Handbook of Social Policy and Development (edited by L. Halfers and J. Midgley, Edward Elgar Publishing, forthcoming).
 Website: <https://www.unige.ch/sciences-societe/ideso/recherche/morvant-roux>
 ORCID number: 0000-0003-2609-268X

Denis Nadolnyak (nadolda@auburn.edu) is a professor in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, Auburn University, USA. He holds a PhD degree from the Ohio State University and an MS degree from the Central European University. Dr Nadolnyak specializes in policy impact analysis and productivity. He has published in the American Journal of Agricultural Economics, International Journal of Industrial Organization, Land Use Policy, Applied Economics, World Development, Sustainability, and China Agricultural Economics Review, among others. His research has been funded by the National Oceanic Association and the National Institute of Food and Agriculture, United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), and the Economics’ Research Service, USDA.
 ORCID number: 0000-0003-0961-8141

Timothy Ogden (@timothyogden) is managing director of the Financial Access Initiative, a research center focused on financial services for low-income households, and an adjunct professor at NYU-Wagner (USA). He is also a senior fellow of the Aspen Institute’s Economic Opportunities Program. Tim writes and speaks frequently on topics of financial inclusion, poverty, economic development, financial services innovation, social investment and philanthropy. Ogden serves as a director of Sona Partners, chairman of GiveWell and as president of the BBS Foundation. He has developed and edited more than 20 books, and is co-author of Toyota Under Fire (McGraw Hill, 2011). His recent book, Experimental Conversations (MIT Press, 2016), is a collection of interviews of leading economists on randomized control trials in development economics.
 Website: www.econ-versations.com

Kwame Ohene Djan (kwame.o.djan@uia.no) is a recently graduated PhD candidate from the School of Business and Law, University of Agder (UiA), Kristiansand, Norway. He holds a Master of Science degree in International Management from UiA and a Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting from the Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology (KNUST), Kumasi, Ghana. His former experience includes teaching and working in banking institutions. His research interests include ownership, corporate governance and performance of microfinance institutions.
 Website: <https://cersem.uia.no/>
 ORCID number: 0000-0002-5253-0228

Jean-Michel Servet (jean-michel.servet@graduateinstitute.ch) is an honorary professor of the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies in Geneva, Switzerland, and an associate researcher at CERMi, and Triangle Center (Ecole Normale Supérieure de Lyon, CNRS, Université Lyon 2), France. He has undertaken fieldwork in Western and Northern Africa, South India, Latin America and Western Europe, for the last 40 years. Jean-Michel's work deals with social finance and solidarity alternatives, financial inclusion, local and complementary money, financial globalization, commons, and interdisciplinary methods in social sciences. He is also an historian of economic thought, co-editor of Auguste and Léon Walras (Economica, 1987–2005) and of a new translation of Adam Smith's Wealth of Nations (Economica, 2000–2005). His last books are La vraie révolution du microcredit (Odile Jacob, 2015) and L'économie comportementale en question (Charles Léopold Mayer, 2018).

Gert Van Hecken (Gert.vanhecken@uantwerpen.be) is a lecturer in international cooperation and development at the Institute of Development Policy, University of Antwerp. His main expertise and research interests lie in the area of global and local environmental governance and development, and more specifically in the local socio-political dynamics triggered by climate change and development finance instruments, such as carbon and biodiversity markets and payments for ecosystem services. His research has been focused on Central and South America, and mainly builds on insights from political ecology, ecological economics, and critical geography. He has lived and worked for more than a decade in Nicaragua, both as a researcher and as the country representative for a Belgian rural development NGO.

Website: <https://www.uantwerpen.be/en/staff/gert-vanhecken/>

ORCID number: 0000-0001-8496-3194

Baptiste Venet (baptiste.venet@dauphine.psl.eu) is an assistant professor at Paris-Dauphine University, France. He is a co-director of the Master Program "Sustainable Development and Corporate Responsibility" and a member of the LEDa (Laboratoire d'Économie de Dauphine) – UMR DIAL and of the CERMi (Center for European Research in Microfinance). He works on development finance, informal financial sector, individual microcredit, digital financial services, and the relationship between microfinance institutions and their funding institutions.

Laurent Weill (laurent.weill@unistra.fr) is a full professor of economics at University of Strasbourg (France). He is the director of the research centre in finance (LaRGE) of University of Strasbourg, and a member of CERMi. He has co-founded and is co-supervisor of the Executive MBA "Islamic Finance" at the University of Strasbourg. His research focuses on banking and institutions in emerging markets, with a focus on Islamic finance (Islamic banking, sukuk). He has published more than 90 papers in academic journals. He has been a research fellow and a visiting researcher at the Bank of Finland. He was visiting researcher at Université Libre de Bruxelles. He is visiting professor in Charles University in Prague, MGIMO University in Moscow, and Université Libre de Bruxelles.

Website: <https://sites.google.com/site/laurentweillstrasbourg>
ORCID number: 0000-0002-8630-1351

Tigist Woldetsadik Sommeno (tigist.w.sommeno@uia.no) is a PhD research fellow in International Business at the University of Agder (UiA), Norway. She holds a Master of Philosophy degree in Health Economics, and a Master of Philosophy degree in Environment and Development Economics from the University of Oslo, Norway. She also completed a Master's degree in Microfinance from the University of Bergamo, Italy. Her research interests include internationalization of hybrid organizations like MFIs, social capital formation and post-conflict microfinance.
Website: <https://cersem.uia.no/>

Tyler Wry (twry@wharton.upenn.edu) is an assistant professor of management and entrepreneurship at the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania (USA). His research focuses on the mixing of multiple meaning systems within and around organizations and its entanglement with issues such as organizational identity, entrepreneurship, and social impact. Tyler's work has appeared in outlets such as Academy of Management Annals, Academy of Management Journal, Academy of Management Review, Journal of Business Venturing, and Organization Science.
Website: <https://mgmt.wharton.upenn.edu/profile/twry/>

Stephen Zamore (stephen.zamore@uia.no) is a recently graduated PhD candidate from the School of Business and Law, University of Agder (UiA), Kristiansand, Norway. Previously, he worked as a lecturer in Financial Intermediation at the School of Business and Law, University for Development Studies, Wa campus, Ghana. He holds a Master of Science degree in International Management from UiA and Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting from the Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology, Kumasi, Ghana. He has published several articles in the field of risk management and efficiency of microfinance institutions as well as on international financial reporting standards (IFRS), and IFRS for small and medium enterprises (SMEs).
Website: <https://cersem.uia.no/>
ORCID number: 0000-0002-2362-5981