
Figures

2.1	Model of entrepreneurial behavior	17
4.1	A map of academic stances towards entrepreneurial process	71
4.2	A map of aspects of entrepreneurial process	75
4.3	A meta map of conversations about entrepreneurial process	77
6.1	Presenting WUR Circular Fashion at the Tafel van W	103
6.2	Behind the scenes at an AMFI graduation show	110
6.3	Even though I was not on the barricades that day, I was styled for it	112
6.4	Presenting YOI at a trade show with my best friend Annouk, the creative director of the company	113
6.5	YOI guerilla campaigning around Amsterdam	114
6.6	The eco-accessories collection created by women in the favelas of Rio de Janeiro, worn on the catwalk in Amsterdam	116
6.7	My wardrobe depicted as part of the photography project “Out of the Green Closet”	117
6.8	Launch of Fashion for Good, March 2017, Amsterdam	119
6.9	Three of my outfits showcased during “Wear I am”, an exhibition of my wardrobe	120
6.10	Launch of WUR Circular Fashion during Tafel van W dinner event in Wageningen	121
10.1	LoopMe as a system of input, process and output	207
10.2	Historical overview showing graphical design of four different versions of LoopMe	210
10.3	Rich data collected through LoopMe, aggregated into statistics relating authentic tasks to learning outcomes	216
10.4	Four different task types possible to craft in LoopMe	221
11.1	From the individual to the venture: aggregation models, homologous relations and cross-level effects	249
11.2	From the venture to the international level: aggregation models, homologous relations and cross-level effects	250
15.1	Course process	338